

Steel Deadlock Solution Elusive

PITTSBURGH—Hopes for immediate peace in the steel industry faded last night when the C.I.O. Steelworker's Union termed the negotiations a deadlock following a ten-cent hourly pension and insurance program offer by United State Steel which met disapproval though not outright rejection.

The present strike truce expires Friday midnight, but until that time Federal mediators will be present at all key steel contract talks.

Atomic Committee

WASHINGTON—The Senate-House Atomic Committee discussed means of expanding our atomic energy program to enable us to maintain our superiority in the A-bomb field, chairman Brien McMahon disclosed yesterday.

German Students

All students registered in German courses scheduled "by appointment are asked to report to the German department at once.

New Students Fill Dormitories, Cause Temporary Space Jam

With the arrival of 3500 new students on campus, college dormitories are jam-packed to the limit, forcing the surplus of both men and women students to use temporary facilities.

The situation, which began Saturday for the men, will be cleared up by the end of the week for male students, according to Daniel DeMarino, assistant dean of men and College housing advisor.

Temporary Bunks

Meanwhile, there were 29 men and an undisclosed number of women who had to sleep on temporary bunks in the lobbies, halls and recreation rooms of their respective dormitories.

"Since these students were admitted to the College, it is the College's obligation to supply satisfactory housing facilities for them all, DeMarino stated. All will be given permanent living quarters as soon as possible."

Male Students

Male students still without dormitory rooms should report to the dean of men's office.

All the former sorority houses with the exception of the old Kappa Kappa Gamma house, which now houses the Physical Education offices, have been pressed into service to take the overflow of women from the regular dormitories. As vacancies occur in the dorms, the houses will be emptied.

Despite the delays in shipment of structural steel and the five week strike, contracts have not been extended for the new men's dorms, according to George W. Ebert, superintendent of the College grounds and buildings. They will be ready for use at the beginning of the fall term of next year, he said.

Army Pep Rally Slated Tonight

Students are urged to turn out en masse for the biggest and most important pep rally of this year's football season on the steps of Old Main at 8 p. m. tonight. Dick Clair, head Nittany cheerleader, asks for the support and participation of the entire student body at the rally tonight.

Mickey Bergstein, WMAJ sportscaster, will be on hand to talk about some aspects of the forthcoming game and perhaps predict what results the State-Army game will bring. Jim Coogan, assistant director of public information, will also speak unless he is called out of town. Both speakers will be introduced by acting MC Joel Fleming, one of Thespian's brighter stars. Music will be supplied by the Blue Band and in the event of rain, the location of the rally will be moved to Rec Hall.

Signs for Lost Coat, Rushes to Class Sans Pencil

How absent-minded can you get? Some people almost exceed the limits of belief in their forgetfulness, heaping error upon error until things really become confused.

Witness the case of the unfortunate one who, coming to the Collegian office to apply for a lost and found advertisement to recover a missing coat, painstakingly had the form filled out. He then rushed off to make his class, not quite the same as when he came in, though, for he had left the very pencil he used in trying to get back his coat.

Thespians Cast For New Show

Although casting is not yet complete, a partial list of the cast of "Welcome Willy," Thespian production to be staged in Schwab Auditorium October 13, 14, and 15, has been released.

A parody on radio quiz shows, "Welcome Willy" will feature Bruce Bailey in the role of "Announcer Denny Kelmar," Joel Fleming as Master of Ceremonies "Ham Samson," and Merrill Sporkin as "Mr. Donovan."

Abram Bernstein has been cast as "Mr. Interlocutor" in a minstrel routine directed by Sid Manes, and including Raymond Rackowski, William Reese, Donald Rousch, and James Saling.

In a Gay Nineties scene, set in Atlantic City, "Clarence Peabody" will be played by Frank Lewis, "Cynthia Pendleton" by Marion Ann Pollock, "Wilmer Wiffenpoop" by Nate Fletcher, and the "Keystone Cop" by Aaron Osipow. The number, directed by Sid Simon, will also feature the Harmonairs, a male quartet organized last year at Mont Alto.

Book Club

The Penn State Book Club will hold its first meeting in 100 Horticulture at 7 p.m. today. New members are asked to attend. Slides of last year's horticulture show will be presented and refreshments will be served.

Train Canceled

Officials of the Bellefonte Central Railroad yesterday cancelled the proposed "Blue and White Special" train which would have transported Penn State students to the Army football game this weekend.

Three hundred fifty student train reservations were required to assure running the train. Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, reported that a total of 18 were received.

Those who bought reservations may secure money refunds by presenting train tickets at the Athletic Association windows in Old Main.

About 1,500 Nittany students are expected to attend the game by auto.

Psychology Club Sponsors Mixer

A general mixer, sponsored by the Psychology Club, will be held in 405 Old Main, 7 o'clock tonight. The entire psychology department, faculty, graduates, and undergraduates are invited to attend.

Refreshments will be served, and student advisers will be named for all incoming psychology students as part of the student advisory program which has been in operation the last week. Officers of the club and of Psi Chi, honorary fraternity, will explain the operations of the respective organizations.

