WASHINGTON—Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo disclosed yesterday that he had submitted a formal inquiry to the State Department demanding a clarification of America's Far Eastern foreign policy. Meanwhile, the situation in China remained doubtful.

London Celebrates

LONDON—Celebration over the birth of a Prince to Princess Elizabeth continued yesterday, with resolutions of congratulation coming from Parliament and the Irish House of Commons.

College Senate Plans Calendar

A special meeting of the College Senate will be held in 121 Sparks at 4:15 p.m. tomorrow, President Milholland announced yesterday.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the college calendar for 1949-50 and 1950-51 which will be adopted at the December meeting of the Senate.

The Senate committee on calendar, chaired by Ernest W. Callenbach, professor of poultry husbandry, feel that the members of Senate are not fully acquainted with the many factors which should be considered in adopting a calendar. Discussion of a calendar will be the only order of business at the special meeting.

The committee is sending each member of the Senate a list of questions to be considered at the special meeting. All members interested in improving the calendar should attend the special meeting prepared to take part in the discussion.

Student member of the calendar committee are Bernard Miller and Arlene Spencer.

Ag Clubs Plan Harvest Ball

Allen Shain's ten-piece orchestra will be featured at the annual Harvest Ball in Rec Hall, Saturday, December 4. Tickets for the semi-formal, no corsage dance will go on sale tomorrow.

They will be obtainable at Student Union, from members of the committee, and various agricultural clubs. The price is $1.50 per couple, tax included.

Co-chairmen of the dance committee are Ted Jensen and Joseph Slakas. Jayne Pollard heads the ticket committee and is assisted by Chet Christensen and Eugene Welff. Pat Carlyle is chairman of decorations, with Shirley Babb and Lois Peters assisting. Chairman of publicity is Herman Auker assisted by Earl Neuffer and Wallace Schlegel.

Thespians Open Writers' Contest

Thespians are again sponsoring a scenario writing contest for potential playwrights in which a $100 first prize will be awarded to the first place winner. A second prize of $50 and a third prize of $25 will also be awarded.

Contestants are to write a synopsis of a possible Thespian show with at least two of the scenes completed in detail. Entries must be submitted by December 14. Complete rules on the contest will be published soon, said Norman Sims, Thespian president.

This is the second annual Thespian contest of this type. Last year the winners were Pepper Birchard and Jack Saling, first place; Al Pottasch and Budd Zimmerman, second place, and third place, Ted Mann.

College Senate Clarifies Undergraduate Rule

The College Senate incorporated the following line into Rule 56 of the Regulations for Undergraduate Students, edition 1948-1949, "Any student reinstated by the Committee shall be on probation for the ensuing semester."

The entire rule states "A petition for reinstatement by a student who has been dismissed from the College for unsatisfactory scholarship shall be acted upon by the Committee on Academic Standards ONLY upon recommendation of the dean of the school in which the student petitions to enroll. A student may be reinstated only in rare instances in which conditions justify such action in the judgment of the Committee. If a student who has been dismissed has attended another institution in the meantime, he may be admitted by the College Examiner ONLY with the approval of the Committee on Academic Standards and of the dean of the school in which the student wishes to enroll."

Rolston New Soph Prexy; Niesley, Kenyon Win

Kenneth Rolston

Niesley

Kenyon

Kenneth Rolston of the State party became president-elect of the sophomore class, receiving 496 votes against 441 for Lion party candidate Lewis Shallcross.

State's Barbara Niesley won the vice-presidency by a 497 to 435 margin over William Snyder, Lion party. The office of secretary-treasurer, however, went to Lois Kenyon of the Lions, who received 487 votes to Robert Longenecker's 439.

Less than one-third of the class cast ballots, but even this fraction was higher than sophomore voting a year ago. For president, 937 ballots were cast; for vice-president, 932, and for secretary-treasurer, 926.

Said Rolston when the final votes were tabulated: "The campaign is over and it remains for the newly elected officers to direct their efforts to the carrying out of both campaign platforms."

