

New Boro Traffic Regulations Start Monday

Stop signs, one-way streets and no-parking areas will go into effect in the fraternity area mid-night Sunday in order to remove safety hazards and to aid the flow of traffic.

The new regulations call for six one-way streets and no parking on one side of 11 streets. Motorists were cautioned by Chief of Police John R. Juba to keep the changes in mind because after Sunday midnight many stop signs will be moved to give one-way streets the right-of-way, particularly on Beaver avenue and Pugh and Burrowes streets.

Important Change
There will be no change on College avenue which will be a through street except for the stop lights at Allen, Burrowes and Atherton. One important change is noted at College and Burrowes where a right turn for westbound traffic will be permitted on the red signal. Left turns from College to Allen will not be allowed.

Allen street has the right-of-way in both directions with the exception of the intersection at College avenue.

One-way streets, running from north to south, are S. Burrowes and S. Pugh.

Those running from south to north are Frazier and Locust Lane.

Calder alley will be one-way from east to west and Highland alley will be one way from west to east.

Stop signs on Burrowes will be placed at Calder alley, Beaver, Foster and Nittany. The one-way ends at Fairmount avenue.

Frazier Street
On Frazier street, stop signs will be on both corners facing Calder alley, Beaver, Highland alley, Foster and Nittany.

Pugh stop signs will be placed at Calder alley, Beaver, Foster, Nittany and at the intersection on Fairmount facing Pugh.

For Locust Lane, signs will be placed on Calder alley, Beaver, Foster, Nittany, Fairmount and Prospect.

Fairmount is through traffic from Atherton to Allen and from Allen to Locust Lane. Calder alley is one-way west with signs on the through streets.

Complete details of the plan may be found on a map appearing elsewhere on this page.

The regulations were drawn by a special traffic committee appointed by Borough Council.

The thick black lines in the above map mean no parking on those sides of the streets.

More Freshmen

High School graduates in increasing numbers are clamoring for admission to the Pennsylvania State College.

Dean of Admissions William S. Hoffman said today applicants for admission as freshmen next Fall already number 4966 as compared with 3081 at the end of January last year.

He estimated that ex-service-men among the new applicants represent only about ten percent of the total.
