

Senior Gift ---

of raising the additional money required. Latest date fixed for establishment of the press if the seniors approve the suggestion this year is September 1950.

Memorial Gate
A memorial gate at the corner of Pollock road and Atherton street, another of the proposals, was a last-minute suggestion tendered by Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive secretary of the College, since that entrance to campus is the most frequently used.

Consulting architects to the College have already prepared the sketches for the stone gate which will be constructed if the choice is approved by this year's graduating class. They are on display in the Athletic Store.

Total cost of the work is estimated at $12,000. However, if the seniors contribute $8,000 or $6,000 toward the work, it will still be considered their gift and will bear a memorial plaque identifying it as the gift of the class of 1949.

The remaining $4,000 or $6,000 necessary to complete the construction will be made available by the College.

The final suggestion, to appropriate $2,000 as capital for the growing student Co-op, is also before the senior class for the first time. If approved this year, the remaining $6,000 must be delegated to one of the other two gift suggestions.

Co-op
At present the Co-op, now operating as the Student Book Exchange, is working on an original capital investment of $2,000, allocated last year by All-College Cabinet.

Five O'Clock Theatre

"Some Other Time," a new one-act play by Manuel Herbert, senior in commerce and finance, will be presented by the Five O'Clock Theatre this afternoon.

Herbert's last play, "For Old Time's Sake," was recently published by Samuel French.

The cast for tomorrow's production includes Olivia Crider, Walter Eckley, Sylvia Goldberg and Hugh Hackett. The play will be directed by Steve Perialas.

Undercover Opinions Might Be Helpful To Students

Students at the College are always encouraged to air their views; as witness the recent professor and course evaluations. At times, however, their opinions come to light in strange ways.

The other day, for instance, a certain professor, having forgotten his textbook, asked to borrow one of the students'.

Having been obliged, he gazed intently at the book in hand and murmured, "Ah, here's a thought."

Seems his attention had been caught by a classic inscription on the cover. In bold letters the student had written, "IN CASE OF FIRE LET IT BURN."

Luckily for the red-faced undergraduate, the prof had a sense of humor. But the incident will undoubtedly serve as a warning to other students to keep some of their opinions "under cover."
