

Wysocki To Run For Soph Prexy On Lion Ticket

Hutchon Unopposed As Frosh Candidate

Charles Wysocki became the Lion party candidate for sophomore class president Sunday night after a dorm-mate's nomination speech set off the ballot land-slides to defeat Joseph Arteritano.

Wysocki was unable to speak after being involved in a week-end auto accident near his home at Nanticoke. Charles Edwards, who lives in Pollock Circle dorm 13, presented his speech.

Jo Hutchon, recently-elected queen of the Belle Hop Ball, was unopposed for the freshmen class presidency nomination.

Other sophomore Lion candidates are Jack Haines, vice president, and Lois Pulver, secretary-treasurer. Haines squeezed through his nomination after Don Carlson, Harrisburg center transfer student, walked onto the scene just before balloting and lost only by six votes.

Gerry Brown won the freshman vice-presidential nomination over Harriet Stern and after balloting, Peggy Hepler captured the secretary-treasurer spot, to complete the all-girl Lion slate.

Miss Hepler won a majority vote over Caroline Laughner after they emerged from three previous ballots with more votes than Marie Farren and Joyce Kempf.

Campaign

Al Von Arx, sophomore campaign manager for the clique, was introduced by Samuel Casey and Albert Chakmak, publicity chairman, called for a word-of-mouth campaign to elect the Lion slate.

Lion leaders, who were elected in power in All-College Cabinet and junior and senior class offices last spring, attended the Sunday night meeting. With another sweep at the polls Nov. 15, the clique would control all four classes in addition to two more seats on Cabinet.

Walter Vilsmeier, sophomore division chairman, presided. All clique candidates will meet tonight to set up initial campaign plans and party members who will help in clique public relations work are to meet in 409 Old Main Thursday night.

Ed Honorary To Initiate 38

Thirty-eight pledges will be initiated by the Alpha Kappa chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, education honorary, at their annual Founders' Day banquet to be held tonight in the Westminster Foundation of the Presbyterian Church.

The Founders' Day banquet will be a candle-light ceremony to commemorate the founding of the honorary in 1917 at Missouri University. The group hopes to have present at least one of the original members of the local chapter as

Parties Name Freshman, Sophomore Candidates

Final nominations for the freshman and sophomore class elections two weeks from today were named Sunday evening at meetings of the Lion and State parties.

The campaign is scheduled to get underway next Monday, and platforms of the two parties probably will be announced within a week.

The Penn State Christian Association finance drive, which opened with a "Kick-off Rally" Sunday afternoon, began its official soliciting by divisional and sectional leaders yesterday.

Student co-chairmen of the drive are Jo Ann Esterly, in charge of women, and Charles Oerkvitz, in charge of men. The faculty division is headed by Dr. Russel Dickerson, vice-dean of resident instruction in the School of Agriculture.

The drive, which will continue through Saturday, November 5, has as its goal, $7500, of which the students are asked to contribute $5000 and the faculty, $2500.

Chief speaker at Sunday's rally was Dr. Charles C. Noble, dean of Hendrick's Memorial chapel at Syracuse University. Others who spoke were Jo Ann Esterly, Charles Oerkvitz, and Dr. Dickerson.

Student Contribution

Dr. Noble pointed out that the student goal of $5000 boils down to about 50 cents per student. He said that this contribution would be equivalent to two beers or two sodas or a movie. This sacrifice, he stated would be well worth the benefits the students would derive from the PSCA. Whether active in the CA or not, Dr. Noble said, the whole student body benefits from the organization.

The drive is being conducted on a person to person contact basis. Students will be able to pledge on a card provided by the solicitor or they may pay cash. Students can have their pledges taken out of their fees and veterans may have them deducted from their book checks.

Everyone who contributes will become a contributing member of the PSCA.

Each solicitor will also provide

Steel Shortage Slows Building

A shortage of steel materials needed in the construction of the dining commons of the new men's dormitories will slow up work this week, George Ebert, director of the department of physical plant, announced yesterday.

The materials, hardware and other steel equipment, have not been delivered because of the steel strike, he explained.

Mr. Ebert could give no estimate of the progress made thus far because of the interruptions which have plagued the project. Strikes temporarily halted work during the spring and summer, setting back the construction timetable.

Excavation for the dormitories was started last fall. The schedule then called for completion of the project by the fall of 1950. The units, which will cost approximately $6,000,000, will house and provide dining accommodations for 1,343 men.

