On The Air Map

With the inauguration of All American Airways' new Pittsburgh-New York route through State College, one more transportation bottleneck falls to the advance of progress and 18,000 people will be afforded an easy access to the "outside world."

FOR YEARS students and townspeople have joked half-heartedly about the inaccessibility of the College, and the many and varied means of transport one had to employ to reach it.

In the early days of the College's history, the clattering railroads brought prospective students to the outlying metropolises of Lewistown, Lock Haven, or Spruce Creek . . . but no further. From there on, it was anybody's guess how soon the College could be reached by stagecoach, livery, or buckboard.

WITH THE COMING of motor vehicles, the stages were replaced by a more modern mode of travel. That left two fairly trustworthy and dependable ways of getting to the lair of the Nittany Lion, ways which have continued under growing strain to the present time.

The men who had the foresight and vision to extend Centre County's transportation facilities into the clouds are to be congratulated . . . not merely for providing one more outlet for a travel-hungry populace, but for helping insure the future growth of the College and the town.

Miscellany . . .

Two easily-constructed micromanometers and a midjet fuel spray viewer, developed by the Engineering Experiment Station are described in a recent issue of "Laboratory Equipment for Testing and Research Work on Diesel Engines."

The micromanometers can measure pressures of 0.200 inches of water to an accuracy of plus or minus 1 per cent.

The versatile fuel spray viewer allows visual observation of the injection on the engine making it possible to see stroboscopically the beginning and end of the injection and its general appearance. Such factors as injection lag, duration of injection, the spray form, and the presence of secondary injections or excessive "dribble" are readily determined.

'Sincere Thanks'

TO THE EDITOR: On behalf of the members of the American Legion Auxiliary, Nittany Unit No. 245, I would like to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to the student body for their grand support of the annual Poppy Day, Saturday, May 21.

Each year Legion auxiliaries all over the country sponsor the sale of these poppies made by disabled veterans.

Thanks to the wonderful support given us by the students, a lot of veterans will be receiving medical care and pocket money that could not be given them otherwise.

The Auxiliary also wishes to thank the Cwens for their invaluable help in selling the poppies.

—Anne M. Decker, President,
Nittany Unit No. 245,
American Legion Auxiliary.

It's Your Program

C. M. "Dutch" Sykes, of the College's intramural department, has labored long and hard in setting up a recreational program for the Main Summer Session.

In doing so, Sykes has made up a program which will allow for many variations of entertainment for you — the summer student on the Penn State campus.

Bridge, swimming, dances, "Fun Night," group singing and outdoor movies in the natural outdoor amphitheatre are included in the list. In addition, athletic-minded summer students can register for the tournaments being planned in golf, softball and tennis.

Establishing such a schedule of entertainment wasn't easy, but Sykes and the intramural office have done a good job in planning entertainment for you.

Tomorrow night in White Hall, the annual Summer Session reception will begin at 8 p.m. This is the start of a big week in summer activity for the students. A big crowd would help to start the week off on the right foot.

It's your program. Take advantage of it.
