

'Cat' Fur Flies—

the 1925 Lion gridders put on their greatest game of the season against Pittsburgh even though the final score was 23-7.

As one sportswriter wrote apologetically, "Penn State was outscored but not outplayed." (Gasoline was burned in order to put the field in shape, but this was not to be a hot afternoon for the Lions.) State scored its first T.D. in three years against the Panthers on a fake kick, and pass, Cy Lungren to Mick Weston.

1926: "Pitt Onslaught Conquers Lions in Final Period." Long runs by Gib Welch annul tellar play of battered P.S. team.

Viewing a trip to the West coast, Pitt's Panthers won the Western Championship by downing State 30 to 0 in 1927.

In 1928 Penn State was determined to get its first grid win over Pitt in nine years. But depressed by Toby Uansa's 96-yard touchdown run in the first period, the Lions again limped back to their lair licking their wounds. The score was 26-0 in favor of Pitt.

1929: Penn State made it close but couldn't quite make the grade as Pitt won out, 19-12.

In one of the most one-sided games between the two schools, Pitt's Panthers clawed their way to a 41-6 win in 1931. Four Penn State fumbles in the opening period were instrumental in driving the nails into their own coffin.

TIME SOOTHES ALL ILLS

Evidently feeling the need of a period of reorganization and reconstruction of their battered morale, Coach Bob Higgins' gridders dropped relations with the Panther pack during the years 1932, '33 and '34.

The respite did some good for in 1935, following the resumption of play between the two bitter rivals, the Panthers were limited to a mere 9-0 win.

"Dand: Dick Cassiano Scores Thrice!" This was the headline which greeted early Collegian readers on November 23, 1937, as Pitt's jungle cats gave the Nittany warriors their 24th loss in the 38th meeting of the two colleges, snatching a 26-0 verdict.

COMES THE REVOLUTION!

Headline—"Roaring Lions Revenge 20 Years of Defeat With 10-0 Calsomine." Said Dick Peters, Collegian sports editor, after the 1938 State win, "It took 20 years, but, oh my, the cheers and bonfires are still reverberating up the hazy Nittany valley."

"All things come to him who waits," says the adage and the years between 1941, '42 and '43 were the Lion's time to howl.

In 1941, united behind the slogan "Send Special Delivery Jones to the Dead Letter Office," Penn State's grid machine smashed out a 31-7 nightmare over the toothless Panthers. The Lions were sparked by Pepper Petrella, Bill Smaltz and Captain Len Krouse.

1942: A 14-6 win by Penn State highlighted by a 90-yard second-period touchdown runback by Larry Joe. "Wild" Bill Dutton, who needed only 75 yards to snare the all-time Pitt yardage, was held to a rheumatic two yards, mute testimony of State's stubborn resistance.

THIRD STRAIGHT WIN

Penn State outlasted the Smoky City boys, 14-0, in 1943 to gain their third straight classic win.

The following year Pitt reversed the numerals on the scoreboard to score its own 14-0 win over the Blue and White.

A freak 84-yard run by Pitt's Jimmy Joe Robinson was enough to spell a 7-0 defeat for Penn State in 1945. The game represented one of the most bitterly fought and closely contested grid clashes between the two colleges.

Pitt extended its traditional grid jinx over Penn State to three in a row as the Panther copped the 1946 game, 14 to 7. Again a win over the Blue and Gold would have given Higgins an undefeated season. Elwood Petchel, State's flying fragment, starred in defeat for the Lions.

Last year a bowl-blinded band of marauding Lions reached out with a predatory paw and as Tom Morgan, Collegian sports editor, said, "left cleat-marks in the Panther's hide that will burn and rankle for many moons."

For the 29-0 win put the Lions into the Cotton Bowl. It was State's first perfect nine-game football season, and it left the impression in the minds of many that the 1947 edition was one of the greatest Nittany teams ever to stomp across a gridiron. This P.M.—You call it.
