

Late AP News.... Russians Walk Out Over Chinese Dispute

LAKE SUCCESS—The Soviet delegation to the United Nations staged another walkout yesterday when the Security Council refused to consider immediately the Russian demand for the expulsion of the Chinese Nationalist delegation.

With T. F. Tsiang, head of the Chinese delegation, presiding, the Russians declared that he represents nobody at all. Tsiang ruled to defer action on the Russian proposal, and the Council upheld him. The vote was eight to two, Russia and Yugoslavia voting against the motion.

Other developments in the Chinese situation saw Secretary of State Dean Acheson go before a closed session of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs to tell the Senators that the United States has an impregnable Pacific defense line without Formosa. The best way to stop the spread of communism in Asia, he is reported to have said, is through economic aid.

In the meanwhile, a Turkish freighter in Philadelphia loaded a consignment of 200 U.S. Army surplus tanks destined for the Nationalists on Formosa, and two American destroyers stood by the American freighter Flying Arrow, which was damaged by Nationalist shellfire as it attempted to run the blockade into Shanghai. The destroyers have orders to escort the ship to any port other than Shanghai and to leave her should she attempt to enter that port.

Hurricane Winds Lash Northwest

SEATTLE—Winds of near-hurricane force battered the coasts of Washington and Oregon yesterday, isolating a number of areas. For 10 hours, the Coquille area in southern Oregon was without power or telephone service. Wind and snow conditions prevailed inland, with 30 inches of snow reported in the Santiam pass of the Cascade mountains in Oregon.

In the Midwest, heavy rains continued to fall on flood-stricken Illinois and Indiana. The White River overflowed its levees for the first time at Hazleton, Indiana, but the Wabash River fell in Vincennes, Indiana.

59,000 Miners Out of Pits

WASHINGTON—The number of idle coal miners grew to 59,000 yesterday and industry leaders expressed doubt that there would be any wholesale back-to-work movement in the seven affected states before Monday.

The Senate Banking Committee, in the meantime, has proposed a study to determine whether labor unions should be brought under anti-trust laws.

Other capital developments saw Chairman Carl Vinson, of the House Armed Services Committee, disclose that his group will give prompt attention to the Administration's proposals to continue the peacetime draft law. The committee also plans to make a study of the nation's defenses, he said.

The Senate Armed Services Committee put off until January 19 consideration of the appointment of Admiral Forrest Sherman as Chief of Naval Operations. Some Senator's want to learn more about the ouster of Admiral Louis Denfield from the naval operations post.

Students Work Cleaning Agency.

Announcement yesterday of the Student Dry Cleaning Agency's slogan contest throws the spotlight on one of the less-known student agencies at the College.

In its brief history, dating from Oct. 13, 1948, the agency has handled more than 4,000 garments, as representative of eight cleaners and two laundries in the area. Because of these connections, it can offer service in any price range.

The agency is student-operated. It makes no extra charge for its services, and profits over operating costs are divided among the student staff.

The slogan contest offers prizes of $10, $5, and $2 in cleaning service. Entries may be submitted at any SDCA station.

Journ Department Plans Photo Lab

Plans are almost complete for a new journalism photography laboratory in the east end of Carnegie Hall basement, according to Donald W. Davis, acting head of the department of journalism. The laboratory will occupy 260 square feet of space, and will contain a modern enlarging room, developing rooms, and other necessary facilities.

It is expected that the new laboratory will be ready for use during the spring semester when the journalism department is offering a news and advertising photography course for the first time. Richard Byers of the journalism staff, a trained photographer, will conduct the course for which next semester's enrollment quota is already filled.

College 20th In Enrollment With 10,928

The College ranks 20th in the country in the number of full-time students enrolled, Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati, reported in his 30th annual survey published in School and Society. The College enrollment was listed at 10,928.

In 713 colleges, full-time students have decreased 3.7 per cent this fall. At the College, enrollment on campus increased 11.5 per cent this year over last.

Dr. Walters also reported that 820,841 veterans, a decline of 14 per cent from last year, are enrolled in American institutions. The veterans represent 37.8 per cent of the full-time students. At the College, the percentage of veterans dropped from 57.1 per cent last year to 45.8 per cent this year.

"Teachers colleges are the one group with an increase in full-time students," Dr. Walters says. "Independent colleges of arts and sciences are holding full-time students in greater measure than large universities, which had been tremendously overcrowded during the post-war years."

The nation's 25 largest institutions and their full-time enrollments, as reported, are: California, 43,426; Minnesota, 24,684; Illinois, 22,858; Columbia, including Barnard College, 22,448; New York University, 21,773; Wisconsin, 20,886; Michigan, 20,841; Ohio State, 20,730; Syracuse, 16,468; Texas, excluding Dallas Medical School, 16,464; Michigan State, 15,062; Washington, 14,553; Southern California, 14,183; Indiana, 13,489; Purdue, 13,142; Missouri, including School of Mines and Metallurgy, 12,261; Maryland, 12,056; Boston, 11,461; Pittsburgh, 11,329; Florida, 10,928; Harvard, 10,772; Florida, 10,528; Oklahoma, 10,438; Northwestern, 10,415; and State University of Iowa, 10,383.

Carl Sandburg

rense biographies of Abraham Lincoln, "The Prairie Years" and "The War Years." This latter volume won the Pulitzer Prize for history in 1939.

Carl Sandburg was born of Swedish stock at Galesburg, Ill., January 6, 1878. His early schooling was haphazard, and at the age of 13 he went to work. In the next six years, varied jobs equipped him, as no amount of learning could, to be a poet of industrial America.

Had Varied Jobs
He was in rapid succession, porter in a barber shop, scene-shifter in a cheap theatre, truck handler in a brickyard, turner apprentice in a pottery factory, dishwasher in Denver and Omaha hotels, and harvest hand in Kansas wheatfields.

In 1898 he enlisted in the Spanish-American War, and on his return from Puerto Rico, he entered Lombard College in Galesburg. For the first time he began to think in terms of literature.

After leaving college, Sandburg was a World War I correspondent in the Scandinavian countries. He then spent many years on the staff of the Chicago Daily News. In 1904 he published his first tiny pamphlet of poems.

Won Pulitzer Prize
His first volume of verse was "Chicago Poems", published in 1913, followed by "Cornhuskers," which shared the Pulitzer Prize that year. Other volumes followed, with "The American Songbag" coming out in 1927 and his long epic poem, "The People, Yes" in 1936.

Sandburg in his youth began to think of Lincoln and in his young manhood began to study him. "The Prairie Years" appeared in 1926, a work of startling proportions from one who was known as a poet, not a scholar of history. It was unanimously acclaimed by all authorities and literary critics.

In 1939 the four volumes, "The War Years," were published. This work was awarded the Pulitzer Prize. During the World War II years, Sandburg wrote a weekly column for the Chicago Sunday Times.

Leo Houck---

twin bill as "Leo Houck Night," Allen declared:

"Leo Houck is more than Penn State's boxing coach for the past 27 years. He is a Penn State tradition of good sportsmanship and clean play, in and out of a sports arena."

Part Payment
"He has done much for Penn State and the students of Penn State in his 27-year tenure here," Allen continued. "That is why the executive committee of All-College Cabinet is proclaiming Saturday night in Rec Hall as 'Leo Houck Night.'"

Committee Chairman Morgan stated that details of "Leo Houck Night" will be released later.

Houck, who is 61, underwent an abdominal operation at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lancaster, on August 22, 1949 and has never regained his former vigor. He left the hospital about six weeks after the operation and has been at his home since. His decline has been reported as rapid in recent weeks.
