

Collegiate Debaters Favor Outlawing Veto Barriers

In an effort to strengthen the United Nations, debaters from 25 Pennsylvania colleges favor the elimination of the use of vetoes as an absolute legislative barrier.

This decision was reached by the committee on the Maintenance of the Peace at the 14th annual weekend Pennsylvania Debaters conference at the College.

If this cannot be accomplished, the committee recommends a Federation of the World to replace the United Nations, the federation to be created under a constitution providing for amendments by a two-thirds vote of the constituent states and not subject to veto by any individual state.

International Police

The committee also recommends that the establishment of a strong International Police Force to be used at the discretion of a two-third vote of the United Nations General Assembly or similar executive body of a Federation. Regional pacts that tend to divide the world into opposing camps should be restricted in the interest of a "united world."

The President of the United States, the committee said, should urge and assist the United Nations to effect a general reduction of armaments, to direct and control the institution and administration of all economic or relief programs, and aggressively spread by speech and practice the fundamental concepts of the democratic way of life.

Aid to Education

The committee on Improvement of Education favored Federal financial aid "to the several states to improve their facilities for educating the children of the United States."

Upon receiving the federal aid, the committee would require each state to maintain a specified minimum expenditure in tax supported elementary and secondary schools and provide a minimum salary of $3,000 for elementary and secondary teachers.

The committee also stressed that "the Federal government should not have authority to control either curriculum or to hire and fire school personnel in any state or school district."

Hopper Elected

At the closing session of the conference, Jeff Hopper, of Allegheny College, was named president of the State Association, succeeding Richard K. Hill, of Butler, a senior at the College. Harry Green, of Pitt, and Margaret McGill, of Mount Mercy College, were named vice-presidents.

Barbara Bounds, a student at Allegheny College, was chosen the Gavel Girl for 1949. Last year, Dorothy Knowles, of the College, held the title. Among the finalists for the title this year was Doris Jean Hootman, also of the College.

Critique Plans Radical Change

Page dimensions and price will be the only features of the coming issue of Critique which will be familiar to the magazine's readers.

The staff, under the direction of editor Ralph Lewis, is planning a magazine type which is seldom found on a college campus. With a treatment paralleling that of Life, Critique will be primarily a photo magazine designed to bring to the students pictorial accounts of off-the-scene life at Penn State.

The photo motif will even extend to the advertising wherein campus personalities will be featured as models. In addition to photos, Critique will continue to publish some of the types of feature material which have been most popular among students, including short stories and poems.

Not only the format, but the size of the magazine will change, as evidenced by present plans calling for 64 pages in the next issue, scheduled for publication in the near future. On the 64 pages will appear approximately 100 photos and features, among which will be a pictorial feature on the inside of the College president's home.

In disclosing that there would be no change in the 15 cent price, Lewis explained that the new Critique is to be a product of the photo-offset printing method which allows for great economy in the use of photographs.

Belgian Specialist Begins Research

Dr. Simone Dormal, an international exchange fellow from Belgium, has arrived at the College for six months study and research on the chemistry of insecticides and fungicides.

Dr. Dormal received her undergraduate and doctorate degrees from the University of Lovain, has worked for several years at the Institut Agronomique at Haverle, Belgium, and is a specialist in the chemistry of pest control products.

Dorm Starts War To Stamp Out Swearing

A new kind of war, one to stamp out swearing, began last week in Pollock Circle's Dorm 2.

A group in the Circle launched a clean-up offensive against abusing the English language, by forming a no-swearing club. According to the rules, when a member swears he is subject to a 5 cent fine for each word.

After a trial week, one member said he had little trouble restraining himself except in situations like banging his finger with a hammer. The only immediate results of this campaign were the observers who were shocked by outbursts of the "holy cow" "gee whiz" type of cursing.

Money collected from defaulting members is being kept in a pool, to be used for a beer party. This action may lead purists to battle over which is more desirable—alcohol or bad language.

ISPi Presents Curie Lecture

The annual Marie Curie lecture, sponsored by Iota Sigma Pi, women's chemistry honor society, will be given this year by Mrs. Evelyn Chostner Marboe, assistant professor at the College.

The subject of her lecture, which will be given in 119 Osmond Lab at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 5, will be "Gas Evolution from Supersaturated Liquids".

Mrs. Marboe received her B.S. in chemistry from Wayne University in 1941 and an M.S. in the same field from the College in 1943. At the present time Mrs. Marboe is an assistant professor in the School of Mineral Industries. She is in charge of a research program operating under a contract with the Office of Naval Research at Washington, D. C.

Waring to Salute College Over NBC

Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians will salute Penn State over the NBC network 10 a.m. March 30.

