

Ag Council Shifts Election Date

An amendment to the constitution of Ag Student Council changed the election date of officers from the first meeting of the second semester to the last meeting of the first semester.

Philip Cease, president of council, said that this was done at a recent meeting in order that the new council would have a full semester in which to work.

Retention of voting privileges of all officers whether or not they represented their own club was added by the amendment.

Edgar Loy reported that plans for an Ag faculty-student mixer in the spring are now underway. Arrangements with the faculty are being made. Although no definite date has been selected, the affair will be held during the week of the Ag Frolic.

A report on a centralized bulletin board and distribution point for campus publications was given by William Angstadt. He said that Harold Wilson, vice dean of the school of agriculture, is in favor of a board of the type that now exists on the Mall.

The letter to Mr. Milholland was approved after Mr. Werner pointed out that the schedule approved by the trustees was below that asked a year ago by the chapter, but that it was in line with salaries shown in surveys of some other schools.

The levels did not compare unfavorably with those in a recent survey of 288 colleges and universities, figures which he presented showed. A more recent
