

Debaters Face Dickinson Team For 41st Time

The oldest debating relationship in Pennsylvania will have its 41st annual renewal when the Dickinson College debating team meets the College debaters at 7:30 tonight in 121 Sparks. The public is invited.

The Dickinson College debaters will defend the affirmative side of the proposal, "Resolved: That the United States should nationalize railroads, coal, and iron and steel industries."

The first speaker for the College, who will defend the negative side, will be John Fedako. The second speaker will be Frank Fasick. Prof. Harold P. Zelko, from the department of speech at the College, will act as chairman.

The debate will be conducted under the Oregon style. Under this system, the first speakers from each side give a 15-minute speech, and the second speakers from each side cross-examine the first speakers for ten minutes. Then one speaker from each side gives a five-minute summary.

The debate will be non-decision, common practice for all but tournament debates. An open forum with the audience will be held after the debate.

LA Lecturer To Comment On Revolution

"Mass Revolution: Its Psychology and Understanding" will be discussed Tuesday by Dr. Saul K. Padover, professor at the New School for Social Research, in the opening Liberal Arts lecture for this year.

The lecture will be presented at 8 p.m. in 121 Sparks.

A prominent political analyst with experience abroad and in this country, Dr. Padover at one time was personal secretary to Harold Ickes, former Secretary of the Interior. He is a student of revolutions and had published several books on Thomas Jefferson.

The Feb. 17 lecture will present Dr. Goodwin Watson, director of the World Study Tours, who will speak on "The Psychological Approach to International Relations."

Dr. George K. Zipf, of Harvard University, will speak on "Speech as a Psychological Phenomenon" at the March 2 lecture. Alfred Puhon, special assistant to the International Broadcasting division of the State Department, will conclude the series April 18 with a talk on "The Voice of America as an Instrument of U.S. Foreign Policy."

Former Dean Donates Books

A collection of books from the library of the late Ralph L. Watts, former dean of the School of Agriculture at the College, has been donated to the College Library.

The gift, which includes 45 volumes and scores of pamphlets and agricultural bulletins, was accepted by the Board of Trustees at their weekend meeting.

Of particular interest in the collection are Volumes I, III, and VII of "The Farmer's Cabinet," published in Philadelphia in 1837, 1839, and 1843. This was the first agricultural paper published in Pennsylvania and its contributions are almost entirely from Pennsylvania and the surrounding states, although occasional reports from Europe are mentioned.

The bulletins are reprints covering many subjects within the range of agriculture and reflect also Dean Watts' interest in China and fishing.

Dean Watts, who died on July 2, 1949, was a graduate of the College in 1890, became professor of horticulture in 1908, and in 1912 was named Dean of the School of Agriculture, serving in that capacity until his retirement with emeritus rank in 1939.

Gripes of Gals:

'Average Coed' Gripes, a la Roth, About Masculine Stereotypes

BY ROSEMARY DELAHANTY

A man is a man is a man, but a Penn State man—ai yi yi . . .

After the average coed has spent one, two, three or four years observing this particular branch of the male sex, she'll undoubtedly place her masculine friends in one of the following categories:

The Aggressive Type: These are the ones who come up to you after class, grasp your arm, leer possessively into your eyes, and murmur that they know several dark corners in a couple of fraternity houses where an evening could be profitably spent, and, being perfect gentlemen, they'll let you choose whichever corner you wish.

The Humble Type: In contrast to the eager individual just mentioned, we have the Penn State counterpart of Mr. Milquetoast.

This character (he's usually an engineer, and consequently never sees any girls) gazes at you soulfully for half a semester and finally summons enough courage to walk you down the mall after class. Then he burrows into the tree where he lives and spends the rest of the semester gloating over his conquest. This, in turn, causes him to flunk out of college, and he blames you because you distracted him.

The Jealous Type: If you're going steady with one of these, beware. He only carries six credits so that he can follow you everywhere; you'll find him peering around buildings at you, and peeking through the windows when you're in class.

You may be standing in front of the library, innocently discussing your lit grade with one of the males in your course, but nevertheless be prepared to have your little man jump out of the nearby bushes waving a sword from his Phys. Ed. class and shouting that he'll defend your honor with his life.

If your unfortunate classmate isn't prepared to fight a duel on the spot, he'd better present an apology, in triplicate, by sundown.

The Athletic Type: He likes to take walks on a date—to Lewistown, say, or Altoona.

On nights when there is a basketball game and he can't use Rec Hall for his exercises (he needs lots of room) he may even ask you to go to the game with him. Well, don't. He'll shout, scream, swing from the rafters, and you'll end up holding his overcoat.

Then there's the young man who phones you on Saturday afternoon, says that he and five of his buddies would like a date that evening, and would you mind being raffled off among them?

Cheer up, there's always Vas-sar.

Ceiga To Open Recitals Sunday

George Ceiga, assistant professor of music, will present the semester's first organ recital in Schwab Auditorium at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Several selections will be sung by contralto Elizabeth Reynolds, instructor of voice in the music department. Dorothea Roscoe will be her accompanist.

Formerly an organ instructor at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, Mr. Ceiga has taught organ at the College since 1947. He has also served as College organist for the past three years.