Attending the 30-minute program will be the Penn State Glee Club, which departs next Monday on a one-week tour. The Glee Club sings in New York Tuesday night and will be guests for the Wednesday morning broadcast before departing for their Wednesday night concert in Allentown.

Waring, a former student at the College and now a member of the Board of Trustees, has on numerous occasions remembered Penn State on his national broadcasts. In October 1947, Waring brought his orchestra to the campus and three of his programs were broadcast from Schwab Auditorium.

Delta Sigma Phi

Delta Sigma Phi held a Sailor's Ball at the fraternity house Saturday night. Pat Patterson and his band played for dancing from 9 to 12.

The house was decorated in a nautical manner. Entrance into the house was by means of a gang-plank.

Summer session time tables are now available at the scheduling office.

Shirley Gauger, House Prexy Plans May Day Festivities

When the May Day Queen and her court appear on campus Saturday of Mother's Day weekend, the WSGA House of Representatives will realize the end of its efforts toward May Day.

The House, which annually undertakes the planning of May Day, is under the leadership of Shirley Gauger, vice-president of WSGA and chairman of the House.

Since May Day is one of the large projects under the consideration of WSGA at this time, Shirley has been actively working with committees and organizing balloting for May Queen.

Exhibit Continues In Library Lobby

An exhibition of maps, produced by the various services of the United States during World War II, will continue until the end of March in the lobby of the central library.

Included are topographic maps from the United States Army Map Service and maps issued by the Aeronautical Chart Service. The United States Army Map Service since 1945 has been preparing a special series of maps of the United States.

One case in the exhibition is devoted to historical maps. The city plan of London shows the city as it was about the year 1789 and another map shows how the cartographers of Europe visualized the Asiatic continent about 1700.

The library map collection totals approximately 25,000 maps from every part of the world. A special collection of nearly 500 United States city plans has recently been acquired.

LOCAL MAN MAKES GOOD SENSE!

For seventeen years, George Doakes has been shaving daily—even as you and I. He's tried 'em all—razor blades, we mean. Some were better than others, but none did what the ads said until—but here's his story:

"Saw a man in the Pullman using Pal Hollow Ground. He looked happy. I asked about 'em. He lent me one. And I've shaved happily ever after!"

You don't have to travel to try Pal Hollow Ground. Say Pal Double Edge or Single Edge at your local store. You still get 4 blades for 10¢, 10 for 25¢, 21 for 49¢, 44 for 98¢. Join the millions who swear by Pal Hollow Ground.

Girls Cooperate

"The girls who represent their living units in the House cooperate very well," the chairman says. However, she did express the desire that those units who are not sending any representatives would do so.

"Girls elected to represent their dormitory units should feel that it is a privilege to come," she remarked. Those units are getting a vote in women's government and after two consecutive absences of their representatives will be dropped from the House.

The House of Representatives has undertaken the Christmas and clothing drives this year. The two junior senators were in charge of the Big-Little Sister Tea with girls from the House working under them. Among its many other projects, the House was also in charge of distributing activity cards to individuals in the living units.

Other Activities

Other than her WSGA offices, Shirley has been active in campus activities since she came here from Bloomsburg where she spent her freshman year. She is secretary of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, a member of Cwens, Treble Singers, and last year Shirley was in WRA and the Coed Co-ordinating Committee.

Watsonstown—"It's between Williamsport and Sunbury"—is home to Shirley. Enrolled in the School of Liberal Arts she is majoring in English and minoring in history.

Dr. Luis Macias of the agriculture faculty at the University of Mexico visited the College last weekend to inspect facilities and study methods in cooperative wildlife research in use here.

On a three-month leave from his teaching of forestry and game management in Mexico, Dr. Macias attended the North American Wildlife Conference in Washington, D. C. last week. He then accompanied Dr. Ward M. Sharp and Dr. Pennoyer F. English of the School of Agriculture to the campus.

Dr. Macias Studies College Wild Life

In addition to visiting the College, Dr. Macias inspected the research game lands in Stone Valley. He then began an extended tour of Pennsylvania's game refuges and the Game Commission's school at Brockway. After completing the tour, he plans to visit western states for similar study.

Members of the PSCA World Relatedness commission will discuss Emery Reeves' book, "The Anatomy of Peace," at the PSCA commission meeting in 304 Old Main 7:30 p. m. today.

A discussion on economic justice will be presented by the Social Responsibility commission and the Christian Heritage commission will report on "Alternative to Futility," a book by Elton Trueblood, a professor at Earlham college.

PSCA Schedules 3 Discussions

The meetings are held Tuesday nights with Russo-American relations as the topic on alternate weeks.
