Choose Wisely

Among the more beneficial and time-honored of campus traditions is the annual custom of the senior class to donate something useful to the College.

Former classes have left outdoor benches, scholarship and loan funds, the Old Main mural, the Lion Shrine, the scoreboard at Beaver Field and money toward the establishment of a student press.

Class gifts which withstood the test of years, are those which are still useful or inspiring. They must have been chosen with care, after widespread deliberation.

For the next week or so, the senior class gift committee will be accepting suggestions for the class of '49 gift, at the Student Union desk. They will be screened for later presentation to the entire class.

A special effort will be made this year to have every member of the class voice his opinion. Voting will coincide with orders for caps and gowns, invitations and announcements.

Postcard ballots will be sent to those who graduated in January, as well as to practice teachers. These precautions will preclude any excuse of not having a chance to participate in the decision of the class.

But before any voting can take place, all possible worthwhile suggestions should be presented for consideration. This does not happen automatically; someone must take the initiative.

The class of '49 naturally wants to make the wisest possible choice of a gift. That is, it must get the most for its money, and select the item which will do the most people the most good. Each member should take an active interest in the selection.

Students To Draw For Stock Entries

Block and Bridle will hold drawings for animals to be entered in its annual "Little International" livestock show in 306 Agriculture at 7 p.m. Tuesday, said Samuel Ranck, publicity chairman for the show. Named after the International livestock show held in Chicago each November, the College's exposition will be held in the Agriculture School pavilion April 30.

Entrants

Any student can enter, said Ranck, and in addition to showing beef cattle, swine, sheep, and horses, there will be several special feature events this year. All animals used in the show are from the College's purebred herds, and the student drawing any particular animal fits and shows it.

Stock will be judged on showmanship and fitting by men from outside the College. Last year Centre County Agent L. H. Bull was on the board of judges.

Prizes

Some of the prizes given last year were three live animals, an electric animal clipper, and several magazine subscriptions. All prizes were donated. Prizes for this year have not been determined but will be comparable to those awarded last year, according to Ranck.

FOR RENT

ONE ROOM for graduate student. Call 4761.

Behind the Wheels

by Loretta Neville

Scene at Ath Hall: A man's jacket hanging on a water plug outside one coed's window on the ground floor. My question is—Was he coming out or going in? Which ever it was he must have been in a terrific hurry because the jacket has been there for nearly a week. Better remove the evidence, mister!

Janet Lyons, being a true lover of nature, had four goldfish in her room. Their names were none other than Eeenie, Meenic, Meinie, and Mo. Recently, while Janet was preparing to change the water in her friends' bowl (she did it twice a day), Mo slipped out of her hand and landed on the floor. Janet rescued him but when she put him back in the water she noticed his motor system was seriously impaired—he couldn't submerge!

The dance program at a recent get-together listed among the affair's guests a "Mr. and Mrs. Pearl O. Weston." Coincidence or misprint?????

After reading Red Roth's column concerning the independence of campus coeds I am beginning to wonder just what it is that's bothering him. From some of his recent descriptions of the feminine "class" around here one would think we are a bunch of sad-looking, dissipated cows who really shouldn't be quite so choosy since the majority of us resemble Gravel Gertie more than Lana Turner (don't answer that, Red!).

Because man never finds fault with man let these Mr. Anthony-I-Have-a-Problem boys think this over. Either get your nickels earlier, stand in that fraternity line sooner, be suave enough when you first meet her that she will break all other dates and patiently wait for your call (this is advised only for Clark Gable's), or meet her for breakfast, lunch, and dinner to prevent outside competition. If none of these work—give up, my friend. You will no doubt be broke anyhow so spend that last pittance on something that will quench your thirst and drown your sorrows—then try again next week.
