

Women's Table Tennis Begins; Eight Forfeits Mark Opening

Table tennis season opened last week simultaneously with basketball. Results for the first week showed eight forfeits.

On Monday MacAllister forfeited to Philotes and Women's Building forfeited to Leonides. Later that evening Spruce defeated Oak, and Hemlock downed Simmons in two hard-fought rounds.

Delta Delta Delta beat Alpha Xi Delta by taking two matches out of three on Wednesday night. Later Phi Mu lost to Phi Sigma Sigma and Beta Sigma Omicron succumbed to Alpha Epsilon Phi. Zeta Tau Alpha forfeited to McElwain.

Four matches of the six scheduled were forfeited on Thursday evening. The forfeits included Chi Omega to Alpha Omicron Pi, Gamma Phi Beta to Kappa Alpha Theta, Atherton I to Delta Zeta, and Atherton II to Kappa Delta. In the two games played, the Co-op won all three matches from the Kappa

Lakonides Initiates Five New Members

Lakonides, women's physical education honorary, initiated five new members Thursday evening. The girls chosen were Jean Bosart, Sally Greenberger, Mary Lois Kauffman, Jo Ann Ryman, and Patricia Wolfe. Girls who are initiated into Lakonides must be physical education majors, with two WRA activities and a 1.5 All-College average.

Small Students Undisturbed By Regular College Subjects

By Ellen Sperber

There are some people at the College who are not only undisturbed by such subjects as English literature, chemistry, and engineering—they are entirely unaware of their existence. These people are the group of lucky tots who attend The Pennsylvania State College Nursery School.

A typical day at the nursery is something like this: The two and one-half to four year old youngsters arrive at nine, are inspected by the nurse, and given a drink of water. This is followed by a supervised play period either indoors or outdoors, according to the weather. They spend the time till lunch hearing stories and taking a short rest. This group leaves at noon and the four and five year olds come at 1:30 p.m.

Quarters

The nursery's quarters are at the back of the Home Economics Building and consist of a play room, cloak room, a kitchen, and two playgrounds.

The children's outdoor equipment includes a sand yard, slide, see-saws, swings, a jungle gym and a small plot of ground for the embryo gardeners. The children are also well supplied with many indoor games.

The chief objective of the nursery, which started in 1928, is to provide a happy environment that will encourage proper development of the children.

Waiting List

Because of a large waiting list, children who are admitted to the school are usually enrolled at birth. There are a few exceptions to this policy. One such exception is Shirley Chu, a Chinese girl who couldn't speak English when she arrived at the nursery last April. At present she speaks English fluently and is well adapted to her surroundings. However, a majority of the young children are faculty children.

The nursery itself serves as a laboratory for child development courses and prepares students for nursery school teaching. Several Masters' theses have been based on research done at the nursery school. Children's reactions to positive and negative suggestions and reactions of the children to choice are now being observed.

Staff

Staff members are Director, Winona L. Morgan; Jane Ann Bovie, head teacher of the morning group; Jean Foulkrod, head teacher of the afternoon group; Della J. Avery, part-time morning teacher, and Mrs. Margaret Nageotte, nurse.

Although the children are learning much through their nursery school experience, and are helpful in furthering research on child development, they still have time for birthday parties, visiting the sheep barns, playing "climbing Metzger's Building," or "going to church."

Kappa Gammas, and Alpha Gamma Delta defeated Alpha Chi Omega, two out of three.

Home Ec Honorary Initiates Nineteen

Three seniors and sixteen juniors were initiated into Phi Upsilon Omicron, national home economics honorary, recently.

The initiated are Eileen Bonert, Jacqueline Bush, Pauline Fetter, Anne Forrest, Nancy George, Jacqueline Hunter, Rose Intorre, Betty Keller, Mary Kern, Anna Light, Marilyn Michael, Meredith Miller, Virginia Richard, Barbara Sprenkle, Joanne Wagner, and Catherine Wible.

Janet Jones, Kathryn Mitchell, and Alice Strittmatter were the seniors initiated into the honorary which requires that a home ec. student must be at least a second semester sophomore, in the upper two-fifths of her class and show definite leadership ability.

Senate Entertains President and Wife

WSGA's regular meeting last Thursday night was highlighted by the presentation of the specific duties of each officer on Senate for the benefit of Acting President and Mrs. James M. Millholland, whom the Senate entertained.

An explanation of WSGA "Pop-in-Night" and of the annual Junior-Senior Faculty Reception was given by Ruth Lehman, senior senator. Junior senators, Barbara Sprenkle and Mary Conrath gave a report on their duty of arranging and taking charge of May Day festivities.

Secretarial and treasural duties were briefly described by Joan Bergdoll and Virginia Miller, the respective holders of these WSGA offices.

Sophomore senator, Barbara Klopp, told of her duty as chairman of the newly organized Freshman Council, while Joanne Lee, new freshman senator described her duties. Big-Little Sis-

Music Department To Present First Student Recital Tomorrow

Continuing its policy of presenting its talented students to the public, the music department will hold its first student recital of the year tomorrow at 8:40 p.m. in 200 Carnegie Hall.

As in the past, both instrumental and vocal selections are included in the program. Pupils of Elizabeth Reynolds, instructor, and Barry Brinsmaid, assistant professor of music, will perform.

The instrumental portion of the program consists of: Liszt's "Etude in D Flat for Piano," played by Joseph Rosenthal; Brahms' "Sonata in G Major for Violin and Piano," played by Barbara Thomas and Mr. Rosenthal; and Brahms' "Capriccio in G Minor for Piano," played by Marilyn Guillet.

Of the vocalists: Fred Hughes will sing "My Lovely Celia," an old English air, and "Myself When Young," from "In a Persian Garden" by Liza Lehman; Joseph Cor-ter distribution was described as the main duty of the town senator by Anna Keller.

Following introduction of the ex-officio members of the Senate, refreshments were served.
