

'Alice in Waterland' Theme Of Swimming Club Aquacade

An immortal story changes to "Alice in Waterland" as the WRA Swimming Club presents its annual aquacade in White Hall pool at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow.

Spectators will pass with Alice through her many encounters with mythical "Waterland" creatures, as they observe the "Caucus-Race," the "Croquet Game," the "Lobster Quadrille," "Who Stole the Tarts," and the "Mad Tea-Party."

Feature Duets

Two duets are being specially featured. Reta Reed and Anna Keller will portray Alice and the White Rabbit as the duo supposedly starts its downward descent to "Waterland", while Jacqueline Zivic and Jane Levy will capture the limelight in their interpretation of Tweedledee and Tweedledum.

Although there is no charge for the show, tickets of admission must be obtained from participants in the aquacade or from members of the Swimming Club.

Bos Coaches Famous Daughter For Second Time in Career

By Stan Degler

Conraad V. Bos, the 73-year-old musician who accompanied Helen Traubel on her recent Artist's course appearance here, is also Margaret Truman's singing coach.

Miss Truman is learning to frown, smile, bow loosely and sing distinctly under the tutelage of Mr. Bos.

Wilson's Daughter

Teaching the President's daughter is nothing new to Bos, for Margaret Wilson, daughter of Woodrow Wilson, who also had professional ambitions, studied under him.

In the course of his 52 year career, Bos has been coach and accompanist to some of the world's outstanding musical performers and knew the world renowned Brahms.

His job includes correcting the singer's language, and helping to improve their facial expressions. Bos says that many singers sing well in foreign languages, but then neglect their own. He also trains them thoroughly in the art of taking bows.
