

Robert E. Hannegan Dies in St. Louis, 46

Late AP News Courtesy WMAJ

ST. LOUIS—Robert E. Hannegan, former cabinet member and master politician, died at his home in St. Louis yesterday. He was 46.

The former postmaster general and president of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club had been in ill health since 1946. His death was caused by a heart ailment.

Hannegan was noted for his political aid in helping to put President Truman on the path to the White House.

Hawaii Strike

HONOLULU—Possible settlement of the long-drawn Honolulu waterfront strike was announced by employers and union officials yesterday.

However, the employers said the agreement is on a so-called "off-the-record" basis and that it must be ratified in a direct "on-the-record" meeting between formal committees.

The settlement is said to involve an immediate wage boost of 14 cents an hour, and a seven-cent per hour boost next March. Union leader Harry Bridges said union members will approve the agreement at a meeting today.

Coal Dispute

PITTSBURGH—There was revived hope of an early settlement of the coal dispute yesterday when John L. Lewis agreed to attend a government-sponsored conference.

Lewis sent a two-word message to the Federal Conciliation Service. The message read, "Will attend."

The operators have already agreed to take part in the government's try at opening the coal (Continued on page six)

Judging Team Places Fourth

The dairy cattle judging team representing the College placed fourth out of 32 in the national intercollegiate contests held at Waterloo, Iowa, this week. The intercollegiate events are part of the annual Dairy Cattle Congress program being held there this week.

The College team was highest in Guernsey breeds, placed fourth with Jerseys and sixth with Ayrshires. Members of the team placed high as individuals in the competition. Robert McKown, basketball star from Apollo, ranked fifth among nearly 100 contestants. Donald V. Seipt, Lansdale, who is president of the Ag student council, placed ninth in the total individual honors as well as tying for first place in the Guernsey classes.

The third member of the team is Donald S. Cross, of Slippery Rock, while James A. Fish, of Scranton, was alternate.

The college team is coached by Max L. Dawdy, of the dairy faculty.

Bridge Design Earns Prize

Dr. Thomas C. Kavanagh, professor of civil engineering at the College, has been awarded first prize of $3000 in the 1949 future design of welded bridges contest.

Dr. Kavanagh's design uses a compact triangular-shaped steel frame to support the bridge roadway. Taking advantage of two new steel shapes devised by the designer, the airplane-like frame results in a simplified, lightweight, low cost bridge of graceful and slender appearance.

Test Run Made For Old Main Color Scheme

By JOHN ASHBROOK

Pilots customarily are the ones who take test runs. But now the painters are having a "test run." And in Old Main, no less.

Spotches of paint decorating the ceiling above the murals in Old Main are evidence of experimentation with color schemes to harmonize with the murals, Milton S. Osborne, head of the department of architecture, explained yesterday.

Next month a committee consisting of Henry Varnum Poor, who painted the mural, Roy F. Larson, architectural design critic and consultant to the College, and a group representing the College administration will select the colors to be used.

In the formation stage are plans to revamp the lighting system in the lobby, also with an eye to creating a suitable background for the paintings.

Mr. Poor started his work on the mural in 1940 as a result of a gift of the Class of 1932. The first and central painting, known as the Land Grant Fresco, commemorates the founding of the College under the terms of the Morrill Act.

In additional panels the contribution of the College to the agriculture and industry of the state are represented. The final section, completed last spring, includes a memorial to the students and graduates who served in World War II. The 35,000 graduates who have gone into all the professions are also honored.

Named to Cabinet

Timothy Baker recently was elected to serve as representative of the Dramatics and Forensic Board on the All-College Cabinet. On the strength of a notice from the Dramatics office, yesterday's Collegian erroneously reported that Anthony Bowman had been elected to the position.

WSSF Fund Shy Of Drive Group

Total proceeds of last spring's World Student Service Fund drive netted a $1,422.15 amount, according to Don Copelin, ex-chairman. WSSF had set a goal of $3000 of which $2400 was to be sent to university students in the Philippines, and the remainder was to go into a general fund.

Since, however, the goal was not reached, the entire amount collected will be sent to the Philippines to alleviate the conditions of the students on the Islands. Last May's Spring Carnival turned over all its profits, which were approximately $300, to the WSSF drive. The rest of the money was solicited from students and faculty members.

WSSF was set up to provide students in foreign countries with necessary medical care, housing, food, clothing, and academic supplies to complete an education. It is a national project and the only drive which solicits exclusively university students and faculty members.

Paper Makes Staff Changes

Dottie Werlinich was elected editorial director and Jack Senior assistant news editor of the Daily Collegian recently. Miss Werlinich, former assistant news editor, succeeds Seymour Barash, who resigned because of other pressing extra-curricular activities. Senior was elevated from Junior Editorial Board to succeed Miss Werlinich.

In another editorial staff change, Charlotte Seidman was elected promotion co-manager to succeed George Vadasz, who resigned the post but will remain as a member of Senior Editorial Board. Sylvia Ockner, a member of Senior Editorial Board, was appointed exchange editor and morgue director.

All new appointees were chosen by Senior Editorial Board and were named by Thomas Morgan, editor of the Daily Collegian.

Newspaper Agency Begins Deliveries

Deliveries of newspapers through the Student News Agency began Monday, but subscriptions still are open to students living in dormitories, fraternities or in the town. Manager Pat Meconi said yesterday.

He urged that persons wishing to subscribe to out-of-town newspapers, to be delivered by the agency, should do so as soon as possible by phoning 6711, extension 212. He said a drive is being made to get subscriptions for fraternity men and students living in town homes.
