

Wrestlers, Boxers Meet Orange

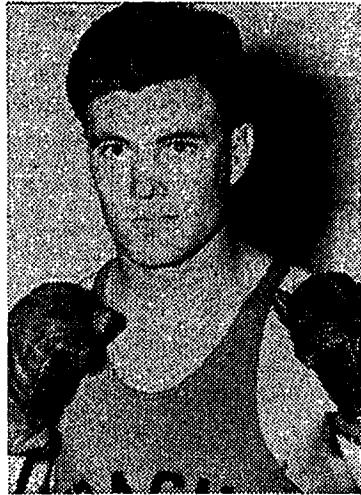

A Battle of Champions will take place this weekend when Syracuse University sends six Eastern Intercollegiate champions against the Nittany wrestling and boxing teams.

Two Lion champs, heavyweights Homer Barr and Chuck Drzenovich complete the roster of bemedaled wrestlers and boxers who will compete this afternoon and evening.

Besides the feature attractions, the weekend sports program will include a swimming meet, a fencing meet and a junior varsity boxing match. On foreign soil, Nittany teams will vie with Navy in basketball and gymnastics.

The wrestling and fencing meets will start at 2 p.m. in Recreation Hall, swimming at 2 p.m. in Recreation Hall, swimming at 2 in the Glennland pool, jayvee boxing at 7 p.m. in Recreation Hall fol-

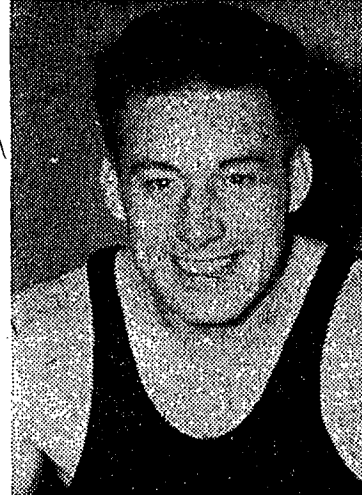

Competitors Slated For Action Tonight

Jim Rollier
165 pound boxer

Jim Maurey
145 pound wrestler

George Gebhardt
175 pound wrestler

lowed by varsity boxing at 8:30.

The curtain opens in Rec Hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Act 2 of the "Eastern Wrestling Preview." Principals in the drama will be two undefeated mat goliaths, Syracuse and Penn State.

Coach Charlie Speidel's Nittany Lions hogged the scene in the first act by taking Lehigh's potent Engineers into camp Jan. 21, 17-13.

Syracuse's potent "Murderer's Row" will lead the Orange into action in today's top-billing. This trio is composed of Ken Hunte, 155 pounds; Pas Perri, 165 pounds, and George Gebhardt, 175 pounds, all Eastern champions. Hunte and Perri co-captain the New Yorkers.

Both Hunte and Gebhardt are unbeaten, while Perri has lost only once. But the Syracuse (Continued on page three)

The Daily Collegian

"FOR A BETTER PENN STATE"

VOL. 50 — NO. 78

STATE COLLEGE, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 11, 1950

39 Penn Staters Receive Awards

Scholarships totaling more than $2,800 have been awarded to 39 students at the College, Dr. Seth W. Russell, chairman of the Senate Committee on Scholarships and Awards, said today.

John W. White Scholarships, valued at $100 each, have been awarded to George D. Duff, sophomore in journalism;

Robert C. Berhard, senior in geology and mineralogy and Anna L. Wiggins, junior in arts and letters.

Recipients of Louise Carnegie Scholarships, $75 each, are Mary D. Boyd, senior in arts and letters; LeRoy E. Brennan, junior in arts and letters; David Budenstein, sophomore in geophysics and geochemistry; Jacqueline M. Bush, junior in home economics.

Rose C. Eifert, junior in biological science and mathematics; Jeanne T. Holland, junior in psychology; Ralph W. Meier, senior in electrical engineering; Robert R. Moser, senior in mechanical engineering; Susan A. Neuhauer, sophomore in secondary education.

Jack N. Rosenberg, senior in premedical; Ruth Schechter, junior in arts and letters; and Edgar H. Schuster, sophomore in psychology.

Students awarded Class of 1922 Memorial Scholarships, $50 each, are Martha Dash, junior in home economics; Gloria L. Drozdiak, senior in home economics; Esther L. Featro, junior in home economics; Pauline Fetter, senior in home economics.

Rita E. Gould, junior in textile chemistry; Evelyn G. Laning, junior in physical education; John F. Palmer, junior in arts and letters; Joseph A. Queeney, junior in business education; Jack M. Reen, senior in journalism; Dianne M. Scuderi, senior in arts and letters.

David R. Smith Jr., junior in mechanical engineering; Marie T. Stankevich, junior in home economics; Ann B. Zekauskas, senior in home economics; and Charles E. Zellner, junior in poultry husbandry.

Recipients of 1920 Class Scholarship Awards, $100 each, are Eugene F. Apple, junior in chemistry; Russell J. Hutnik, senior in forestry; Rose Intorre, junior in home economics; William F. Markley, senior in electrical engineering; and Elizabeth Slotta, junior in journalism.

(Continued on page two)

VA Lists Procedure For Change-of-Courses

Veterans desiring to change their courses are required to undergo testing by the Psychological Clinic, Richard H. Baker, coordinator of veterans affairs, has announced. The clinic is located in 3 Burrows.

The following procedure should be followed by veterans who wish to change their courses. Veterans should first obtain permission from the dean of the school into which they wish to matriculate. They should then report to 3 Willard to have VA form 7-1905e "Request for Change of Course" completed in triplicate.

