

Enrollment Hits Record Height

College facilities will be jammed even more this year according to the College Public Information Service which reports a record enrollment of 10,928.

Approximately one-fifth of the enrollment, 2,640 students, is in the School of Liberal Arts. Second highest enrollment is in the Engineering school, where 1,824 prospective engineers are to be found.

Engineering also holds down top spot in the number of new matriculants since 525 sophomores are engineering majors. Mineral Industries hold the record for least women enrolled with two, and Liberal Arts is high, boasting 739 in the School.

Women make up the major portion of the School of Education with 659 students, while Home Economics boasts 479 on the distaff side.

Seventy-six transfer students, 1,208 graduate students and 218 special students are included in the record total enrollment.

College Gets Aero Research

Four research projects in the field of engineering have been procured for the College by Joseph Marin, professor of engineering mechanics.

Three of the projects are sponsored by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics and the other by the Research Corporation. The four projects will total $47,000.

Research will deal with the study of the behavior of materials subjected to the combined stresses under conditions of plastic flow, creep, and fatigue.

Information obtained from the project is expected to lead to improved procedures in machine and aircraft design.

Assisting Dr. Marin will be Benjamin Ulrich Jr., Charles A. Neyhart, W. P. Hughes, and L. W. Hu.
