JUNIOR PI

LEFT-HANDED VIOLINIST PLAYS

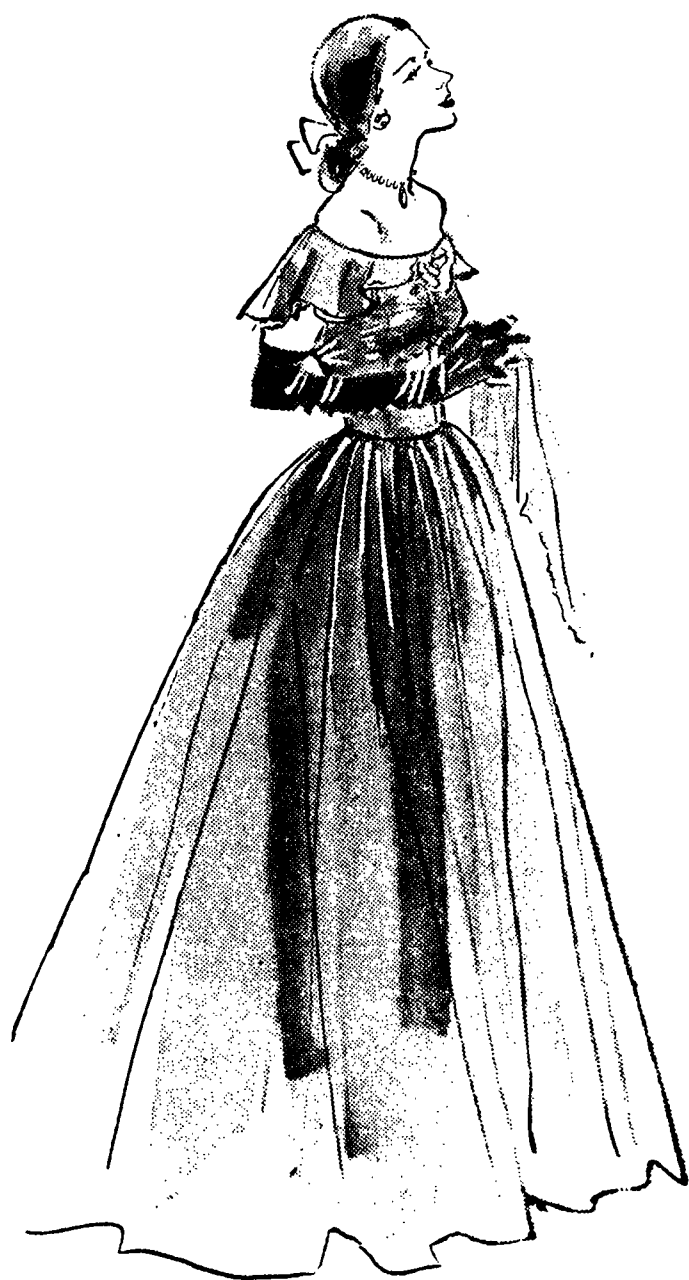

Johnny Long, who brings his orchestra to the campus tonight, owns a distinction equally rare. He pushes a violin bow with his left hand.

The ex-Blue Devil handsman gained his distinguishing talent through the grace of a humble and presumably hungry pig. The rotund animal bit the six-year-old Long on the left hand, severing several tendons. Since Long had already begun his fiddle lessons, his teacher restrung his instrument to permit him to reverse the usual technique.
