There will be a reorganization meeting of the Pre-med Society in 405 Old Main at 7 p. m. today. All pre-med students are urged to attend. Election of officers for next semester will be held.

Ramon S. Saul, editor of the 1950 La Vie, announced today that students who will be practicing teaching next Fall must have their yearbook pictures taken before the end of the current semester.

Saul also explained that other students, regardless of School, may have their portraits taken at the Penn State Photo Shop at any time between now and the end of the semester.

The 1950 La Vie will have nearly 3000 pictures, Saul explained, and those who have their pictures taken this Spring will be able to avoid the rush in the Fall. It also will be possible for the retoucher to give each portrait more attention than will be possible in the Fall.

Pictures of all students who will receive bachelor degrees during the summer of 1949 or in February or June, 1950, will be included in the 1950 book. Those graduating this summer must have the picture taken before leaving the campus.

Graystone Manor Bought By AEPi

Abram Hart, president of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity, today announced the purchase of Graystone Manor at an undisclosed figure. The house is located on a triple lot near Hamilton and Garner avenues, and will accommodate approximately 50 men.

The fraternity will not occupy the house until the fall semester, as minor repairs and alterations will be made.

The College chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi received its charter in February, 1948.

Polio Victim Licks Incapacitation For Education

Congratulations are in order for all graduates, but to Jack Paffrath, who went through college in a wheelchair, the diploma holds special meaning.

Jack, twenty-two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paffrath, of Ford City, was stricken with infantile paralysis at the age of 7. Doctors told him he would not walk again for many years.

Would Do It Over

"I couldn't see why that should bar me from going to college," Jack said, and now that he's nearing the end of his four years at Penn State, he adds: "And I know I'd do it all over again."

Since Jack was stricken, he has spent almost all of his time in his wheelchair. He has had four student "pushers" and at the present time, his roommate, William F. Grafton of Kittanning, pushes him about the campus.

Jack and his roommate try to schedule their classes together, but when his "pusher" isn't around, there's always another student willing to help him to his next class.

Needs Spare Wheel

Jack's father, an electrician, keeps the wheel chair rolling. Jack keeps a spare wheel and extra springs in his room, however, and because of the rough going over curbs and steps finds it necessary to replace the spring every two weeks.

Jack speaks well of the dormitory friends who played an important part in his "wheelchair trip" through college. Many of them willingly push him to church, to sports events, and to movies. One boy even puts Jack's collapsible wheel chair into his car and takes him for rides through the country.

With graduation just around the corner, Jack is looking back on many happy moments at Penn State and forward to a career in the years to come.

Lucyk Project Wins Ad Prize

J. Carl Lucyk was recently named first place winner of the Interstate Advertising Managers' Association Penn State Award of $25 for submitting the best project in connection with advertising. The awards were made in Asbury Park, New Jersey by a committee of IAMA members.

June Snyder won the second- and place award of $15, and Doris Sarnaki placed third to win $10. Three honorable mention awards were given as three projects ended in a tie among David Eldridge, Elizabeth London and Jean Findlay. In addition to the cash awards, each winner received a certificate.

The projects originated as class assignments in advertising at the College. A total of 35 projects were submitted for judging. Included in the assignment was a package presentation for a retail store, an analysis of merchandising opportunities, newspaper advertising advantages, and a specific schedule with sample layouts and copy.

Pershing Rifles Elects Stewart

Gerald W. Stewart, a junior in mechanical engineering at the College, was elected regimental commander of Pershing Rifles Fifth Regiment at the annual regimental assembly held in Philadelphia.

Cadet Colonel Stewart succeeds D. L. J. Malickson, former commander who graduates this June. Fifth Regiment includes companies located at Lehigh, Duquesne, University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, and the University of Maryland.

Pershing Rifles, national military collegiate honorary organization with companies at 57 colleges, was founded by the late General John J. Pershing when he was an undergraduate at the University of Nebraska.

'Lettuce Box' Relinquishes Rarebit

Ed Hall, proprietor of Hall's Dry Cleaning Shop, is shown making a five-dollar loan to a prospective borrower, as his "Lettuce-Box" program got under way late last week.

Ed Hall Continues Operation Of 'Lettuce Box' for Students

Senior Ball weekend may be over but Ed Hall's loan fund is still operating successfully. Ed has decided to make the $5 loan a permanent thing, available to students all year, including summer school.

Some interesting developments have occurred. Since the story appeared in the paper last week $35 has been loaned, out of which $15 has already been returned.

So far Ed reports no loss and is enthusiastic at the interest of the students.

On Wednesday morning when the loan fund began, a male student approached Ed and queried, "Is that the straight dope on the $5 loan? Well here I am." He paid it back the next day.

Our State College "Lettuce Box," as it has been named, has even attracted a coed who borrowed $5.

Ed said that during the opening day he saw many people leaning over the railing to catch a glimpse of the money hanging in the window. "The news seems to have spread like wildfire because everyone was talking about it," remarked Ed.

The idea was begun as a good will gesture to fellows and coeds who needed money for any purpose at all. As far as Ed is concerned they can do what they want with the money.

Just drop in at Hall's dry cleaning shop under the Corner and follow the developments of Ed Hall's "Lettuce Box." While you're there you may borrow $5 too.

Outstanding Senior Men

George Chapman

(This is the sixth of a series of articles concerning prominent senior men who have proved themselves outstanding in one or more fields of activity at the College.)

By Myrna I. Tex

George Chapman, former Interfraternity Council president, is hopeful about the continuation of the progressive steps which IFC has taken during the past school year. He feels that most fraternity men have finally realized the seriousness of the drinking problem and with the aid of IFC have attempted and will continue to combat it.

"I would like to see improved interfraternity relationships, socially, athletically and scholastically," Chapman stated. "Also, I think better feelings could exist between fraternity and independent men. This can be achieved through many and various methods with the cooperation of both groups," Chapman continued.

Christmas Baskets

He thinks that the College students have realized the importance of working with town-people.

"One IFC member is now a member of the Commerce Club of the State College," Chapman said, "and in order to establish a little closer relationship with town citizens, IFC gave baskets to needy families at Christmas time." He is proud of the fact that Penn State fraternities rated first place scholastically over fraternities of all the major colleges in the United States.

In the capacity of IFC president, Chapman served on the Senate Committee on Student Welfare and on All-College Cabinet. He is a senior member of ASME, Lion's Paw and Parmis Nous, as well as the Senior Class Day committee. He belongs to Pi Tau Sigma and Sigma Tau, engineering honoraries, and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and Who's Who at Penn State. He was secretary-treasurer of his freshman class and served on the Sophomore Orientation committee.

Theta Chi

Chapman hails from Jenkintown and belongs to Theta Chi fraternity. He is majoring in mechanical engineering and wants to go into production management or sales work after graduation.

He was in the Army for three years as a radar navigator on a B-29 and spent a great deal of time in the South Pacific. He stated that contacts which he made while he was in service made him realize the importance of broadening his interests instead of traveling in one main channel.

Chapman enjoys music and belonged to the Glee Club at one time. His favorite sports are swimming and wrestling.
