

Lingnan Prof Tells Conditions

A glimpse of conditions in war-torn China was given by Richard E. Pride, on the faculty of Lingnan University, Canton, in a letter written in March and just received by friends at the College.

Pride, who with his wife Martha, went to China in 1947 to continue the agricultural work carried on by G. W. "Daddy" Groff since 1911, explains that Lingnan is now host to about 400 guest students who have transferred from the North. He states that two new semi-permanent dormitories have been built to help in housing them. "We seem to be making out very well," he said.

"We have also gained a good many well-qualified teachers who are also refugees from the North," Pride explains.

"A few letters are now coming out of the North and maybe some of you will soon be seeing the new postage stamp bearing the portrait of Mao Tsz Tung," Pride continued.

"Our own status has changed but little. Continuous fluctuations in the currency and a gradual basic rise in the cost of living make shopping a game," Pride writes.

"Canton, as you know, has been the capitol off and on for weeks and I think is not at the present though many people and departments are here."

Commenting on news releases about conditions there, Pride says conditions are bad but some news stories are a bit too-highly colored.

Dear Soviet Teachers:

West's Culture Assailed As Soviet Schools Open

LONDON, Sept. 1—A new school year began in Russia today and Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, exhorted teachers to fill their students with "profound contempt for bowing and scraping before the bourgeois culture of the West."

A Pravda editorial, broadcast by the Moscow radio, said teachers had failed in the past to "reveal the advantages of the Socialist system" in history and geography lessons. It charged the teachers with "passing over in silence the priority of inventions and discoveries by Russian scientists."

Pravda also said that too many children in the lower grades were failing to pass their courses.

We note that you have been discreetly silent on some aspects of the Communist system. And that you have been urged by Pravda to fill your students with "profound contempt" for the admiration given to ours.

May we respectfully suggest a few more things that you'd better keep quiet about if you want the young Russians to grow up convinced Communists.

Don't tell them that in America the opportunity for advancement is unlimited—that here a man can work where he pleases and change his job when he pleases, and that he has the right to organize and bargain collectively.

Don't say anything about the competitive system, with rewards for initiative and enterprise in free markets—the same system which has produced a standard of living about ten times higher than yours.

Don't mention that here people can own things and manage their own businesses . . . and invest money in new undertakings.

Don't breathe a word about the American urge to invent better machines—and more productive ways to use them.

Don't refer to a dynamic way of life that keeps on turning out more and better goods —keeps on lowering costs and raising wages, with shorter working hours.

In other words, don't give them any of the facts about what happens when free people, governing themselves and spurred by ambition, go all-out to build a new kind of country—different from any the world has ever seen.

We don't say our way is perfect—far from it. We still have our ups and downs of prices and jobs. But we know what's wrong and we're free to do something about it. Change is our middle name. And in the long run, our system always changes for the better.

P.S. About that "priority of inventions," the point isn't whether the Russian scientist Lodygin invented electric light before Edison, but what happened after it was invented. Which system—yours or ours—has mass-produced for more people the daily benefits of such inventions as the automobile, telephone, radio, refrigeration, central heating, modern plumbing and better farm machinery? The world knows that it is our system!
