

Lions Tabbed Favorites For Clash With Syracuse

Michigan State.

The series between the two schools stands at 11 to 10 with Penn State on the big end. Last year the Lions drubbed Syracuse 34-14, but Custis threw a scare into many a Lion rooster with his 12 completions, two for TD's.

That same Custis, heavier and more experienced and this season operating from the Orange's new "Winged T" attack, will be chuckin' today. New Orange Head Coach Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder, in changing the team's formation, moved Custis from tailback to quarterback and built his offense around the Negro star.

Chief Threat

On every play, Custis has the alternative of passing or running, but he spends most of his time on the former duties. Everytime he completes a pass he sets a new Syracuse record. The Lions learned what to expect when Custis completed 10 out of 17 passes against Rutgers for 135 yards, two weeks ago.

Al Michaels, who scouted the Orange, counts Custis' passing the chief Syracuse threat. In addition to their quarterback star, the New Yorkers will field a few more than capable hands in fellows like Captain Jim Fiocco at guard, Jim Dragotta at end, and George Davis and Bob Young, backs. Fiocco is back for his first action after being injured in the opener. The line is heavy but slow, and the team, in general, lacks depth but has experience with 25 returning lettermen.

Penn State stock rose during the week with the announcement that fullback Fran Rogel, out of the Michigan State game with a twisted ankle, will be ready for at least part-time service. The Lions, therefore, will probably field a strong starting eleven with the exception of center where Ken Bunn and Joe Shumock must share the post formerly held jointly by Hedderick and Beatty. Replacements are a problem.

Tailback Bill Luther, who finally hit his stride against Nebraska two weeks ago and who won the player-of-the-week award this week for his good work at East Lansing, is slated to start in the backfield with Rogel, Owen Dougherty and Chuck Drazenovich. The Lions will slightly outweigh the visitors.

BERNIE CUSTIS

Penn State's pass defense is expected to get plenty of trial under fire from Curtis, Syracuse's famed pigskin-tosser. Custis, the spearhead of the Orange offensive, operates from the quarterback slot in the "T" formation.

Alpha Chi Sigs Smack Phi Eps

With Henry Albright passing for two touchdowns and scoring another, Alpha Chi Sigma crushed Phi Epsilon Pi, 24-0, to snap the 12-game victory skein of the defending IM touch football champion Thursday night under the lights of Beaver practice field. The loss eliminated the Phi Eps, titleholders for the past two years, from competition.

In other IM games, Arcacia set back Zeta Beta Tau, 12-6, in overtime, Dorm 44 blanked Dorm 44, 6-0, and the Colonials gained a 1-0 extra period conquest from Dorm 10.

A 20-yard pass from Chuck Habel to Mal Wilson on the final overtime play was good for the touchdown that gave Acacia a 12-6 triumph over ZBT. Acacia had trailed, 6-0, at the half.

Paul Lapcevic's five-yard pass to Don Gaddess produced the TD that gave Dorm 25 a 6-0 edge over Dorm 44.

Phi Delta Theta smothered ZBT, 32-8, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon drubbed Phi Kappa Tau, 35-5, in IM swimming meets at Glennland pool.

Dorm 2 Gains IM Swim Title; Gene Kolber, Double Winner

Gene Kolber won both the 60-yard freestyle and the 60-yard backstroke as Dorm 2 swept to the independent intramural swimming title with a one-sided 33-8 victory over Dorm 3143 in Glennland pool yesterday afternoon.

Kolber, who earlier in the week set the backstroke mark, won the freestyle in 32.4 seconds, only four-tenths of a second of the record. He was trailed by teammate Mike Kline. Kolber copped the backstroke in 40.1 seconds and was followed to the finish by Bill Shaffer, also of Dorm 2.

Mal Waldron took first in the 60-yard breaststroke to give Dorm 2 another victory. Waldron was clocked in 47.4 seconds. Bob Hammel won the diving honors to become Dorm 3143's only winner.

Earl Comfort, Bob Sundinds, Ted Ryniewicz, and Kline teamed to give Dorm 2 the edge in the 120-yard freestyle relay in 1:08.8.
