Primary Elections Held By WSGA, WRA Today

Primary elections for WSGA and WRA sophomore and freshman officers will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in the woman's dormitory units, Shirley Gauger and Virginia Miller, presidents of the respective organizations, announced yesterday.

Freshman are asked to vote in Atherton Hall; residents of McAllister Hall and the cottages in McAllister; and all others in Simmons Hall. All women coeds are eligible to vote for the secretary-treasurer of WRA and the treasurer of WSGA. Only freshman may vote for the freshman senator of WSGA, while only sophomores may vote for the sophomore representative to WRA and the sophomore senator of WSGA.

Primary voting will eliminate candidates for each office so that only two will be running for the office when final elections are held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday. Primary elections, however, will not be held for freshman representative to WRA, as only three candidates have been nominated for that office. Voting on Monday in final elections will determine the winner of this group.

WRA candidates are Margaret Betts, Barbara Cochran, Nancy

Dalzell, Genie Deger, Nancy McClain and Margaret Rouse for sophomore representative; Helen Neusbaum, Sally Osmond, Sally Sechler, Jane Snitger, and Marilyn Williams for secretary-treasurer; and Patricia Frank, Janet Herd and Mable Markle for freshman.

WSGA Candidates

WSGA candidates include Margaret Fahringer, Doris Heister, JoAnn Lee, and Margaret Schultz for freshman senator; Marcie Grimshaw, Barbara Klopp, Leta McGill, Ann Porter, Annabelle Russell, and Sally Shoemaker, sophomore senator; and Lois Jakob, Eleanor Miller, Virginia Miller, Virginia Preuss, Jane Stieber and Nancy Walker, treasurer.

Political Campaigns ---

ing: Posters supporting the party and candidates, talks during dinner hours at fraternity houses, visits to men's dormitories, and other forms of advertising.

But the appeal of the election will be limited, and, by and large, it will be something new to most of the students casting ballots.

Probably not too much can be stressed by politics in the way of all-college issues, since only officers for the lower division classes will be elected. Whatever issues are raised will have to be slanted toward lowerclassmen.

In addition, this is the first contact most lowerclassmen will have with campus politics at the College. As a result of their experiences in this election and of continual observation as the year progresses, they may switch parties for later elections and completely reverse whatever trend they set up this Fall.

Under the chairmanship of William Shade, the All-College elections committee also is laying plans for the voting. Transcripts of the candidates have been checked by Shade.

A large banner with the inscription "Election Today—Vote Now," purchase of which recently was authorized by All-College Cabinet, will be hung on the outside of the Armory election day to remind students to go to the polls. Located on the second floor balcony of Old Main, polls will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Shade reported.

About half a dozen ballot boxes will be used in an effort to eliminate standing in line to vote. Matriculation cards will be required as identification of voters.
