

Shop Around

In this hour of tough, give-and-take competition among college graduates for the top-notch jobs that industry offers, it behooves each student to prepare himself for the struggle.

VIRTUALLY ANY college-caliber student who can apply himself to his work can produce satisfactory class grades, but with these high marks he is liable to fall into the pit of complacency. His attitude may be that his scholastic record will cope with the best of them and he should have no trouble in the job market.

But there's a hitch. Today, more is demanded of the college grad. Today, job application blanks and requests for a list of extra-curricular activities are twin peas in a pod. George N. P. Leetch, director of the College Placement Service, puts it squarely:

"Extra-curricular activities actually develop the individual so he can deal with a prospective employer. A fellow who is out for activities is more likely to be open and frank in the interview and get along much better. So much of a person must be molded outside of class. There fore, school activities are desirable, and employers ask about them."

Present-day employers say they stress extra-curricular activities of college job-seekers because they generally want men "with energy and diversified interests in the key posts. They want men who know what it is to work and play within an organization, men who will do a little extra for the success of a common goal."

AT PENN STATE there is an almost endless list of organizations which one may become a part of. There is bound to be at least one group which will appeal to a specific student, whether it be the Sociology Club or the Rod and Coccus Club or a School Student Council or the Four-H.

Many clubs are organized for the mutual benefit of all the members. They afford an opportunity for students with mutual interests to meet and discuss these interests. These clubs help to broaden the student socially and intellectually.

STILL OTHER organizations demand a more tangible contribution by the members, where the talents of the members are brought into play to produce either a play or a newspaper or a magazine. More could be said, but the important decision must be made by each one of us.

For your own sake, shop around—among Penn State student groups. At least one of them should fit your interests.

The Daily Collegian

Successor to THE FREE LANCE, est. 1887

Published Tuesday through Saturday mornings inclusive during the College year by the staff of the Pennsylvania State College.

Represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service, Madison Ave., New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco.

Entered as second-class matter July 5, 1934, at the State College, Pa., Post Office under the act of March 3, 1879.

Editor Tom Morgan Business Manager Marlin A. Weaver

STAFF THIS ISSUE

Night Editor Stan Degler
Assistant Night Editor Mary Ellen Grube
Copy Editor Al Ryan
Assistants — F. G. Socoloski, Rosemary Delahanty, John Pakkanen, Pegge Shierson.
Advertising Staff — Bill Schott, Sue Halperin, Pete Kalandiak, Carl Lucyk.
Classified Manager Shirley Fahler

THE DISAPPOINTED WAR BRIDE

Courtesy Institute for American Democracy, Inc.

The Safety Valve . . .

Thumbs Up

TO THE EDITOR: In answer to the article "Thumbs Down" which appeared in The Daily Collegian of October 18 dealing with the Bonus for Veterans of Pennsylvania True there is an organization within the Commonwealth made up of veterans of the past war who say "NO" to a State Bonus for their "Comrades" (using the term loosely). But the public should know that this group is made up in the main of powerful business groups of the State, therefore, I contend the above are not thinking of the welfare of G.I. Joe, his family or perhaps the widows of some who can't come back to collect the bonus, but are more concerned with the interests of "Big Business" and in the main their own pocket books in the form of tax blanks.

I believe the average veteran and his family will be more than willing to repay this Great State in the form of taxes covering a period of time in order to have that lump sum "now" when it is desperately needed in view of the terrible year most of our citizens have seen in the way of a business recession, coupled with the present labor disputes. Many a home, car or even hospital bills can be paid off readily by the bonus, but after all what is a home, a car, or a hospital bill to the business clique of the State who are literally rolling in the dough their business collected in their absence during the war; they received their bonus plus from Uncle Sam in the fat war contract while the rest of the boys wallowed around in the mud. These so called "Comrades" of ours probably represent the percent from Pennsylvania who sat in the Pentagon directing the operations.

—Tom Keith

Student BX at W. Va.

Student activities during the past few years display foresight, planning and extensive cooperation. Many forward steps have been made in student government, one of the most notable being the organization of the Student Book Exchange.

