College Students To Present Goethe Anniversary Recital

Barbara Troxell, soprano, and Paul King, baritone, will be heard as soloists in a recital, "Goethe in Song," in Schwab Auditorium, at 8 p.m. Monday. The event is sponsored by the departments of music and German, and the Chapel Choir. The soloists will also appear as soloists with the choir in a performance of Brahms' "German Requiem" Wednesday night.

Commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, immortal German poet-philosopher, the concert is part of the campus-wide Combined Arts Festival. The program will include musical works based on Goethe's poems, and will show the immense effect the writer has had in the development of music.

Guest Soloist

Miss Troxell, a graduate of the College, was one of the guest soloists with the Chapel Choir in its presentation of Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," last spring. She has appeared in numerous recitals and productions of religious compositions.

King, Mississippi-born veteran of three years with the Navy, has given concerts throughout the country. He has been heard with the New Opera Company and has sung with the National Symphony in Carnegie Hall.

The program Monday night will open with Miss Troxell singing a group of Goethe-inspired songs by Beethoven. The group includes "The Bliss of Sorrow," "With a Painted Ribbon," "Cheerful and Tearful," and "Let Drums Loud be Sounded."

King will continue with three of Schubert's songs, "Ocean Calm," "Secret," and "The Erl-King."

Schubert's Compositions

Miss Troxell will also present a group of compositions by Schubert including "Gretchen at the Spinning-wheel" and "Hedge-Rose." She will follow with "Love Song" and "O, Ask Me Not to Speak," by Schumann.

Wolfe's musical works will be represented by "Anacreon's Grave" and "Epiphany," sung by King, and "Knowest Thou the Land," "With a Bunch of Flowers," and "Next Year's Spring," performed by Miss Troxell.

(All titles have been translated from the German.)

Tchaikovsky's "None But the Lonely Heart" and Moussorgsky's "The Flea" will be sung by the baritone soloist.

Following an intermission, the guest artists will present excerpts from Gounod's opera, "Faust."

Tickets

Miss Troxell will be heard in "The Jewel Song" and "The King of Thule," and King will perform "The Golden Calf" and "Valentine's Farewell." The two will join in singing the famous Church Scene from the opera.

Claire V. G. Thomas will accompany at the piano.

Tickets priced at 55 cents for students and 85 cents for others are available at Student Union, and will be sold also from 7 to 8 p.m. Monday. All unoccupied seats in a section reserved for special guests will be made available to the public at 7:45 p.m.

O'Brien Cites Parliamentary Procedures

Purpose of Rules To Speed Business

Among many highlights of the National Student Association's Orientation program Wednesday was a discussion of parliamentary procedure by Professor J. O'Brien, head of the speech department.

Professor O'Brien emphasized that parliamentary rules should only be observed to the extent of enabling the efficient handling of business.

He explained that informative reports are "neither accepted nor adopted, but merely filed." However, reports calling for action demand an acceptance or adoption making the group responsible for the action, he said.

MacCallum Speaks

James MacCallum, new All-College secretary-treasurer, representing the interclass finance committee, spoke briefly. Edmund Walacavage, originally scheduled to speak on finances, was unable to attend.

At an orientation banquet in the State College hotel Wednesday evening, Arthur R. Warnock, dean of men, told student leaders:

"Students at Penn State enjoy exposure to two things that are interwoven with American life. One is democracy or self-government. The other is idealism.

Good Leaders

"Democracy is not just a creed but a way of doing things; idealism is important in the make-up of this country in that it pours into the bloodstream of this nation good leaders.

"All I ask of new student leaders at Penn State," he continued, "is that they instill in their successors a knowledge of democracy and how it works, and an appreciation of idealism. They make America tick."

At the same banquet, Ross Lehman, assistant executive secretary of the Alumni Association, urged:

"Student government at Penn State has been put to work largely through the efforts of Dean Warnock and the late President Ralph D. Hetzel. It's up to you to keep it working."

Groenheim Wins Scholastic Medal

Henri Groenheim has been named winner of the President Sparks Medal for last semester. Groenheim is a junior in psychology and lives in Nittany Dorm 42.

The medal is awarded every semester to the student who averaged 3.00 during a given semester and made the greatest improvement over the previous semester. The medal is provided by a trust fund left by Edwin Erle Sparks, president of the College 1908-20.

IFC Considers Plan To Finance Education for Foreign Student

A proposal by President Peter Giesey to educate a foreign student for two years at the College was placed before the Interfraternity Council for consideration Wednesday night.

The money for this action would come from profits realized from the IFC Ball. Giesey said that the College would probably waive tuition and fees, and the student would receive resources for books, board, and spending money. All fraternities and the IFC would be a part of the plan.

The scholar would be one of those chosen in Europe for scholastic standing and character. He would also be picked by the College in conjunction with the executive committee of IFC and NSA.

This person, said Giesey, would remain in this country and ultimately become an American citizen. "It has been provided," he continued, "that these students become self-supporting a short time after their arrival in America. They're men who have been shoved around in war-torn countries all their lives."

A motion was made to table the consulted, and bring it up at the next and last Meeting, May 18. The IFC is also in process of compiling a rushing manual. This manual, "Penn State Fraternities," will be sent to each man who will enter the College in the fall. The mailing list is being prepared and the manuals will be sent out during the summer months.

The booklet will be the first publication on campus to use offset printing.

The Council approved a plan of running a special train to West Point for the State-Army game in the fall. The plan was instigated by the alumni.
