

Know Your College

7. Student Government

(Because of the importance of next week's All-College elections, we are breaking the continuity of the "Know Your College" series to present the following information about the status and operation of student government.)

All-College Cabinet, as the highest unit of student government, coordinates student activities, passes legislation, and acts as an intermediary between students and the administration.

Three of its members, the All-College president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, are elected by popular vote of all undergraduate students, while three more, senior, junior and sophomore presidents represent their respective classes. These are the only politically-elected posts.

PROBABLY THE MOST IMPORTANT GROUP of seats on Cabinet are those occupied by presidents of the seven school student councils (this number will be increased to eight as soon as the School of Home Economics elects a council and council president).

These students are theoretically able to obtain student opinion from every class and curriculum, since school councils are elected on that basis. Apathy of too many students diminishes this advantage in practice.

Large special groups of students are represented by the presidents of the Association of Independent Men, Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council and Leonides (nee Association of Independent Women).

IT MUST NOW BE EVIDENT that each student is (or is entitled to be) represented in at least four ways, by the All-College officers, his class president, his school student council president, and the president of the group corresponding to his sex and social group affiliation.

Additional representation is afforded all women through the presidents of Women's Student Government Association and Women's Recreation Association. The president of Men's Athletic Association speak on behalf of male students, especially in athletic matters.

The remaining seats were constitutionally invented for the chairmen of the boards of dramatics and forensics, and of publications. The latter is elected from among representatives of men's and women's debate, Glee club, Blue Band, Players and Thespians, while the editor of Collegian fills the former post.

SPACE LIMITATIONS PREVENT an exhaustive list of the functions of student government. Suffice it to state however that the effectiveness of any student government body is proportional to the caliber of its members, and inversely proportional to the support and interest of the student body.

Spring Queen Hides Shapely Ankle With Tape

One of the most shapely ankles at the College will have to be covered with sexless adhesive tape this weekend because of a freak accident.

Lois Kenyon, blonde winner of the Penn State Spring Queen Contest, was waving to her roommate who was looking out of a window at Atherton Hall Tuesday. As she waved, she began to run, tripped and turned her prize-winning ankle.

At present, Lois' ankle is covered with a mundane wrap, and when she will be crowned as queen tomorrow night, her gorgeous gam will have to be partially covered by tape.

Clark Rescinds Bid To Legalize Wire-Tapping

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Tom Clark said today he had withdrawn his request that Congress legalize wire-tapping by the Justice Department in spy investigations. Thus, such eavesdropping by wire is not likely to become a part of this country's internal security plans.

Churchill Speaks

BOSTON — Winston Churchill is in Boston to make a speech tonight. He will speak before an audience that will include some of the best thinkers of the Western world. The statesmen, educators, scientists and philosophers are in Boston for a three day mid-century survey, initiated by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Inflation Legislation

WASHINGTON — President Truman has again asked the legislation to provide a bulwark against inflation. At the same time, the chief executive also called for a big increase in taxes. He told his news conference that both steps are necessary because inflation is still a threat.

The President said that he did not agree with Democratic Senator Walter George of Georgia, who holds that an increase in taxes at this time might start a depression.

Eastern Secretary, recently made a report on student conditions in the Philippines in which he said that the cost of living is so high that the diet is limited to rice and fish. Student rooms are so crowded, dark and hot that they are used for sleeping only. Despite the conditions, Thomas recommended that World Student Relief concentrate on supplying books in order to build up depleted university libraries.

General Fund

From the sum collected on campus, $2400 will go to the Philippines for this purpose. The rest will go into WSSF's general fund which is used for food, clothing, housing, and medical care for European and Asiatic students.

Mark Elean and Don Copelin are co-chairmen of the drive while Ernest Ott and Deane Brown head the solicitors' committee. Anyone interested in contributing, who is not contacted by a solicitor, may turn in contributions to the Penn State Christian Association office, 304 Old Main.