—The Daily Athenaeum, West Virginia U.

Heart of Campus

For the Chapel is the heart of campus — both figuratively and literally. Be you Catholic, Protestant, or Jew you will find that the Chapel, has an activity that will suit your needs.

—Syracuse Daily Orange

Gleaned From Prints

By AL RYAN

15 YEARS AGO

Charges of sedition were lodged against a Penn State alumnus this week, 15 years ago, and Danielson, Conn. police, who made the arrest, alleged that the roots of the man's "Red" beliefs lay, "not in the gutters of New York, but among the trees of Alma Mater's front campus."

"THEY OUGHT to shoot some of these darn radical professors that will take one of our own good American boys from us," agents of the law urged when it was learned that the man was "neither Russian agent nor German alien . . ."

Tracing the man's record at the College, it was established to the satisfaction of many here that the man couldn't have had such seeds planted in his philosophy here, either in classrooms or in organized extracurricular activities. Rising in ire to answer the insinuations against the teachers here at the time, at least one student labeled Danielson police as "libelously mistaken." "Penn State is blameless," he concluded.

Fraternity men are more than likely to agree with a recent survey which places boarding house meals above those of the average fraternity, stated a writer at this time, 15 years ago.

There are few things more pitiful, he claimed, than the attempts made by most student caterers to nurture their brothers through four years of college life on the same menus which they themselves suffered as freshmen.

Gazette

Friday, October 21

VALLEY FORGE GRADS, R23, Dorm 37, 7:15 p.m.

AG HILL BREEZE editorial staff, 7 p.m., 4 Ag Building.

INTER-CHURCH PARTY, Inter-Church Student Fellowship Halloween party, 7:30 p.m., Wesley Foundation.

COLLEGE HOSPITAL

Admitted Wednesday: William Whiteford.
Admitted Thursday: John A. Pagonis, Helen Whittaker.

Discharged Thursday: Donald Murray, Francis Rogel, Fred Felbaum, Suzanne Stern, Elouise Powers, Sylvia Powers, Thomas Anselia, Suzanne Hosler.

COLLEGE PLACEMENT

Further information concerning interviews and job placement can be obtained in 204 Old Main.

S. S. Kresge Co., Oct. 25 and 26, February grads in arts and letters, C&F (men only).

General Chemical Div. of Allied Chemical and Dye Corp., Oct. 27, Feb. grads in ME, ChemE, Chem, also few CE's interested in structural work or sanitary waste disposal. Must have a 1.5 or better.

Proctor and Gamble Co., Preliminary application deadline, October 21, February grads in ME, ChemE, IE/Chem.

AT THE MOVIES

NITTANY—Not Wanted.
STATE—Icabad and Mr. Poad.
CATHAUM—Beyond The Forest.

DOES YOUR BIKE NEED REPAIRS?

IF SO, BRING IT TO THE BIKE SHOP

W. F. KRUMRINE
Rear 433 W. College Ave
Phone 4723

CATHAUM

Special Advance Preview
Friday Midnite Show

Doors open 11:30 p.m. seats .55

VICTOR LIZABETH LUCILLE SONNY
MATURE SCOTT BALL TUFTS

EASY LIVING

with LLOYD NOLAN AN RKO RADIO CITY

DO YOU KNOW . . .
That you can have your watch repaired promptly and reasonably at . . .

B. P. MOYER
STOP UP TODAY!
Upstairs at College Sportswear

Tux Rentals NOW you can attend the Junior Prom. We have all sizes, double and single breasted tux. All garments completely sterilized. Also a complete line of accessories such as collars, shirts, ties, studs, etc. Reasonable prices. Come in today! HALL'S DRY CLEANING SHOP, College Avenue and Allen Street. Phone 2558.

I'm Not Making A Pinch . . . I'm Just Going to

Mexi-Hots

THEY'RE ONLY 15c

Mexi Hot

THE REAL MEXICAN HOT DOG!
SOUTH ALLEN STREET

The First National Bank

Of State College

Member of

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Federal Reserve System