Lions To Get Rally Send-Off

College Band, Cheerleaders To Lead Meet

Michigan Trip Starts Tonight from Rec Hall

Two days before the crucial battle between two of the nation's grid goliaths, the Nittany Lions and Michigan State's Spartans, a giant send-off pep rally will be held on the steps of Rec Hall at 8 o'clock tonight, Richard Clair, head cheerleader, has announced.

Although rain caused cancellation of last week's pre-Nebraska rally, spirit at the game was especially good.

Students

Student participation at the last few rallies has been spirited and, since the Lions have hit the winning ways again, an even larger turnout is expected tonight.

The Nittany gridders will leave from the Rec Hall at 8:30. Buses will take them to Altoona, where they will entrain for East Lansing.

Peter Giesey, Interfraternity Council president, will MC the rally tonight. No principal speakers are on the agenda, but Clair said that the Blue Band and all the cheerleaders will be present.

Coach Comments

Coach Joseph Bedenk, still in a jovial mood over his team's excellent showing during the last two outings, has warned the student body against overconfidence, for well does he remember last year's 14-14 deadlock against the same Spartans.

Cleaners Give Time Schedule

Oscar Fleisher, student manager of the new student dry cleaning agency, announced a complete time schedule for the distribution and pickup station in the rear of the PUB.

Service will be maintained in the office seven days a week. Hours will be from 7:45 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. and from 3:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Friday hours are from 7:45 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday: 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Sunday: 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR each one of the 211 newly-ribboned sorority pledges.

After a hectic, and at times discouraging, two weeks, the rushing season was formally concluded yesterday.

The Lion congratulates the girls and sororities for having the fortitude to wade through the mass of regulations invoked by Panhellenic Council and wishes all concerned the best of luck on their choices.

Bradley States Debate Harmed Nat'l Defense

WASHINGTON—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, asserted yesterday that "infinite harm" had been done the national defense by the public airing of grievances among the armed services. What the country needs is "an all-American team," said General Bradley, rather than what he spoke of as "Fancy Dans who want to call all the signals."

Nourse Resigns

WASHINGTON — President Truman has accepted the resignation of presidential economic advisor Edwin Nourse with a blandly worded expression of thanks. Nourse had been chairman of the three-man council which advises Truman on economic matters. Nothing in the letter referred to Nourse's recent criticism of government policy.

Coal Strike

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS —The possibility of presidential intervention in the coal strike has become more likely with dimming hope of progress in the negotiations at White Sulphur Spring.

Dairy Science Movies

Movies of the 1947 Cotton Bowl game between Penn State and SMU will highlight the first meeting of the Dairy Science Club in 117 Dairy Building at 7 o'clock tonight.

Nominations Are Conducted For 6 Councils

Elections Slated For Many Positions

Nominations are underway for positions on six of the school student councils, with complete slates of candidates to be turned in to the All-College elections committee by Saturday.

An entire new council will be elected in the School of Liberal Arts. Any regular LA student from third to seventh semester may nominate himself by filling out a nomination form in the LA office in Sparks building.

Nominations end at 5 p.m. tomorrow. The only requirement is a 1.5 all-college average. Twenty-five council members will be elected.

Nominations for the School of Mineral Industries, for one senior member and four sophomores, will end at 4 p.m. tomorrow. Self-nominations may be made on a paper on the MI bulletin board. The requirement is a 1 average; nominees must be in the first semester of their classes.

A 1 average is required in both the School of Chemistry and Physics and the School of Engineering, in which nominations close tomorrow at 5 p.m. In Chem-Phys, a junior in pre-med or science, two freshmen and four sophomores are to be elected. Nomination lists are posted on the school bulletin board. Six third-semester sophomores, one from each department, are to be named in Engineering; nominations may be made with departmental secretaries.

Ring Design Report Planned

The first report on the All-College Cabinet committee appointed at the last meeting to look into suggested changes in the design of the school ring will be made at the meeting of Cabinet tonight in 201 Old Main.

James Balog, senior class president named as chairman of the committee, will make the report at the 8 p.m. meeting.

A few changes in allocation of student government finances will be suggested by All-College Secretary-Treasurer James MacCallum in his inter-class finance report.

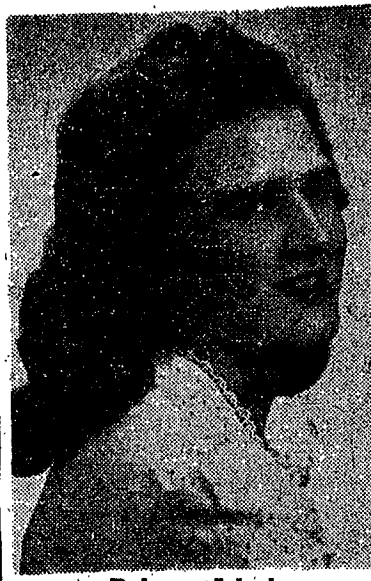

A report on the elections committee also is to be submitted by its chairman, William Shade.

Tri-Delts Take Highest Number of New Coeds

Formal Panhellenic sorority rushing ended Tuesday night as 211 girls were pledged to the 19 sororities at the College. The highest number pledged to any one sorority was the group of 18 taken by Delta Delta Delta.

Delores Jelacic, president of Panhellenic Council, yesterday welcomed the new pledges.

Club To Fete Soph Women

Final plans were laid at the Penn State Club meeting Tuesday night for a mixer to be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the lounge of McElwain Hall.

The mixer will be held for the purpose of acquainting the members of the club with new sophomore girls on campus.

Officials of the club met with representatives of the sophomore women and named this cooperative committee to complete the arrangements: Barbara Thompson, Dorothy Holmstrom, Byrne Tetley, Emerson Jones, and Craig Aicher.

All sophomore girls and club members are invited to come. The evening's program will include refreshments, dancing, and entertainment.

Free Papers Not Allowed Faculty

Faculty members have been requested not to pick up copies of the Daily Collegian which are left at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Marlin Weaver, Daily Collegian business manager, explained that these papers already are paid for by students through their fees. Subscriptions can be purchased at any time, he said.

Pollock Council Appoints Committees

The appointment of committees for the semester, and the consideration of problems facing the men of Pollock Circle dormitories highlighted the Tuesday night meeting of the Pollock Dormitory Council, with John Ogro, newly elected president of the council, presiding.

Russell E. Clark, director of housing at the College, spoke concerning the dorm post office system which may be altered in the near future to provide better mail distribution service for some 1900 students in the area.

The new sound system, placed in the Nittany Dining Commons this year for music and special announcements during meals, was discussed by William Littleton; and Oscar Fletcher, manager of the student dry cleaning agency, outlined the operation of that service to the council.

Committees

Chairmen of council committees, and the groups they head, are: Richard Dietrick, co-recreation; Richard Collodi and James Darcy, sports and games; Charles Edwards, forums; Paul Kulp, movies; William Witsell, music; Joseph Warzinski, hobbies; Thomas Cook and Malcolm Yaple, public welfare; Mike Germanimo, scholarship; John Deyak, safety; Robert Coughanour and Gene McLachlan, food; and Wallace Miller, publicity. Work has begun already in many of these and other, specially appointed committees.

Officers

Other new officers of the council are: Cook, vice-president; Robert Stottlemeyer, secretary; Warzinski, treasurer; and Kulp, parliamentarian.

Herbert Mix will assume duties as president of dorm 9 in place of Raymond Rice, who resigned the post, and Coughanour replaces Ogro as president of dorm 8. Presidents of the separate dorms represent those units on the Pollock Council.

Remaining business on the council agenda will be taken up at a special meeting scheduled for October 25.