Mr. Ceiga will open the program by playing three Bach compositions: "Fugue in C major" (The Fanfare Fugue); "Two Chorale Preludes" ("Das alte Jahr vergangen ist" and "In dir ist Freude"); and "Fugue in G major" (The Gigue Fugue).

Mrs. Reynolds will sing "Ernst ist der Fruling" and "Mausfallen-Spruchlein" by Wolf, and two songs by Strauss, "Morgen" and "Zueignung."

Continuing, Mr. Ceiga will play "Lied der Chrysanthemos" (from "Poemes d'Automne") by Bonnet, "Humoresque L'Organo Primitivo," by Yon, and "Song of the Basket Weaver" (from "St. Lawrence Sketches") by Russell.

"Tears" by Olmstead, "When I Have Sung my Songs to You" by Charles, and "Japanese Night Song" and "Wild Geese," both by Bennett, will be sung by Mrs. Reynolds.

Three organ selections by Mr. Ceiga will conclude the recital. He will play "Requiescat in Pace" by Sowerby, "Pastorale on a Plainsong Melody" by Thomson, and "Choral-Improvisation on 'In Dulci Jubilo'" by Karg-Elert.

Student Places Seventh in Chess

Durwood Hatch of the College Chess team ranked seventh in the Intercollegiate Tournament held at Rutgers University in New Jersey from Dec. 26 until Dec. 30. Paul Dietz of Pittsburgh won first position over 41 other participants.

In the Rapid Tournament won by James Sherwin of Columbia, Hatch ranked fourth. Representatives from such colleges as Michigan U., Yale, Purdue, and Indiana participated in the matches.

This competition was an individual tournament, each college sending one representative. The next will be a team tournament, the colleges sending an entire team.

Last Saturday the College Chess team played the University of Pittsburgh in Altoona at the quarters of the Altoona Chess Club in the Webster building. Pitt beat the College team with a score of seven to three.

high hurdle event and with the possible addition of Horace Smith and Harrison Dillard, he will run against the same men he vied with in the Sugar Bowl.

Spartan Record

Although our mid-west rivals, Michigan State, finished their year in all sports with a not too impressive .523 record, the Spartans fattened their average at the expense of Penn State. Only in gymnastics was the Lion able to emerge victorious as the Green and White took the boxing match 5-3, the football game 24-0 and the cross-country meet 22-35.

The Michigan State cinder team was the outstanding unit at the East Lansing college in 1949. It won the indoor and outdoor IC4-A meets, the Central Collegiate Championship, tied powerful Southern Cal 61-61 and finished fourth in team scoring in the NCAA meet.

By Chance

And while speaking about our rival school—we received a short filler item stating that the best passer on the 1949 Michigan State frosh football team was a lad by the name of THROWER—Willie Thrower, a halfback from New Kensington, Pa. Thrower, if you think back a few months, was the high school sensation who ALMOST came to Penn State.

Coaches---

While endorsing the rule provision that allows the substitution of an entire team when the ball changes hands, the coaches also recommended that the rules be amended to permit each team to send in one man while the clock is running between downs.

It is believed that such a move would help the smaller colleges, who have been the strongest opponents of the two platoon system. This recommendation will be taken up by the rule-making body when it meets in Pinehurst, N. C., Monday.

A poll of 612 college and high school coaches throughout the country showed that a majority of them, as well as 72 per cent of the players are in favor of the current free substitution rule.

Other suggestions made by the coaches dealt with the use of arms in offensive blocking and the coin-tossing ceremonies before each game.

Pennsylvania will be the College team's next opponents on Feb. 18.

sonably sure of matching the Raiders point for point in about half of the events, for Borowy and John McGrory are out to win for their captain. The Guttermen look strong in the 50 and 100 yard dash events.

In the 400 yard relay, the Lions came up with a winning combination last season. With a few new faces in the lineup, they could be hard to beat in this event. Add to this the performances of Cal Folmsbee and Rudy Valentino in the diving events and the Lions, on paper at least, stand a good chance of victory.

Rod Waters, who last year turned in many good performances, will lead the Nittany backstrokers, while Harry Nelson is expected to pace the Lions in the breaststroke.

RECORD HOLDER

Borowy, a dash man who now holds the Glennland pool record for the 100 yard freestyle with a time of 55.3, took turns winning the event with Schildmacher last year, when they were both entered in the event. The closest match came during the Lions' 38-37 upset win over Pitt. In that meet Borowy posted his 55.3 record and Schildmacher was close behind with 55.5.

The dashmen making the trip are Cas Borowy, John McGrory, Richard Long, Victor Lynch, Richard Hennessey and Robert Wilson. Distance men are Ted Jones, Gene Kohlber and Bart

Local Groups To Distribute Bonus Blanks

Application blanks for Pennsylvania's veteran's bonus—to be paid on a "first come, first serve" basis—will be distributed for the first time Monday.

Forms to be mailed into state officials at Harrisburg will be available to College veterans at State College American Legion and VFW headquarters. No information was available last night on whether forms would be handled by any campus offices.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general and supervising officer of the payment machinery, said that 2,600,00 applications are already to be used by honorably discharged veterans and an additional 165,000 are to be used by beneficiaries of vets who have died or have become mentally incapacitated.

Bronk.

Representing the Lions in the backstroke will be Rod Waters, John Brukner, Ken Conrad and George Hamilton. The breaststroke men are Harry Nelson, John Lowenfield and John D'Ardenne.