William Lawless, All-College President, congratulated the winners, although he expressed disappointment at the "light" voting. Lawless was elected to his position on the State ticket last May.

The State party declined a penalty award for which it became eligible under the code of the All-College Elections Committee, when a Lion party poster in the polling place was found to contain an irregularity.

Making up the State platform are planks calling for better food in dining commons, establishment of a student press, and replacement of the TUB by a PUB.

Pledges Fight

A continuing fight against "religious and racial discrimination" also was pledged by the State party. Complete platforms of both parties appeared in Saturday's Daily Collegian.

President-elect Rolston will represent his class on All-College Cabinet, with Miss Niesley, as vice-president, substituting for him when necessary.

Miss Kenyon, elected secretary-treasurer, will join the Inter-Class Finance Board, which controls the expenditure of class funds.

Forestry Major

Rolston, a Navy veteran, was at Drexel Institute his first college year. He majors in forestry and is a Pollock Circle resident.

Miss Niesley belongs to the National Quill and Scroll Society, a journalism honorary, and National Honor Society. She attended Bloomsburg State Teachers College her freshman year.

The Lion party victor, Miss Kenyon, is president of a section in Atherton Hall, and belongs to Modern Dance. She spent last year at Wilson College, Chambersburg.

Britain's Big 'Event' Clouds Palestine Discussion

That college professors possess a good sense of humor was borne out by an incident which occurred in Prof. L. Larry Leonard's 2 o'clock Political Science 14 class yesterday.

During the class discussion, the subject of "trust" areas and mandates was brought to the fore. One of the male members of the class volunteered to give an explanation of trust areas. As he proceeded along his line of explanation, he referred to Britain's giving up of her Palestine mandate as "the event," whereupon Professor Leonard inquired if he were referring to the birth of Princess Elizabeth's son.

The student accepted the professor's remark nonchalantly and continued his explanation. His last remark brought down the house when he uttered something to the effect that "I guess the time ran out."

Caps And Gowns

Seniors graduating in January must order their caps, gowns, invitations and announcements according to David Sims, chairman of the caps and gowns committee.

Orders will be taken at the Student Union office between 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m., beginning November 29 and lasting through December 3. Invitations and announcements will be ten cents each and a $5 deposit will be collected for the caps and gowns.

The deposit less rental fees, will be refunded upon the return of the garments.

Tribunal Finds 19 Guilty Of Traffic Violations

Tribunal, in session Monday night, found 19 persons guilty of traffic violations. Of the 26 cases reviewed, seven were deferred because of extenuating circumstances.

Eleven defendants who failed to report to the committee are to call Harold Brown, chairman of Tribunal, at 4679. Anyone who fails to appear next week will have his case turned over to Dean of Men Arthur Warnock.

One of the more serious offenses deliberated on by the eight-man committee was the riding of a motorcycle down the campus pavement. Students are warned to keep off the sidewalks with bicycles, motorcycles and motorbikes.

Tribunal will hold its next session in 201 Old Main at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Bowl Prospects Still Warm—Jones

The hot-and-cold issue of Penn State participation in a post-season football game is still on the warm side, says B. C. (Casey) Jones, president of the Penn State Alumni Association.

Jones told a meeting of the Alumni Association here last night that the unbeaten once-tied Nittany Lions might accept a bowl bid—provided an invitation is extended and provided the "administration and students want to go."

Jones said he referred in particular to the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex. Penn State played Southern Methodist to a 13-13 deadlock last New Year's Day in that bowl.

"That's the way it was last year," Jones said. "It was put up to a vote and the team made the trip to Dallas after the results of the vote showed that was the way the kids wanted it."

Jones said Penn State has not received an invitation to the Cotton Bowl this year. If an invitation is extended, he said, "certain conditions" would have to be changed before the Nittany Lions would accept.

He said he was referring to the fact that the Pennsylvania team, which has three Negro players, was quartered at a Navy barracks near Dallas.

"The barracks were the best but they were too out of the way and the boys didn't take much to
