Over 8,000 Students Complete Registration

Enrollment figures for the fall semester have reached a total of 8,016 students who have completed registration up until noon yesterday, according to Royal M. Gerhardt, dean of admissions.

During the eight-hour period Monday, 3,685 students completed registration in Rec Hall. This year pre-registered students were processed according to alphabetical groupings in order to help speed up the final phase of registration.

A total of 3313 students, 2398 men and 1015 women had, registered up until closing time, Saturday noon. This number was comprised of freshmen women, sophomore and upperclass transfers, who were to have completed registration on Friday and Saturday.

The complete enrollment figures to date does not cover undergraduate students who registered yesterday afternoon, employees, special and unclassified students or graduate students. The final total will not be released by the admissions office until all registration is complete.

Employees, special and unclassified students start registration today. Registration for this group will continue through Saturday noon. Graduate students may register until October 15 without paying the late fee which is levied against all students who fail to register within the required time.

Patrol Hunts Man Accused Of Indecency

Campus patrolmen were unable to find any trace yesterday of a man charged with following a Simmons hall coed through Hort Woods and committing an act of indecent exposure.

The coed phoned Captain Philip Mark, campus patrol chief, about 2:30 p.m. yesterday and in an excited voice related the happening.

She said she noticed the man following her and that he seemed to be eager to overtake her. Glancing back, she saw him suddenly halt and indecently expose himself. Then she ran through the woods to the library and called Capt. Mark.

Mark and two other campus patrolmen answered the girl's alarm immediately but were unable to find any traces of the man she described as "fairly tall," blond, and wearing an army field jacket with light trousers.

Persons in and about the area were also questioned but could not recall having seen anyone answering the description.

The patrol chief stated that Hort Woods would continue to be patrolled in hopes of either capturing the offender or scaring him away.

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR a bunch of Blue and White hatmen, cheerleaders and assorted other students who tolled this summer, and especially the week prior to the Villanova grid game, to make possible the flash-card section for the Lions' first '49 struggle.

Original plans called for waiting till the Nebraska week-end to unfurl Penn State's second annual flash-card edition, but this group stepped up preparations to allow the first flash-card debut.

News Agency To Commence Paper Sales

Sunday newspaper sales on campus will begin October 2, announced Pat Meconi, Student News Agency manager.

Daily papers, on sale since Monday, are available at the Book Exchange in the TUB and in the Nittany Dining Hall during the noon and evening meals, Meconi explained. Sunday editions will be delivered to students on campus and in town.

Agents of the news agency started visiting the men's dorms yesterday to take orders for both daily and Sunday papers. Plans are now being initiated to contact the fraternities and establish a special delivery route to all houses.

All persons not already contacted may place orders for Sunday newspapers at the TUB. All interested house presidents may place their orders for both daily and Sunday papers by calling the Student Employment office, Ext. 231.

The agency handles New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Scranton newspapers. Last year it employed approximately 30 students and delivered 1,500 Sunday papers each week.

Debate Team Holds Tryouts

Tryouts for places on the men's debate team will be held in 316 Sparks at 7 p.m. next Wednesday evening, Richard S. Schweiker, manager of the team, announced yesterday.

Men interested in the team should prepare five minute speeches on either side of the national debating topic for the year, "Resolved: That the United States should nationalize the basic non-agricultural industries," Schweiker said.

Meeting Preliminary Next week's meeting will be preliminary to one a week later at the same place, at which the five-minute speeches are to be delivered. Prof. Joseph F. O'Brien, coach of the team, will hear the speeches and then decide which tryouts shall receive berths on the team.

A meeting of remaining members of last year's squad will be held following the preliminary meeting next Wednesday.

No date has been set yet for the biennial debate to be held this year with Oxford University.

An open house for women students interested in joining Woman's Debate will be held in the northeast lounges, Atherton Hall from 7 to 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Delta Alpha Delta The open house will be held by Delta Alpha Delta, women's professional speech honorary which sponsors woman's debate, being managed this year by Christine Altenburger. Prof. Clayton Schug is serving as coach.

Intercollegiate debating will not begin until later in the fall, with debaters now concentrating on gathering material on the nationalization topic.

