

Alpha Gamma Delta Cops IM Table Tennis Crown

The College's 1949-50 table tennis queens are the girls of the Alpha Gamma Delta team who climaxed a four-night play-off series by defeating Alpha Epsilon Phi Thursday night.

The final match saw the Alpha Gamma's take three out of three for a complete victory.

In the singles only two of three games in each set had to be played to decide the victors. Callahan defeated Feit 21-10 and 21-11 while Mink downed Cohen 21-7 and 21-19. The doubles combination of Davis and Shreiner proved too much for Goldman and Eastone whom they defeated 21-9, 21-17, and 17-21.

6 Monday Play-offs

The play-offs began Monday night with the Coop defeating Kappa Alpha Theta. Although Slangenaupt of the Coop lost to Guillet of Kappa Alpha Theta 21-18 and again 21-18, Coop's Hosler won 21-13 and 21-13 over Taylor of Kappa Alpha Theta. The doubles decided the match in favor of the Coop as Hosler and Wilson downed Lott and Taylor 21-9, 16-21, and 21-17.

Two shut-outs in three matches were the outcome of Tuesday night's contests. Simmons gave Leonides a solid trouncing by winning three out of three games. Felman downed Laning 8-21, 26-24, and 21-18. Shapiro won the nod over Hanna 21-8 and 21-8. The shut-out was realized when Jarden and Bennett teamed to win over Rusinko and Eifert 21-16 and 24-22.

The second contest turned out to be a feather in the cap of Alpha Epsilon Phi for their shut-out over Phi Sigma Sigma. Feit triumphed over Newman 21-10, 17-21, and 21-11. The remaining single gave Cohen a victory over Abbey 21-13 and 21-15. Stern and Epstein continued the Alpha Epsilon Phi winning streak by overcoming Hyman and Melamed 21-11 and 21-15.

Co-op Win

In the third match Krepps of Delta Zeta vanquished Hosler of the Coop 21-19, 18-21, and 21-19. However her victory couldn't offset two succeeding losses which gave the win to the Coop. Slangenaupt won the remaining single by defeating Barrett 21-9 and 21-13. In the doubles Hosler and Wilson downed Gorka and Bauer 21-17 and 22-20.

Wednesday night's bill included a shut-out and a forfeit. The Coop went down in defeat to Alpha Gamma Delta following successive victories Monday and Tuesday night. Slangenaupt was tripped by Callahan 13-21 and again 13-21. Mink continued the Alpha Gamma victory when she won over Hosler 21-17, 12-21, and 21-9. Davis and Shreiner completed the shut-out by upsetting Wilson and Hosler 21-13 and 21-17.

The only forfeit in the play-off series gave Alpha Epsilon Phi a win over Simmons by default.

Gamma Phi Battles To Basketball Finals; Defeats Alpha Gam's

Gamma Phi Beta, showing the same power exhibited in all previous league games, continued its winning streak by downing Alpha Gamma Delta 29-19 and advancing to the finals of intramural basketball. Though Gamma Phi led the entire way, Alpha Gamma Delta still put up a terrific battle.

The Alpha Gams were unable to break away from the Gamma Phi's guards who prevented close shots from under the basket. Kriner was particularly effective in making long shots. The game was well played with teamwork showed by members of both teams.

Cheering sections from both sororities were present to cheer their teams to victory.

Garretson, with 19 points, and Wolfe, with 17, led Gamma Phi's scoring while Kriner scored 10.

The final playoff for the intramural basketball crown will be played Monday night between Phi Beta and Leonides.

Court Rule ---

(Continued from page three) purpose. Fouling in the final minutes of even that hectic contest was held down to a minimum.

HANDICAP

But the consensus around the country with basketball people is that although the rule may accomplish its purpose, it does at the same time put an unfair handicap on the team that goes into the final minutes of play trailing by a few points. What the rule has in effect accomplished, to the minds of a large percentage of basketball people, is cut the game to 38 minutes.

The team ahead by several points going into the last five minutes of the game, they contend, can afford to slow down the game, knowing that the odds are heavily weighted for the team that is ahead when the two-minute rule comes into play.

The West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference is the latest league to abandon the rule. The coaches voted to adopt the regulation now in use by the Big Ten and Southern Conferences. Under this system, two free throws are awarded an offensive player when he is fouled in the last two minutes. A foul against a defensive man is still good for one charity toss, while a player fouled in a scramble will also receive one free throw.

IVY LEAGUE

The Ivy League has decided to operate without the rule. As of last Saturday, the final two minutes of all Ivy League games will be played under the same rules in effect the other 38 minutes. The temper of the coaches is indicated by the unanimous approval of the move received from the member coaches.

New York City gave up on the rule almost a month ago when the New York coaches decided to play all games between metropolitan teams so that there will be a jump ball at the offensive foul circle after every foul shot in the last two minutes. At the same time, the New York rule eliminated the waiving of foul shots during any part of the game.

Nat Holman, CCNY coach, insists that the rule will be wiped from the books next year. In fact, Holman says, the regulation would be erased now had the rules committee the steam to act. Most basketball men echo a hearty "Amen!"

Seek $1500

Although no specific goal has been set for the College, Dr. Harnett expressed the hope that contributions to fight the dreaded disease would reach $1500. Last year the drive on campus netted around $1000.

"In view of the fact that there are a larger number of students on campus this year and that the polio epidemics in 1949 were the worst in the recorded history of the disease, we should be able to raise $1500 without setting a definite goal."

Dr. Harnett explained that the president of each dorm and fraternity would assist in the drive. The hostesses of the women's dorms are now conducting campaigns through each unit.

Coed... Corner

by Commie Keller

Registration for second semester sorority rushing will be held on Friday, February 10, and the first formal affair inaugurating the second rush season of this year will be held the following afternoon.

Registration is normally limited to those girls who are transfers or who have already secured a 1.00 All-College average at the College or in the case of freshman a 1.00 semester average. However, because of the short time allotted to mid-semester vacation it now appears that the recorder's office will not have sufficient time to determine the averages of all students at the College.

Grades Not Known

The obvious conclusion of the above is that freshmen and other girls desiring to be rushed will not know what their grades for the first semester are by the regular means of receiving the data from the recorder's office. And likewise grades will not be known on the day when prospective rushees must register.

Rushing is a strenuous and time consuming affair and the bumps along the way are not always easy to take; thus it would seem that only those girls who really can be sure of having the grades eligible for admission to a sorority should register and struggle through the ordeal of rushing.

Postcards

There is, however, one means of knowing within a reasonable length of time the grades which are received and thus of knowing if the prospect of rushing should be attempted. This is by individually ascertaining the grade in each specific course and the most common way is by handing to the professor of each course a self-addressed postcard asking for the final grade in his course. As this method is a common practice at the College, in the majority of cases the post card will be returned almost immediately to the inquiring student.

Grades received in this manner will not constitute any official record which the dean of women's office can use to check the scholarship of each rushee and thereby determine whether she may or may not be pledged. They will however, impart to the individual the knowledge necessary to know whether or not to begin rushing.
