Japanese Prof Receives Nobel Physics Award

Late AP News Courtesy WMAJ

STOCKHOLM — A Japanese professor at Columbia University, Dr. Hideki Yukawa, received a $30,000 Nobel prize for his work in theoretical atomic physics, it was announced here yesterday.

The Nobel prize for chemistry was awarded to Dr. William Francis Giauque, a professor of thermo dynamics at the University of California, for his studies on the effects of cold temperatures on matter. The Swedish Academy could not decide on a candidate for the literature award and shelved the prize until next year.

Pilot Has Relapse

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—The only survivor of the tragic Eastern Airlines transport crash on Tuesday, Erick Bridoux, has suffered a relapse at a hospital in Alexandria, Va. The Bolivian piloted the P-38 which crashed into the transport, causing death to 55 persons aboard the big plane.

News Briefs

Philotes Pictures

Philotes members are requested to wear white blouses and dark skirts for the group picture to be taken at the Penn State Photo Shop at 6:45 tonight.

PSCA Work Camp

Those interested in the PSCA work camp tomorrow afternoon should sign up at the office in 304 Old Main.

Senior Engineering

K. B. McEachron, Jr., of the General Electric Company will speak on "Industry Looks for General Competence" in a senior engineering lecture in Schwab at 4:10 today.

Bible Fellowship

Penn State Bible Fellowship will have Bob Lancaster, radio evangelist, as its guest speaker at a meeting in 405 Old Main at 7:30 today.

Oxford, Penn State Debate Squads Meet

Two students from Oxford University will square off in a debate with two men of the College team in Schwab Auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight. Dr. Robert T. Oliver, professor and head of the department of speech at the College, will serve as chairman of the international debate.

Richard Schweiker and John Fedako, of the College, will present the negative side of the topic, "Resolved: That the public ownership of basic industries and essential services is in the best interests of a democratic society." Robin Day and Geoffrey Johnson Smith, of Oxford, will present the affirmative.

In the past it has been the custom to team one visiting debater with one from the College, if the topic could be more objectively discussed. Tonight's debate will feature the contrast of two of England's top-ranking students, who presumably favor the British system of industrial relations, and two veteran debaters from the College, who will point out weaknesses in a public-owned industry.

The audience will get a chance

Yeaton Announces 'Menagerie' Cast

The casts for this weekend's production of "Glass Menagerie," Tennessee Williams' award play being shown at Center Stage by Penn State Players, have been announced by Kelly Yeaton, director.

Friday's cast features Charles Schultz as Tom; Timothy Hayes, Jim; Diane Scuderi, Amanda; Sonya Tilles, Laura. The cast for Saturday is Dan Wargo, Tom; Timothy Hayes, Jim; Francine Toll, Amanda; Sonya Tilles, Laura.

"Glass Menagerie" is in its fourth week and will continue for two more before being replaced by "Kind Lady", which is now in rehearsal. Performances start promptly at 8 p.m. and reservations may be made at Student Union.

Poet, Columnist In Forum Series

Carl Sandburg

Sharply contrasting topics have been scheduled for the first two programs in the State College Community Forum Series to be presented at Schwab Auditorium. Hanson Baldwin, military affairs columnist, will discuss "Security in an Atomic Age" on Dec. 7, while Carl Sandburg, author and poet, will present a program of American folklore on Jan. 11. Sandburg's program will consist of American folk songs and tall tales. It will include tales in the background of Abraham Lincoln, and such American myths as Paul Bunyan, Steamboat Bill and Casey Jones.

to express its views on the subject in an open forum following the debate. Anyone may attend, and admission is free. This is the first of a series of debates to be held both here at the College and at other universities.

Campus Politicos Set For Campaign

Active campaigning for the Nov. 15 sophomore and freshman class elections will get underway next week with both the State and Lion parties determined to bring home the political bacon.

