

Booters Seek Fourth, Battle Colgate Today

Seeking their fourth victory in five soccer appearances, Coach Bill Jeffrey's booters tangle with Colgate's Red Raiders on the varsity soccer field, behind the East stands of New Beaver field, at 3:30 p.m. today.

The Lions, conquerors of last year's "unofficial" Eastern soccer champ, Maryland, in a close 1-0 contest last weekend, will once again march onto the field as the favorite.

Last year the Blue and White travelled to Hamilton, N.Y., and were surprised by a strong Colgate eleven and narrowly squeezed by with a 2-1 win. Although favored today, the Lions will have a tough contest on their hands.

TOUGHEST

Coach Jeffrey recently stated: "Maryland and Temple will be our two toughest opponents this year." Since the Lions outscored Maryland last week the only serious obstacle now is Temple's Owls.

The soccermen, sporting one of the best won-and-lost records of any of the College's athletic teams throughout the years, have triumphed over Army, Bucknell and Maryland this season but dropped an unsuspected tilt to Navy's booters.

Only one of the Lion regulars will be absent from the starting lineup when the two teams square off this afternoon. Chuck Margolf, star defensive fullback, plagued by a leg muscle injury, will not be able to take the field and will be replaced by Jim Kline.

TAUCHER

Kline and Frank Taucher, other fullback starter, played excellent defensive games last weekend. It was mainly their alert play that prevented the Terps from Maryland from scoring.

Ed Taggart, lanky goal tender, is Jeffrey's choice for that spot with Jim Gibson slated for relief duty guarding the net.

Soccer Change

At the request of Colgate officials, the Penn State-Colgate soccer game, originally carded for this Saturday, has been moved forward to today at 2 p.m., according to Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics. The contest will be played on the New Beaver soccer field.

The shift in date, Gilbert said, will allow the Colgate booters to return to Hamilton, N. Y., for Colgate's alumni Homecoming weekend.

with Ted Lieb receiving the nod as his flank man.

Clarence Buss, alert center forward, will receive the center berth although he is being challenged for that position by George Phillips, scorer of the winning tally last week.

WITMER

Soccer captain Dean Witmer and veteran performer Hal Hackman are the starters on the other side of the line with Dick Yegley seeing possible relief duty.

Bob Tscheringer, captain of the Lion jayvee booters, most likely will see some action as will speedy and accurate passing Harry Laworski.

Jeffrey's trio of able halfbacks, Bill Kraybill, Ralph Hosterman and Dick Hanna, will start the game at their respective positions.

Fan Predicts Lions Will Do It Again

One Illinois fan who is 100 percent behind the Nittany squad returned a form request for a Daily Collegian with the following note: "I'd like to read something besides a lot of Mid-west football propaganda. More power to the Penn State team—they'll do it again."

He emphatically stated at the bottom of the order, "Don't delay, send my subscription now!"

Football a la Fem

By Clarice Linnch

Those 24,000 fans who were packed into New Beaver Field last Saturday have added their voices to the ones already clamoring for an enlarged seating capacity. The fans who couldn't get in are shouting even louder.

Enlarging or building new stands would involve more problems than the usual monetary and technical ones, for one wag once said that a university is a college which can boast of a stadium that will seat over 50,000.

Someday scientists are going to find something better than pigskin for regulation footballs. Just think of all the beautiful pigskin gloves that will be cheaper when this happens.

NYLON

And speaking of clothing, when do the Lions get those nylon uniforms and plastic helmets we've been hearing about? Maybe someday the Lions will have a reputation as the best dressed football team in the country.

Patriotism comes first; that's why the Penn State-Colgate game really should be played on July 4. The Colgate red coupled with Penn State's white and blue would make appropriate field decorations.

Why must all colleges pick on the overworked standard colors? It would make things more interesting if some more unusual shades could be seen. For example, toast, charcoal, mint green, or aqua could be used.

While watching the Penn State-Michigan State game last Saturday, we learned why every spectator, especially nervous ones, should have a program. At crucial points in a game the program tastes much better than finger-nails.

In the radio broadcasts of the Penn State games, why do the sports announcer and the scoreboard invariably differ by one yard? To the first person coming up with the right answer we will award one slightly-used football (you inflate it yourself).

Lions Favored To Trounce Cornell Harriers Tomorrow

Still smarting from the 21-36 drubbing at the hands of Michigan State's "wonder team" last Saturday, the Nittany Lion harriers are expected to roar with a vengeance tomorrow against Cornell at the Ithacans' home course.

The Lions will be aiming for their second dual win of the season tomorrow. Three weeks ago they trounced NYU, 19-36, at Van Cortland park, the Violets' cross-country home.

Their chances of coming home with a victory from the Big Red appear excellent. Cornell seems to be far from a power in Eastern cross-country circles this year. The boys from Cayuga's waters have won two meets and dropped

Blue and White harriers have trounced the Big Red, 15-40.

Both Chick Werner and Assistant Coach Norm Gordon are exhibiting plenty of confidence on the eve of the Cornell encounter. The Lion mentors believe the present crop of cross-countrymen is one of the finest in the history of the College.

Undoubtedly the team has one of the best, if not the best cross-country runners in the nation in the person of Captain Horace Ashenfelter. Following Ashenfelter's record-breaking performance against the Spartans Saturday, Coach Werner commented:

"I don't expect to live long enough to see another race like that one."

WILLIAMS

Another lift to the squad is the return of speedy Mitch Williams, who had been out for the past three weeks with a bad knee. Williams has been working out with the team all week and will make the trip to Ithaca today.

Twelve men, Ashenfelter, Don Longenecker, Al Porto, John St. Clair, Bob Parsons, John Bates, Bob Freebairn, John McCall, Bob Auman, Williams, Al Vigilante, and another man to be chosen from among Hal Borck, Bob Bour, Paul Koch, and Hal Wilson, will leave at 11 a.m. today for the trip to the home of the Big Red.

the same number in dual competition this year.

They opened their hill-and-dale season with a perfect 15-50 win over Colgate, followed the next week with another win over Dartmouth, 20-42, and then lost two in a row, 18-37 to Army's grey-shirted cadets, and 15-48 to Syracuse.

Donald Young, who finished sixth in last year's meet, and two juniors, Bob West and Bob Fite, will carry the hopes of the Cornellians in tomorrow's meet.

For the past two seasons the