Special Students' Schedules Ready

Unclassified students who have not matriculated at the College but who want to take one to six credits should obtain schedules at the office of the Scheduling Officer in the Armory.

Final approval of the schedule is then given by A. W. Stewart, recently named chief recorder of the Admissions Office staff, Room 109, Old Main.

All-College Cabinet To Convene Tonight

All-College Cabinet will hold its first meeting in 201 Old Main at 8 p. m., today. Although only a short meeting had been planned to help the Cabinet members become better acquainted, "matters of pertinent interest to the student body must be taken care of at once," said Ted Allen, All-College president.

The business session will include a report from the Memorial Day committee on last year's Memorial Day event and a report from the orientation committee.

The Cabinet will also appoint the Forensic Council for 1949-50 and decide what night the Cabinet will meet regularly.

Orchestra Has First Rehearsal

The College Symphony Orchestra will hold its first rehearsal tomorrow at 4:10 p.m. in 117 Carnegie Hall, Prof. Theodore Karhan, director, said today.

Milholland Foresees Difficulty As Budget Hits Highest Mark

Pointing out that the budget for the College for the present fiscal year is the largest in the history of the College and includes the largest appropriation ever made to the College by the Commonwealth, James Milholland, acting president of the College, explains that "not since the depression days of the thirties have we had so difficult a time to make legitimate ends meet."

Writing in the September issue of The Collegian, a magazine published for Penn State personnel, President Milholland explained that "the demand for our services from the citizens of Pennsylvania is outstripping our best efforts to keep pace."

Inadequate Revenue "Our problem is not one of shrinking revenues, but of inadequate revenues for the job people want us to do," President Milholland said.

"During the present year (1949-50)," the President explained, "our budget calls for outlays totaling 16.9 million dollars, including the State appropriations of 5.4 million dollars."

"In short," President Milholland continued, "we are rendering the greatest service in our history and we are rendering that service with unprecedented financial help from the State. All three phases of our program—resident instruction, extension instruction, and research—are involved in this gratifying record of growth."

Budget Requests

Looking at the demand side of the picture, President Milholland explained that last fall when administrative officials submitted budgetary estimates for the biennium, the figures submitted were legitimate in terms of public requests for instruction and research, but were hopelessly in excess of anticipated revenues.

The requests were returned for arbitrary reduction to feasible limits and ultimately a pared-down budget aggregating 20.4 million dollars a year was developed as the minimum needed to finance essential services. Of this amount, the State was asked to contribute 6.7 millions.

"We needed 20.4 millions for the year; we anticipate that we shall actually receive an unprecedented total of 16.9 millions. The difference could be accounted for by simply scaling down the proposed growth of our educational service by so much," President Milholland continued.

Calling on all administrative officials of the College for increased efficiency and maximum economy, President Milholland explained that "the extent to which such curtailment must go is in your hands."

Relative Reserves

"The important thing for all of us to remember as we enter the new academic year is that our reserves are relatives rather than absolutes," President Milholland continued. "We will be achieving more this year than ever before, and we will have the largest budget in our history with which to work. Our financial limitations are limitations only in terms of the opportunities created by our educational objectives."

Reports

There will be officer's reports which will include the financial report from James MacCallum, All-College secretary-treasurer.

The student government room, which will probably be ready next month, and the coming freshman and sophomore class elections will be discussed.

Schools

Schools of the College are represented by the presidents of their student councils.

La Vie To Take Senior Photos

Photographs of students graduating in February or June will be taken at the Penn State Photo Shop, 214 E. College ave., beginning Friday, Ramon Saul, La Vie, editor, said today.

Because of the large number of seniors and the tight printing deadline which La Vie must meet, it will be necessary for seniors to have pictures taken only during periods scheduled for each School.

Appointments are not necessary, Saul explained. Students are urged to report to the shop at their first opportunity, rather than wait until the last day of the period scheduled for their School.

The following schedule will be followed for senior portraits:

- School of Agriculture, Sept. 30 to Oct. 8.
- School of Chemistry and Physics, Oct. 10 to 13.
- School of Education, Oct. 14 to 19.
- School of Engineering, Oct. 20 to 31.
- School of Home Economics, Nov. 1 to 3.
- School of the Liberal Arts, Nov. 4 to 15 (A-M, Nov. 4 to 8; N-Z, Nov. 9 to 15).
- School of Mineral Industries, Nov. 16 to 19.
- School of Physical Education and Athletics, Nov. 16 to 23.

As soon as the deadline for each school is completed, that section will be prepared and sent to the printer and engraver, Saul said. The senior section will include all students who received degrees August 6 or September 17, provided they were not included in last year's La Vie, he added.

La Vie Candidates

Candidates for La Vie, College yearbook, will meet in 412 Old Main at 7 o'clock tonight, Ramon Saul, editor, announced today. Only juniors should attend this meeting, and are asked to bring copies of their schedules.