However, the prospect is one of a rather tame tussle for prestige, rather than a real knock-down drag-out political battle.

No exciting "political issues" have developed thus far, and the probability is that none will arise. Neither party has shown any real enthusiasm for the contest, although the State party, defeated in All-College and class elections last Spring, would be greatly gratified to make a comeback through victory in this election.

Such a victory might pave the way for the State party to throw

Dickerson Gets Service Plaque

In recognition of his service as former chapter advisor, Dr. R. B. Dickerson, vice-dean of the School of Agriculture, will be awarded a plaque at the annual FFA banquet tonight at Autoport.

Dr. Dickerson became an instructor of agricultural education at Penn State in 1938, and in 1943 he was named assistant professor. He resigned this position two years ago to return to his New Jersey fruit farm. When Dr. H. K. Wilson was named Director of Intermediate Registration and later Dean of Men, Dr. Dickerson replaced him as Vice-Dean and Director of Resident Instruction in the Ag School.

In addition to the plaque presentation, senior men in agricultural education will be awarded chapter farmer degrees. These men will soon begin their practice teaching.

H. C. Fetterolf, chief of the agricultural education division of the Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg, will be the main speaker at the banquet. Mr. Fetterolf recently returned from a tour through Europe.

The eighth semester seniors who are to receive the farmer degrees are: Carroll S. Barton; William H. Baumgartner; Julian R. Beard; Robert J. Blough; Donald J. Chattin; Stephen V. Dawson; P. L. Dillon; Charles C. Drawbaugh; Robert E. Eckrote; Paul G. Harr; Edward E. Heyler; Willis Horton; John H. Liggett; Edward L. Litwhiler; William H. Love; Francis O. McCanna; Jackson H. Owen; George W. Pyle; Wilbur B. Rose; William B. Ruth; Lloyd S. Smith; William R. Swinesburg; Donald W. Thomas; Raymond E. Tribby; Arnold G. Wilson; and Russell C. Wilson.

Music Honorary Taps 15 Girls

The red and white pledge ribbons currently worn by fifteen young women on the campus signify that they have been tapped for Louise Homer Club, the only music honorary for women at the College.

Membership is based on general scholastic ability combined with interest and ability in music. The new members include: Barbara Bollman, Gay Brunner, Mary Conrath, Connie Croushore, Elizabeth Deknatel, Lola Jean Edmunds, Joyce Fosa, Margaret Gedeon, Rose Kenny, Norma Lou McCormick, Martha McMillan, Virginia Olsen, Nancy Papke, Cleo Ross, and Elizabeth Swift. Officers for the year are: Roselyn McCollom, president; Lois Hughes, vice-president; Joan O'Hara, secretary; Alice McFeeley, treasurer; and Suzanne Scurfield, pledge mistress. Regular meetings are held twice a month.

Fourteen Candidates Vie for Mardi Gras King Title Tonight

Rain Cancels Football Rally

Inclement weather forced cancellation of last night's football pep rally which was to have taken place on the steps of Old Main at 7:30 o'clock.

Lack of facilities prevented the rally from being moved to another location.

Because the bulk of the organization committee, along with members of the coaching staff, will be leaving for the West Virginia battlesite, it will not be possible to stage the affair today.

Feature of the sendoff for the Nittany football team in its encounter with the Mountaineers of Virginia, tomorrow afternoon, was to have been the tradition-cracking MC handling by Gladys Lou Miller.

Augmenting speeches by members of the coaching staff, the program was to include a group of tunes by the fast-rising campus Harmonaires and a musical repast by the Blue Band.

Froth Sponsors Story Contest

Froth will print in its December issue the best short story submitted by a student at the College. All stories must be turned in to the Student Union desk before 5 p.m. November 11, and should have a maximum length of 1500 words.

The acceptance of purely literary, serious material marks a shift in Froth policy, occasioned by the lack of other outlets for such writing in the present campus publications. All student writers are encouraged by Froth editors to at least submit their work for consideration.

