

Nittany Booters Run Skein to 12, Edge Tarheels, 3-2

Buss, Lane Excell; Maryland Next Foe

With 12 successive outings without a defeat under their belt, after Saturday's 3-2 victory over North Carolina, the soccer forces of Nittany are preparing for their next top-flight foe, Maryland.

Coach Bill Jeffrey was well pleased with the result of the Tarheel contest but no more than 2000 spectators who witnessed the Beaver Field fray.

Although the margin of victory was a single goal, the closest shave this year, actual play was far more one-sided than indicated by the score.

The Lions, led by right-forward Clarence Buss, tallied once in each of the three initial periods and dominated play throughout.

Meanwhile, Tarheel scoring came in the closing seconds of the first half and again in the final moments of the tilt. The Carolinians drove hard after the second State goal and finally succeeded in getting past Nittany Goalie George Lawther, only ten seconds away from the end of the first half.

With only 30 seconds remaining in the game Eddie Foy, inside right, tallied for the Tarheels unassisted.

TOUGHEST FOE

North Carolina provided the Lions with their toughest opposition yet, but the fast passing and accurate shooting attack, led by forwards Joe Lane and Buss were too much for the visitors and the game was only seven minutes old when Buss scored, after taking a pass from Lane.

There was no further scoring until Lane scored on a short pass from Ron Coleman, the Lion's sophomore sensation, early in the second period.

Buss tallied for the second time for the Jeffrey men, this time unassisted, in the third period to give the home-team a 3-1 margin which they held until 30 seconds before the contest ended.

OPPORTUNITIES

The Nittany men had several more opportunities to score but were unable to get past goalie Bud Blankenship. In spite of the bitter cold, a season-record crowd watched the encounter which saw the Lions' record their sixth straight of the year against no defeats.

For North Carolina it was the second loss of the season, the Tarheels having previously lost a decision to Navy.

Davis, Hallman Win in IM Tennis

Ed Davis, Phi Kappa Sigma, and Paul Hallman, Sigma Pi, advanced into the semi-finals of the championship flight in the fraternity singles tournament by scoring victories in their quarter final matches last week.

Davis downed Don Brown, Chi Phi, 6-3, 6-2, while Hallman had a slightly tougher time of disposing of Bill Erb, Phi Kappa Psi, 6-3, 6-4. This is the second year in a row that Hallman has reached the semi-finals. Last year he succumbed to Bill Aiken, Phi Delta Theta, who went on to take the championship.

Matches yet to be played in the championship flight pit together two men who along with Hallman

An Open Letter from the Daily Collegian

One week from today you students will go to the polls to elect your own student government. How many of you know personally the people who are running for office and who will, when elected, represent you?

It is Collegian's belief that this semester, as in the past, you students don't know your representatives-to-be well enough, if at all. It is also the belief of The Daily Collegian that you want to meet and get to know these people just as they want to meet you.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE!

Tomorrow night at 7:30 at the TUB, The Daily Collegian is sponsoring a mixer and you are all invited. Candidates for office from both the Lion and the State parties will be there. "Red" Roth, managing editor of The Collegian will introduce them to you.

Come to the mixer tomorrow night, meet your future leaders and contribute to better student government at Penn State.

Dance to the music of the Arny Taylor sextet—have fun and accomplish something worthwhile at the same time.

Yours in the interest of better student government,

The Daily Collegian
