

Dulles Charges Slav Filibuster

PARIS—The Soviet Union and other nations in its political orbit have been accused by American delegate John Foster Dulles of filibustering tactics at the United Nations political committee meetings. Dulles said the Slav block nations are attempting to delay a solution to the Balkan problem with their tactics. The Slav nations denied the charge, but members of the assembly voted to place a 10-minute time limit on future speeches.

DEMOCRATS GATHER 1 12 . . . KEY WEST—High-ranking officials in the Democratic party are starting to gather at President Truman's vacation spot in Key West, Florida. It is expected that the bigwigs in the Democratic election victory will map plans for suggestions to be made to Congress and possible renovations in the president's cabinet.

Army Offers Posts to Vets

Young men who have served in the armed forces and who have completed two years in college are being offered commissions in the Army under the War Department's new expansion program.

Col. Ben-H. Chastaine, professor of military science and tactics, announced yesterday that, because of the necessity of obtaining junior officer personnel, such men would be offered Reserve commissions as second lieutenants for two years active duty. They will be used principally in training draftees under the 1948 Selective Service Act.

Present and former members of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Marine or Air Forces who have left college after two years attendance and are between 19 and 32 are eligible, said Col. Chastaine.

Further information is available at ROTC headquarters, at the State College Organized Reserve and at the local Army Recruiting station.

Critique Awards 'Guest of Week'

Critique's "Guest of the Week" for an expense-free Penn weekend was Frank McKean, third semester commerce and finance major, at the drawing held in 5 Carnegie Hall Friday evening.

McKean, a member of Phi Gamma Delta, was awarded two tickets for the Penn State-Penn game, free transportation both ways, and hotel accommodations for the weekend. His entry was picked by Vance Klepper, Collegian Business Manager, and Critique editor Ralph Lewis made the award.

In view of the wide acceptance of the magazine promotion idea, Critique will continue the plan for the Pitt game choosing from subscriptions purchased between now and November 19. Persons eligible for the recent contest will not be able to take part in the next one.

Subscriptions may be purchased from any member of the Critique staff or at the magazine office in 5 Carnegie Hall.

Can-Can Girls Cause Sensation Among Male Players

Rehearsing for the coming Players' arena production, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" calls for more than dramatic ability. Jugglers, magicians, and even can-can dancers have been seen in every conceivable place including the hallways of Old Main, rehearsing for the Gay Nineties melodrama.

The can-can dancers, under the direction of Sarajane Cherashore, caused quite a sensation among male members of the cast when they appeared in costume last night. The costumes, which cost $65 for the material alone, consist of picture hats with plumes, a strapless bodice, and short-short skirts exposing ruffled pantaloons. In Gypsy Rose Lee fashion, stockings are black with sequined garters. Gold shoes add the final contrast.

Good seats still remain for the arena show to be produced Friday and Saturday night at center stage. Tickets at $1.25 include refreshments and may be purchased at Student Union. The curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

Reserve Station Seeks Workers

A call for men experienced in electronics and radio work to aid in construction and operation of the Naval Reserve radio station here was issued yesterday by Lieut. Francis Yonker, commander of Electronic Warfare company 4-2, Naval Reserve.

The station, to be housed in Engineering E, now has received a 280-watt telephone and telegraph transmitter and receiver. It will go on the air as soon as construction is completed. Scheduling two hours of broadcasting every Tuesday evening, the station will maintain radio contact with other stations throughout the Fourth Naval district for both practice and emergency work.

Physics Department to Exhibit Portraits of Nobel Winners

Professor Harold K. Schilling, head of the physics department, has announced the mounting of a permanent exhibition of portraits of Nobel prize winners in the first floor hall of Osmond laboratory. The portraits, fifty in number, are of scientists who have won the Nobel prize for physics.

The portrait drawings were made by Carola Spaeth Hauschka, of Princeton. The pencil drawings, about 4 by 6 inches in size, were enlarged photographically by Robert S. Beese, assistant in agricultural photography at the College. The enlargements were mounted by Wray A. Reed, physics technician.

Purpose of Exhibit

The purpose of assembling this collection, according to Dr. Schilling, is to acquaint students with some of the physicists, especially contemporaries, who have made outstanding contributions, through theory and experiment, to the understanding of physical phenomena. The portraits are arranged in the order of the dates of the awards. Below each, Dean William S. Hoffman has lettered a brief biographical note in which the basis of the award is cited.

Lions Gain Fifth In AP Ratings

Moving from 14th to 5th place, the undefeated Nittany Lion football team surged back into the national spotlight in the weekly Associated Press football poll. Topped only by four undefeated, untied teams, Michigan, Notre Dame, Army and California, Penn State received 840 points from the nation's sportswriters.

