Thespians Revive Artists Course In New Production At Schwab

Tonight is the big night for the Thespians as they present "Welcome Willy", a comedy in two acts at Schwab Auditorium.

Excellent seats are still available for all three performances, but the alumni are urged to purchase their tickets as soon as possible for the "Alumni Only" performance on Saturday, October 15.

The Thespians have come up with an Artist's Course slated for the third scene of the first act. They realize that the College has done away with the original Artist's Course, and found that it left a definite gap in the cultural education of the student body.

Sporkin To Conduct

The course will be presented in two parts under the supervision of Mr. Virgil Neilly, ex-Thespian and present member of the faculty. It will be composed of a symphony orchestra, comprised of the best talent available in the College Symphony and the Blue Band, and will be followed by an operatic quartette rendering "La Donna Mobile" from Verdi's "Rigoletto". Mr. Merrill Sporkin, "prominent campus maestro" will conduct the symphony.

The entire production is in the hands of Thespian faculty adviser, Ray Fortunato, and is co-directed by Bob Koser, Fred Leuschner, Sid Manes, and Sid Simon. Choreography is in charge of Harry Woolver, who directed the dance routines in last spring's "Poor Mr. Varnum."

Nittany Lion Appears

The prologue of the show brings forth Dave Greenwald on the back of our famed Nittany Lion all set to hitch-hike to the big game. Dave wanders through the entire show in the same regalia.

Act 1, scene 1, starts out with a few wisecracks by "Hustlin' Hooper and Willy Watson, class of '24, and ends up with the chorus and glee singers ballading "Footbal Is A Grand Old Game." Sid Manes appears in a fishing number where he sings "There's Plenty of Fish in the Sea."

Bathing Beauties Cavort

The first scene of the second act depicts a Mack Sennet setting of Atlantic City by the sea in the Gay Nineties. Here the Thespians mix together all the color and vividness imaginable to feature the chorus and a male quartette.

The Calypso number is next on the program and is made up of singing and dancing. Marcia Romanoff chants "Your Feet's Too Big For The Bed," while the super-colossal team of Harry Woolver and "Mike" Claysmith go through their "Afro-Cuban" ballet theme.

A parody on quiz shows, called "Name Your Poison," with Joel Fleming em-ceeing, comprises the third scene which promises to be the most hilarious number of the year.

With the finale, everyone is on stage cavorting in their own style, bringing down the curtain.

Men's Judicial Hears First Traffic Case

Opens Meetings to Collegian Reporters

Suspension of a $3 fine for traffic violations was the decision of Tribunal, men's judicial organization, Tuesday night, in the first case aired before it this semester.

The defendant had been charged with illegal possession of an automobile tag and illegal parking. He was found guilty on both counts, which would involve a fine of $2 for the first and $1 for the second. By a majority vote, however, Tribunal members decided to suspend sentence since the defendant could to some extent justify both charges.

This meeting marked the first time that a Daily Collegian reporter has been allowed to sit in on Tribunal hearings.

Robert Keller, chairman of Tribunal, made the decision to open the hearings to the Daily Collegian earlier this week. He specified, however, that names of defendants would not be published in order to "protect their reputations" on campus.

"We are principally interested in beating this traffic problem," Keller said, "and not in punishing violators."

Tribunal warned traffic violators that police may restrict all student cars in the State College area if the traffic problem becomes more severe.

In a business meeting before the hearing, Chairman Keller appointed Tribunal officers. James Richards was named secretary and George Dallas, treasurer.

Next week Tribunal will continue to hear cases turned over to it by the office of Captain Philip Mark of the Campus Patrol.