Entries preferably should be typewritten, double-spaced, with a length of 1000 to 1500 words, and are unrestricted as to content, style, or literary treatment. The editorial staff of Froth shall select and may, with the permission of the author, edit the stories.

The November issue of Froth, featuring an elections theme satirizing the civil and College elections, will go on sale Tuesday.

Book Refunds

Refunds for books sold to Pittsburgh book store agents are now available at the student book exchange in the TUB.

Students may secure their refunds from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. No refunds will be made after 4:30 next Thursday. Receipts must be presented to obtain a refund.

Crowning of a king at 10:30 tonight will highlight Mortar Board's annual Mardi Gras, which will be held in Recreation Hall from 8:30 until midnight.

Voting for the Mardi Gras king will continue until 10 o'clock when all pennies must be cast for the 14 candidates. Prospective kings have been asked by Mortar Board to be present at the time of crowning.

Candidates and the women's group by whom they are presented are: Robert Bogan, Zeta Tau Alpha; Guyer Candy, Alpha Chi Omega; Ronald Coder, Delta Gamma; Gill Chubb, Alpha Xi Delta; Robert Keller, Alpha Gamma Delta; Peter Krohn, Phi Sigma Sigma; Russel Leib, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Entertainment Planned

Entertainment throughout the evening will be provided by the 18 women's groups who are sponsoring booths. Descriptive phrases as transmitted to Mortar Board in describing the various booths are: Bean shooting, Alpha Chi Omega; "balloons a poppin'", Alpha Gamma Delta; dance review of 12 countries, Alpha Omicron Pi; bubbles dart game, Alpha Xi Delta; "spin-to-win," Chi Omega.

Basketball throw, Delta Delta Delta; turtle marathon, Delta Gamma; sling-shooting for cigarettes, Delta Zeta; "quley-burl," Gamma Phi Beta; shoeshine, Kappa.

Dorm Area Gets Gun Storeroom

Joseph Errigo, chief resident advisor of the Nittany-Pollock area, has announced appropriation of a gun storeroom for residents of Nittany-Pollock and Windcrest areas.

The room was given to the area by the College because present facilities were deemed inadequate. At present, guns are being stored in the Campus Patrol Office in Old Main.

Errigo announced that all guns must be registered and stored in the new room or with the Campus Patrol by tomorrow or disciplinary action will be taken by the College. He asked for complete cooperation from all area residents.

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR Mortar Board, senior women's honorary.

Tonight the feminine "wheels" stage their annual Mardi Gras in Rec Hall, all proceeds of the benefit affair going to the Dean Charlotte Ray Scholarship Fund.

The Lion licks his chops in joyful anticipation of a fun-packed night amidst beauteous displays of pulchritude at Rec Hall and howls for the sponsors who made it possible, Mortar Board the incumbent Lions out of power in All-College Cabinet next Spring; but, barring a landslide, the results of the Fall balloting probably will prove inconclusive.

Actual campaigning will begin early next week, with both parties scheduled to announce their campaign platforms at about that time. The platform committee of the Lion clique currently is at work drawing up their campaign planks, and the State party will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. in 10 Sparks to present a preliminary platform draft to the clique membership for final approval.

Top leaders of the Lions will meet at the same time in 410 Old Main for a pre-campaign get-together at which they will go over plans for their strategy.

The campaign strategy meeting of the Staters will hear the platform drawn up by a committee chaired by Robert Sprague and Kenneth Katz; recommendations may be made from the floor and the clique then will vote on adopting the platform.

The State clique is planning a strong publicity campaign this Fall, Chairman Joel Fleming has announced. Beyond this he would reveal little of the party's program for fighting the ballot battle.

Nor is the Lion party, with Sophomore Chairman Walter Vilsmeier in charge of the campaign, letting any possible surprise cats out of the bag.

Both parties will indulge in the traditional methods of campaigning.