The equal and opposite reaction was the drop the formerly undefeated University of Pennsylvania team took from 7th place down to 17th.

Coming out of nowhere, Oklahoma jumped from 15th to 9th by virtue of its win over Missouri and Georgia Tech, losing its first game last week to Tennessee, dropped down to 11th place.

The top ten teams in the country are:

1—Michigan	1836
2—Notre Dame	1775
3—Army	1553
4—California	1244
5—Penn State	805
6—North Carolina	757
7—Southern Methodist	625
8—Northwestern	575
9—Oklahoma	466
10—Clemson	284

Deadline Set For ROTC Applications

Applications for admission to College NROTC units next fall must be received by proper authorities on or before next Monday, November 15. Capt. W. T. McGarry, USN, professor of naval science, made the announcement yesterday.

Interested students should send their applications to the Naval Examining Section, Education Testing Service, Box 709, Princeton, N.J. Entrance tests will be given throughout the nation December 11.

3 Days of Festivities Highlight Antrobus Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Antrobus will celebrate their 5,000th wedding anniversary, November 13. Bells will peal, and the adults and children of State College will prance in the streets with the students and faculty of the College during the three days of festivity.

They have survived and prospered for many an epoch, together with their son, Henry, their daughter, Gladys, and their maid, Sabina. According to a reliable source intimately acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus, they have managed to hold their family together in spite of "fire, pestilence, the seven year locusts, flood, and the ice age, a dozen wars and as many depressions during the first 5,000 years of their eventful marriage."

Mr. Antrobus is the world-renowned scientist and inventor. He has been responsible for the development of a great number of important devices. Some of his most celebrated accomplishments have been the wheel, the lever, the alphabet, gun powder and beer.

In commemoration of the extraordinary longevity of Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus' marital relationship the Penn State Players will faithfully reproduce in a drama several of the more interesting centuries in which this couple has lived. This performance is arranged to coincide with the three day anniversary celebration and will be performed in Schwab Auditorium on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Student Union has announced that a sufficient number of tickets is available.

AIM Council To Elect Heads

The Association of Independent Men's council will elect officers at its second meeting scheduled for 405 Old Main at 7 p.m. tonight.

At its initial meeting Thursday night the council ratified the AIM constitution after the adoption of several minor changes.

Already recognized by All-College Cabinet, the president of the council when elected will be officially inducted into Cabinet at its Thursday meeting. He will act as representative of all independent men at the College.

Jack Lowry, representative of the now-defunct Independent Student Council, will give up his Cabinet seat to the newly-elected AIM council president tomorrow night.

Bortree Supervises Veterinarian Work

Dr. A. L. Bortree has been named head of the College veterinary science work of the animal husbandry department. He will not only instruct but will also supervise research and chemical work.

He received his bachelor of science degree in dairy husbandry at the College in 1939. In 1941 he received a master of science degree in dairy nutrition at Michigan State, and in 1944 his doctorate in Veterinary Medicine at the same school.

From 1944 until the present time, he had been a member of the Michigan State staff in the school of veterinary medicine.

Checkless Veterans Must Report to VA

Veterans who have not received their subsistence allowances for October are asked to report their names and claim numbers to the Veterans Administration office in the Old Zoology building.

Robert Stroud, training officer of the VA, asked that all names be submitted by today. They will be sent to the regional VA office for investigation.

College to Mark Armistice Day

Armistice Day will be observed at the College with brief ceremonies on front campus tomorrow morning, according to officials of the College.

The ROTC band will form in front of Old Main at 10:50 a.m. The Old Main bell will toll from 10:58 a.m. to 10:59 a.m., followed by one minute of silence.

At 11 o'clock, taps will be sounded, the band will play the national Anthem, and the flag, which will have been at half mast since reveille, will be raised by members of the R.O.T.C. and Navy R.O.T.C.

To enable faculty and students to attend the ceremony, 11 o'clock classes will not assemble until 11:10 a.m. Members of the band and students participating in the flag raising will be excused from classes at 10:30 a.m.

Penn. College Officials Meet

A star-studded array of academic and governmental notables officially "broke bread" together following Saturday's game when representatives of the University of Pennsylvania, the College, and the Commonwealth met.

President and Mrs. Harold Stassen represented the University; Acting President and Mrs. James Milholland represented the College; and Mrs. James Duff, the State.

Also present from the College were Coach Bob Higgins, Mrs. Higgins, and Roger W. Rowland, a member of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Rowland.

Mr. and Mrs. Milholland were guests of honor at two other weekend affairs — a Friday night dinner held at the Belevue-Stratford by the Penn State Alumni Club of Philadelphia and a Saturday noon luncheon at Houston Hall tendered by the General Alumni Society of the University of Pennsylvania.