The new buildings will be of red brick with Indiana limestone trim and modified Georgian architecture. In design, they will be similar to Watts, Jordan and Irvin Halls.

Major Strikes Affect Campus

The present coal and steel strikes have finally affected the College campus. Although these two major strikes have not yet created a national crisis, the College is already experiencing the effects of a dwindling coal supply as a result of the prolonged work stoppage.

All students in campus dormitories and areas have been asked by George W. Ebert, director of the Department of Physical Plant, to cooperate with the plan to conserve coal at the College. With only a six months supply of coal, officials of the College have been forced to take measures to cut down all unnecessary lighting.

All dormitories and areas of the College will be forced to cut down the use of electricity by turning off all the unnecessary lights during the day and evening.

Janitors have been instructed to cut down wattage of lights in the dormitories by placing 25 watt bulbs in the hallways and in room ceiling lights. The lobbies will have 60 watt bulbs, but desk lamps will remain the same.

Small Game Season Opens Today

Several thousand hunters from Centre County will take up their guns today and trek to the fields and woods to launch the general small game season at 9 a.m.

The State Game Commission expects the local huntsmen to bag more game this year than in any other post-war season. The Commission bases its prediction on an extensive food and cover program it has conducted, and on the comparatively mild weather. Taking into account these factors an increased supply of game is almost a certainty.

County sportsmen's groups have also helped the Commission in stocking projects which assures the trackers with "plenty of game."

According to the game warden the stock of turkeys and ringneck are exceptionally good, and the only game which isn't up to par is squirrel. Within the week an additional supply of cock birds has been stocked in the district.

With many hunters expected afield, sportsmen have been cautioned to take all precautions against carelessness with their guns, destruction to other peoples property, breaking rules of the code laws.

No hunting will be allowed before 9 a.m. or after 5 p.m. today. Starting Wednesday and for the remainder of the season, the hunting day will open at 7 a.m. and close at 5 p.m.

Though wild turkeys will be legal prey in surrounding counties from Nov. 1 to 12 only, County hunters have a full season with a limit of one to a hunter. Ruffed grouse, with a limit of two per day and six for the season, will be legal Nov. 1, 2, 3, 10, 11, 12. Ring neck pheasants (males only), cottontail rabbits, and squirrels may be hunted from Nov. 1 to Nov. 26.

Marian Whitely Is State Party Frosh Nominee

War Vet Joseph Arnold Seeks Sophomore Post

A slim, dark-eyed coed whose nickname is "Chubi" won the State party nomination Sunday evening for presidency in the first freshman class on campus in several years.

Marian Whitely, who had been recommended for the candidacy by the steering committee of the party, received the position in voting during the party meeting in 10 Sparks. She was opposed by Peggy Mayberry, who was nominated from the floor.

Joseph Arnold, a former Seabee and Army engineer who spent 30 days as a cadet at West Point before deciding to attend the College, received the bid as candidate for the sophomore class presidency.

Arnold, also recommended by the steering committee, is a major in forestry. Kenneth Rolston, last year's State party candidate for this post, also was in forestry.

In fact, all the candidates recommended by the steering committee were elected in the relatively brief meeting that began with passage of a motion to hold preliminary nominations and final elections the same night.

Sally Shoemaker, who had been active in student government in high school and was awarded a DAR citation, was unopposed for the sophomore vice-president slot, while Jack Baron, who spent his first year at Swarthmore, defeated Kenneth Katz and Anthon Eagle for the position as sophomore secretary-treasurer candidate.

Yerger

Joan Yerger, who was active in high school student government and yearbook work, won the freshman vice-presidency nod from Connie Melvin, who was nominated from the floor. Lucy Barr, Allentown coed active in music work, was unopposed as candidate for freshman secretary-treasurer nominee.

Arnold was president of his class in both his junior and senior high school years. Miss Whitely, in high school, was vice-president of her student council and took part in student newspaper and Y-Teen work.

Richard Weisberg has been named campaign manager for the State party, it was announced.

LA Council Elects Heads

A complete slate of Liberal Arts student council officers will be elected in 409 Old Main at 6:15 tonight.

Nominations for the council offices were made at a meeting Sunday afternoon. The newly-elected council, consisting of 7 sophomores, 11 juniors and 7 seniors, was presided over by Elliot Krane, the retiring council vice-president.

Joel Fleming, Earl Schaffer, George Vadasz and Dottie Werlinch were nominated for president. Candidates for vice-president are Herb Arnold and Ted Wiedenman, and Mary Conrath and Dottie Luft are the nominees for secretary treasurer.