Newly elected officers of the women's debate are: Barbara Schiffman, president; Diana Miller, vice-president; and Adelaide Baltes, secretary.

Registration For Vets Moved

Veterans registration has been moved from the basement of Carnegie Hall to the Armory for the remainder of the week.

Crossley Calls For Radio Men

Students holding amateur radio operator's licenses who are interested in becoming assistant operators of the College Radio Station, W3YA, and the Army Control Station, ALMA, should apply to Gilbert L. Crossley, assistant professor of electrical engineering, 102 Electrical Engineering.

Letters of application should be submitted by October 3 and should contain experience, station call letters of your own station, the grade of amateur license held, and any other pertinent facts.

The station staff is not limited to students but is also open to faculty members and employees of the College. Amateur operators are invited to make the acquaintance of the operators now at the station even if not interested in joining the group.

Froth Candidates

Candidates for the business and editorial staffs of Froth are requested to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. tonight in 2 Carnegie Hall. New students interested in becoming staff members must attend this meeting.

Tribunal Delays Action on Customs

Sophomores who threw flash-cards on New Beaver field at Saturday's game with Villanova were put on their good conduct yesterday by Chairman Robert Keller of Student Tribunal.

Keller told The Daily Collegian last evening that recurrence of the incident would result in establishment of customs for sophomores. He stressed that throwing the heavy flash-cards on the field could have resulted in injury and represented a waste of time and money.

President Morton Snitzer of Skull and Bones urged Keller Monday to inflict customs on the offending sophomores who had thrown the cards onto the field and into other sections of the stands after Vince O'Bara scored Penn State's lone touchdown in the fourth quarter of Saturday's game.

Dangerous

He had blasted the act as "dangerous, costly and a wanton waste of man-hours."

Customs will not be inflicted at the present time because Tribunal would rather prevent future recurrence rather than take retribution, Keller said. He added that he did not wish to give the impression that he did not consider the action serious.

Following the incident, several trustees commented on the costly waste of the appropriation for the flash cards, Keller reported.

He said sophomores would be put on their good conduct at the next home football game, with Boston College, Oct. 8. However, should the same thing happen at that game, he said, customs would be inflicted.

Such customs would consist of wearing dinks and large name-cards, said Keller.

Expense

Sophomores probably did not realize the time and expense that went into making of the flash-cards, but should have had sense enough to realize the flying cardboard could cause serious injury, he stated.

Any violations at the Boston College game will be reported to Tribunal and action will be taken, he said. No meeting of Tribunal has been called to consider Snitzer's demand.

Snitzer had declared: "Sophomore customs have been in effect at Penn State before, when sophs were restricted in dating privileges and were subservient to the demands of upperclassmen. It is feasible that they could be revived at this time, especially if the card-flashing incident should be repeated."

Nation Faces Severe Strike

PITTSBURGH — Absence of comment from either side in the full-length daily steel negotiation talks yesterday gave rise to hope for agreement. Neither side has yet shown signs of giving up. Unless agreement is reached by Friday midnight, the nation is headed for its first double-barrelled coal and steel strike.

A threat of possible violence in the coal strike appeared when non-union miners returned to soft coal pits in western Pennsylvania and Utah. Operators in both states called for help when bands of motorized United Mine Worker pickets began runs through non-union mine areas.

WASHINGTON — A bill calling for a wage boost amounting to about 180 million dollars a year for postoffice department employees yesterday was passed by the House. The Senate has not yet acted on it, and the budget bureau is opposed to it. Before the vote, some representatives called for a boost in postal rates because, they argued, the postoffice now is 700-million dollars in the red.

Rush Hour Rule Set to Reduce Traffic Jams

Borough Police Chief John R. Juba announced yesterday that during rush hours east-bound traffic on College avenue will not be allowed to make left turns onto Burrowes road to enter the campus.

He requested the cooperation of College students during the rush periods at 8 a.m., at noon and from 4 to 5 p.m., as well as in complying with other local traffic regulations.

He said the new regulation was put into effect because nearly all traffic entering the campus from the east has been using Burrowes road, resulting in traffic congestion at the intersection.

Such congestion at the intersection is dangerous in case of emergencies, Chief Juba emphasized.

He suggested using Shortledge road or the temporary road at the 700 block East College avenue to enter the campus.
