

Naval Reserve To Operate Radio Station

The Naval Reserve Volunteer Electronic Warfare Company, one of 80 reserve units in the Fourth Naval District, recently set up a radio sending and receiving station, N4CAN, in Engineering E.

The station will be operated by members of the unit, all members of the Naval Reserve. These men are radio and radarmen, electronic technicians, signalmen and quartermasters. Any man between the ages of 17 and 64 can join the company, any reservist or serviceman.

Four nights a month, N4CAN will go on the air in code and communicate with any of the 80 groups. Reservists studying for an advancement in rate can hereby obtain experience. Time with the unit will go toward longevity and retirement.

On nights not designated for broadcast, operators will listen to, and take messages from other stations.

According to Lieutenant Francis Yonkers, commander of the unit, more than $30,000 worth of radio and electronic equipment is available including 800 technical films.

A civilian voice station K3NRI, will be operated at times when N4CAN is off the air.

Players Hold Show Tryouts

Players are currently having tryouts for three shows, in which there are about 40 open roles.

It is not necessary to be a member of Players to tryout, but freshmen are barred because of hour restrictions, stated Professor Warren Smith. All others interested are urged to sign up today at the Student Union Desk. Tryouts will be Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock in Schwab Auditorium.

The plays on the schedule are "Kind Lady," next Center Stage production, the thesis shows, which include "Beautiful People" and a bill of one act plays, and, finally, "Liliom" which was the theme for the late musical hit "Carousel."

Next Move
Amanda's next move is to make attempts to find Laura a husband. She strikes upon the idea of having Tom bring someone from the warehouse, and after much persuasion, Tom gives in.

Amanda, sparked by the thought of a long-hoped-for gentleman caller, begins at once with much flourish to make her preparations.

With the arrival of the gentleman caller on the eventual evening, it looks as if Laura may finally be coming out of her little world. But upon learning the gentleman caller, Jim, is engaged, Laura seems even worse. And thus the play ends in tragedy, made even worse by Tom's going to sea.

An outstanding performance is given by Francine Toll as Amanda. She gives just the right light to the characterization, handling the humorous parts very well.

A restrained performance is given by Diane Scuderi as Laura, not letting her emotions get out of hand.

Collins Called Home

WASHINGTON—The discussion of unification has resulted in the Army issuing a hurry-home call to its chief of staff, General Lawton Collins. Admirals have gone to the House Armed Services Committee to complain that the Navy is being discriminated against under the unified set-up. Collins, who is in Japan on an inspection tour, has been called back to answer the charges.

Section 'NF'---

Thomas Morgan, president of hat societies council, urged all students at the game to raise from their seats "in one concerted movement of spirit" when the Nittany team comes onto the field both before the game and after half-time.

All campus hatmen will form a traditional double reception line for the team twice—at about 1:45 just before kickoff time, and when the team is ready to return to the field after half-time. Two or three rows of seats directly behind the Blue Band's section will be reserved for hatmen who sacrifice pre-game time to issue flash cards.

Simmons Hall Exhibits Work Of Picasso

An exhibition of 14 large lithographs and four small bronzes, recent works of Pablo Picasso, noted Spanish artist, will open in Simmons Hall at the College on Monday and continue through November 7.

The exhibit, which is on tour under the auspices of the Museum of Modern Art, New York, is the first of a series to be sponsored at the College by the department of architecture.

Picasso since 1946 has spent his summers at the little port of Antibes on the Mediterranean in southern France. Here he has reached back to an archaic Mediterranean and from a sun-bright pagan world of piping satyrs and fauns, of goats and sundials, fish and sea-urchins, and small sailing boats on a blue sea, has taken subjects for his lithographs and sculptures.

Picasso is famous for his spectacular metamorphoses, his abrupt and sometimes controversial innovations of style. Following the angry work of what is called his "ugly period," which lasted from the Spanish Civil War through the early forties.

Alumni Turnout

Hall from 11:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Those being honored are George W. Deike, '03, of Pittsburgh, first president of the Cadet Band of 1900-01 and now a member of the College Board of Trustees; E. R. Norris, '02, of Glen Dale, W. Va.; R. W. Bowers, '04, of Media, Pa.; and P. H. Gentzel, '05, of State College.

A special program will be presented at 1:00 p.m. following the luncheon. Lynn Christy, assistant professor of English composition, will serve as toastmaster and George Ceig, chapel organist, will accompany group singing and play special numbers on the Hammond electric organ.

Blue Band Presents Parody
The Blue Band will appear at the program, marching into Rec Hall in uniform and playing several special numbers. They will also present a parody number during half-time at the football game on the Cadet Bugle Corps of 1899 and on the Cadet Band of 1900-01.

The first session of the Alumni Golf Tournament, scheduled for yesterday afternoon, was postponed because of rain and will be played this morning on the College golf course. Over thirty golfers are expected to compete if the weather is good.