Following this, veterans should secure a copy of their transcripts from the Recorder's Office and report to the Psychological Clinic with their 7-1905e's and transcripts for the scheduling of tests.

Final approval of the change-of-course will be given by the VA office in Wilkes-Barre and veterans will be informed by the usual "Authorization of Training" form. Veterans taking the required testing program may turn in book receipts at the usual time, but they will not be refunded until such time as final approval is received from the VA.

"It should be pointed out that only one change-of-course may be permitted under this procedure," Baker said. "Subsequent changes may be accomplished only through Guidance Centers conducted by the Veterans Administration with the nearest, one being at Williamsport."

Today's weather:
Snow flurries;
slightly colder

Sports Events

WRESTLING vs. Syracuse, 2 p.m. Rec Hall

SWIMMING vs. Delaware, 2 p.m. Glennland pool

FENCING vs. Temple, 2 p.m. Rec Hall

JV BOXING vs. Syracuse, 7 p.m. Rec Hall

BOXING vs. Syracuse, 8:30 p.m. Rec Hall

BASKETBALL at Navy

GYM at Navy

Only spring semester Athletic Association books will be valid for the athletic contests in Recreation Hall today.

Thorpe Asked To Appear At Rec Hall

Jim Thorpe, recently voted the outstanding athlete of the past half-century, has been invited to appear in Recreation Hall at tonight's boxing meets. The Indian idol, whose feats are now legendary, was a football star at Carlisle Indian School under the famed "Pop" Warner, and was twice selected on Walter Camp's All-America team.

Now retired, Thorpe is also an Olympic decathlon champion and a former major league baseball player. He will speak at a banquet of the Young Men's Bible class of the Grace Lutheran Church at 6 o'clock tonight. James Coogan, assistant director of public information at the College, said yesterday that Thorpe has been invited to Rec Hall after the church banquet, to be introduced to the sports crowd if his plans permit.

'Vacation' Lull Absent in Town

Perhaps it was because an unusual number of students may have had finals up to the last minute, or maybe the reason was (and this is more probable) that there was only one day between the end of the first semester and registration for the next. At any rate, State College didn't die its customary periodic death and assume the atmosphere of a ghost town between semesters.

For those students who had previously spent "vacations" in the town during periods of academic inactivity, the bustling condition came as a happy surprise.

Whatever the reason, those who remained in town between semesters have something to tell their grandchildren. It might not happen again.

Another 4500 Fill Out Forms

Two-Day Registration Figures

Total 9300; 1000 More To Go

The wheels of the registration system clicked smoothly yesterday as 2212 students registered in the forenoon, and an estimated 2300-2400 in the afternoon.

This brings total registration figures to about 9200-9300 for the two days of undergraduate registration with about 1000 graduates, special and unclassified students still to register.

Ray V. Watkins, College scheduling officer, said that few late registrants are expected. A $10 fee is assessed for late registration.

This morning, off-campus degree candidates and teachers who take from one to six credits are scheduled to register in the basement of Willard Hall. They will pre-register in the same manner as regular students and then the final phase registration.

Employees, special, graduate, and unclassified students will register Monday and throughout the week. These have not been permitted to pre-register or first-phase register in order to accommodate regular students in class selection. Employees will fill out employee form cards in the Willard Hall basement scheduling office.

Proof that the system of dividing students alphabetically into 15-minute sections is working well is that in the first three half days 2315, 2320, and 2212 students were registered. Another proof was the absence of long lines.

Semester grade reports are being run through International Business Machines and are scheduled to be in the offices of the deans of the schools on Monday. Copies will be available to students by Tuesday or Wednesday at adviser's offices. Copies will also be mailed to parents on Tuesday.

Second semester enrollment usually represents a decrease of 600 students from first semester because of mid-semester graduation, financial difficulties, health, and dropouts due to academic requirements or through faculty action.

If a student has flunked half of his courses and has not yet received official notice that he has been dropped from the College it is because of a slowdown in the notifying machinery.

Last semester—as of Oct. 8—10,928 students were registered for classes. This semester the number of full-time students is expected to reach the 9,500 mark, with part-time students boosting the figure to 10,200 taking courses during the Spring semester.

Middies Given Cruise Plans

Lt. Colonel Foley, USMC, executive officer of the Department of Naval Science at the College, has announced tentative plans for summer training and cruises affecting over one hundred Penn State midshipmen.

Senior and sophomore regular midshipmen will spend six weeks on the Pacific Ocean. A heavy cruiser, an escort carrier, and destroyers will leave San Francisco about June 19, and return near the end of July.

Ports of call will be made in South and Central America.

Captain Woodbury, head of the department of naval science, will be midshipmen commander of senior contract midshipmen on their Atlantic cruise, leaving Norfolk about June 19, and returning about July 7. Cruise ships will include an escort carrier and five destroyers. Liberty ports have not been announced.

Marine midshipmen will have summer training at Quantico, Va., commencing June 19.

No other information is available concerning junior regular midshipmen except that they will have amphibious-aviation training similar to last year.

Today . . .

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR the 39 recipients of scholarships at the College.

These deserving students were culled from numerous applicants, the decision to award the scholarships being based not only on academic prowess, but also need, and in some few cases, on activities as well.

The Lion honors this student group, one which has demonstrated such a thirst for knowledge that monetary and other handicaps are but a spur to their efforts. For these people, Penn State isn't a country club. It IS an institution of higher learning.