

May Day Pageant Offers Nothing New For Queen, Maid

By Barbara Brown

Participation in May Day ceremonies is nothing new for May Queen Lillian Skraban and her Maid of Honor, Jane Sutherland.

In high school Lill was an attendant to the May Queen at the Senior Prom. Jane was Maid of Honor in her high school's May Day festivities.

Lillian, a senior in medical technology, comes from Bethlehem, Pa. The 5' 4 1/2" blue-eyed, blond is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Rod and Coccus Club, and treasurer of Pan-Hel and Masquerettes.

Engaged to D U Ted LeFevre, who graduated from the College last June and is now a sales representative for the Statler Hotel Corporation, Lill likes to knit, sew, and read.

Janie, a sophomore in Liberal Arts, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta, Cwens, La Vie, and the Liberal Arts Student Council. Music and riding are her favorite past times. Plymouth is her hometown.

The brown-eyed, dark-haired coed, when asked about her summer plans, said that she will work at the Dallas Country Club as in past summers.

ONCE UPON A TIME

A Froth editor decided to go to class. He had to. Things were desperate. He was flunking, the old man gave him the word, the dean gave him the word, it was a case of go to class or leave the Nittany Valley.

Anyway, this going to class got to be troublesome. Before he knew it, the Editor had missed a deadline. Egad, he said, what'll I do? Egad, he said, I've got it! I'll sneak some stuff from the Harvard Lampon, the Yale Record, the Pitt Panther, the Texas Ranger and the rest of the mags in our exchange file, and that way I'll get out an issue with no work. He did, and it worked so well he tried it again; as a matter of fact, he put out seven issues that way (you see, this going to class is a bad thing).

That's how it started—now it's a tradition. Once a year, Froth editors take it easy. They leaf thru all the other humor magazines, and pick out the best, the very best cartoons, to present to you in the annual exchange issue. Add to this more cartoons by Ralph Meier, Dick Anderson and Sam Vaughn, an all-out parody of the Daily Collegian, and the result will keep you happy, the exchange issue that has sold out for the last two years. If you've seen them you'll want to get this one. If you haven't, you owe it to yourself. Froth's exchange issue goes on sale next Tuesday, April 26. It's the Froth you'll want to save and show to your folks. Don't miss it!
