

Lion Stickmen Astound Hobart With 13-12 Win

Penn State's lacrosse team knocked unbeaten Hobart from the ranks of the nation's major unbeaten teams yesterday with a thrilling 13-12 victory at Geneva, N. Y.

This afternoon the Lions will close its stick season against Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y. A State win over the Red Raiders will boost its season record to five wins against four losses.

It was five-foot, nine-inch Eddie Belfield who turned the tide in the Blue and White favor. In pre-game dope the Lions sported a four-game losing streak and were not conceded much of a chance against the Statesmen.

With less than five minutes of play remaining in the final canto, Belfield snapped a 12-12 tie by pushing a sharp underhand shot past the Hobart goalie.

Action was furious during the entirety of the game, with State jumping off to a 4-2 first period lead and adding three counters the pre-intermission period to hold an uncomfortably close 7-5 half-time edge.

Hobart rallied for five big points in the third period, holding a 10-9 margin as the final 15-minutes of action got underway.

Horseshoemen In Semi-Finals

Chet Kidell and Gordon Davis, Triangle horseshoe tossers, won their fourth straight match Thursday night as they pounded the pegs for a 21-13, 21-10 victory over Goldie Soster and John Catherine of Alpha Phi Delta.

The win made the Triangle duo one of four squads in the semi-final round of the horseshoe tournament. Alpha Zeta, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Phi Kappa also hold semi-final berths.

TRIANGLE
Triangle, this week, also defeated Vic Wallatt and Art Trautmann, Tau Kappa Epsilon, 21-8, 21-7, Dan Kline and John Murray, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 21-10, 21-13, and Lloyd Amprin and Fran Rogel, Kappa Delta Rho, 21-4, 21-17.

Previously, Soster and Catherine, Alpha Phi Delta tossers, had defeated Ron Saxe and Phil Preston, Pi Kappa Alpha, 21-19, 21-8, and Bill Glov and Irvin Kricheff, Sigma Alpha, 21-18, 21-5.

Alpha Zeta's Jim Yetter and Olin Simpson won their third straight victory by dropping Bill Belden and Bill Cregar, Sigma Phi Epsilon, 16-21, 21-15, 21-20.

Jack Hanby and Pen Hallawell, Alpha Gamma Rho, won number three, beating Phil Monaghan and John Kulp, Sigma Nu, 21-16, 21-6.

BURDEN - PORTO
Bob Burden and Al Porto, Phi Kappa, ended a three-game Delta Chi winning streak by dropping that fraternity's Bob Hartley and Bob Serials, 21-5, 21-3, making it three in a row for themselves in the process. The Phi Kappa combination has also defeated Dick Lane and Charley Bartsch, Chi Phi, 21-15, 21-30, and Chuck Drazenovich and Joe Drazenovich, Delta Upsilon, 21-18, 21-16.

Delta Chi's victories were over Severn Green and Bob Young, Alpha Tau Omega, 21-11, 21-9, and Paul Ellenberger, and Charley Moser, Lambda Chi Alpha, 21-9, 21-19.

Ellenberger and Moser defeated Ted Aiken and Porter, Phi Delta Theta, 21-19, 21-20, and the Drazenovich brothers flashed past Don Cross and Bob Gregory, Delta Theta Sigma, 21-7, 21-4.

He charged hard, dove to the turf and came up with Susko's fly ball on a one-handed stab. Tkac was in trouble only in the third inning, when Ford, Pitt shortstop, got to third base. Smodic skied to center to end the threat. The box score:

Wanted: 6'5", 250-lb. Athlete For: Nittany Lacrosse Team

By Ray Koehler
There is a peculiar sort of game played today, the main purpose being (to the average onlooker) to give the opponent a murderous clout on some part of the body and skip away in possession of a little ball.

This nonpareil among athletic encounters goes under the aboriginal jawbreaker of Baggotaway, originally played by the proud Redman in his forest primeval.

Today the sport has been refined and the French-Canadian monicker substituted. At Penn State, where each year it is becoming more popular, there is no inclination to "Give it back to the Indians."

VARIED TALENTS
Combining the ruggedness of football, the speed of a ping pong game, the agility of a Nijinski and the all-around coordination of a pin ball expert, lacrosse is being rapidly transformed into one of the greatest spring attractions at the College.

Again, as ever since 1913, Penn State is represented by large varsity and jayvee squads whose training is regarded to be generally as taxing as football. Once again the lacrossemen, garbed in uniforms just as costly but far less heavy than grid armor, whack and smack each other until the traditional Lion Blue and White is transposed into varying shades of black and blue.

For the bug-eyed bleacherite who doesn't ken the sport, here's how the game is played. Two ten-man teams line up for the referee's inspection. Each man carries an ash stick which has a scoop-shaped net woven of rawhide, the pockets varying in size from 12 inches for goalies to six inches in width for attack men.

GAME'S OBJECT
Action gets underway at the beginning of each period and following each goal with a mid-field face-off, and the object of the game is to maneuver a hard-rubber sphere about the size of a tennis ball into the opponent's net.

To accomplish this, the players tear up and down a 110-yard field between gas-pipe framed goals set 80 yards apart. They rush with the ball cradled in the strings of their crosses, passing to each other.

Bill Ashenfelter, a brother of Horace, Penn State's two-mile champion, is improving rapidly over the mile route. Lion Coach Chick Werner says the gangling Colledgeville youth possesses plenty of stamina, and now is developing speed.

Power-Laden Track Units Vie in Collegiate Scrap

Tough Michigan State Forces Nittanies Into Underdog Role

New Beaver Field will be the site of one of the season's top track meets today when Coach Chick Werner's Penn State thin-clads take on the powerful Michigan State team at 1:30 p.m.

Both teams are undefeated although the Spartans' record is "marred" by a tie with the University of Southern California, THE track team of the country. Both Penn State and Michigan State have outstanding performers in several events and both are considered to be among the nation's best.

The Green and White squad from East Lansing will enter the meet in the role of favorite because of its greater depth and better reserves. Coach Karl Schalderman has four of the country's top distance runners in Jack Dianetti, Bill Mack, Warren Druetzler and Captain Tom Irmen.

They also have above-average hurdlers in the persons of Horace Smith, Paige Christensen and Jesse Thomas and an ace sprinter in Fred Johnson who is no novice at the hurdles either.

Lacrosse Cubs In Final Contest

Penn State's jayvee lacrosse team will engage Swarthmore Center on New Beaver field this afternoon following the Nittany Lion-Michigan State track meet.

Holding a record of one win against a single loss, the Lion cubs will attempt to climb over the .500 mark, and at the same time inflict the opposition with its third defeat.

Swarthmore, which faced Harrisburg Center's squad yesterday, had a string of six consecutive wins prior to that game.

MYERS
Included among Swarthmore's victories are decisions over Franklin and Marshall, U. of Delaware and William and Mary. The Center stickmen are coached by Art Myers who, in his first year as a collegiate mentor, was named Publicity Chairman for the Pennsylvania State Lacrosse Association.

In their two games this spring, Coach John McHugh's athletes have taken Harrisburg Center, 11-9, while being stymied, 11-0, by Navy's junior varsity. The Lion offense is expected to be headed by Paul Raffensberger and Don Watkins. Husky Milo Kosanovich, of Aliquippa, will spearhead the defense.
