

Players' Production Tonight

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Today's Weather: Fair and cooler

VOL. 50 — VOL. 82

STATE COLLEGE, PA., FRIDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 17, 1950

PRICE FIVE CENTS

Coed Queen To Receive Many Gifts

Penn State's Sweater Queen will receive more than a campus-wide reputation and a lot of publicity.

An impressive array of gifts, totalling at least 18 in number, await the coed who is selected as the campus's most sweater-able young lady.

Arrangements with State College merchants have already assured the title-winner at least a dozen and a half prizes. There is a strong possibility the gift total may be swelled to 25 by the time all the merchants have been contacted.

Gift List

The partial list, released today, includes a 11x14 oil portrait from the Lion studio; two pairs of Berkshire hosiery from Danks and Co.; an article of jewelry from Crabtree's; half-slip from Merivale shop; corsage from Woodring's floral shop.

A Maiden Form bra from the Smart Shop; pocketbook from Simon's; box of candy from the Candy Cane; manicure from the State College Beauty Shop; a crested compact from Balfour's; manicuring set from Rea and Derick.

A shampoo set from Alice & Don's Beauty Shop; string of simulated pearls from the Blair Gift Shop; sweater from Schlow's; a cotton blouse from Mitchell's dress shop; a toilet water set from the Charles Shop; and an unnamed gift from Kalin's Dress Shop. In addition, The Daily Collegian is donating a free ticket to the IFC-Panhel Ball.

Photographs of candidates for the contest may be turned in at Student Union any time within the next three weeks.

Late AP News Courtesy WMAJ

Lewis Seeking 200-Day Year

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis is reported to have asked mine owners to guarantee 200 days of work and a seven and one-half hour working day in new coal peace talks yesterday. Operators were pessimistic about a settlement at the end of the day.

In West Virginia four union pickets are in the hospital following an exchange of shots with employees of a non-union mine.

Peace Mission

WASHINGTON — President Truman yesterday said that he had told New York Times columnist Arthur Krock that there is still a possibility for a U.S. peace mission to Russia in the near future. The disclosure came after a heated argument with newsmen at the president's regular news conference. There is a White House custom against exclusive interviews.

The President told more than 5000 democrats at a $100 a plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner that he wants faster action on his legislative program. In the meantime, the House rules committee pigeon-holed the Administration's FEPC bill.

Tribunal Hears 69 Cases

The Student Tribunal handled 63 cases during the fall semester, 61 of which involved driving and parking. Two cases were of disciplinary nature and cannot be discussed.

According to James E. Richards, Tribunal secretary, 55 parking offenses included 12 driving offenses and 5 illegal permits. Six persons failed to close the Windcrest traffic gates, one was listed for speeding and one person failed to stop at a stop sign. Seventeen warnings were is-

Their Time Is Our Time . . .

—Photo by Gerald Gearhart
Heading the cast for the Player's production of "Time Is a Dream," which opens tonight at Centre Stage, are Newell Stark as Nico and Rita Lang as Romee.

'Time Is a Dream' Opens Tonight At Centre Stage

"Time Is a Dream," by H. R. Lenormand, presented by the Penn State Players, will open tonight at Centre Stage for a six-week run. R. E. Kendall, assisted by Dorothy Jefferis, is director.

The tragedy, which opened in Paris in 1919, is a drama set in Holland, concerning sensitive men and women in pursuit of a reality to grasp in the turmoil of their idealistic minds. Through six scenes their quest for some proof of the coexistence of the past, present and future becomes an obsession which mounts with each event in their lives. Finally death promises to be the only integrator.

Tense and definitely on the somber side, "Time Is a Dream" will appeal to those in the audience who have seriously dwelled upon the supernatural and who have pondered the unanswerable questions concerning being. The plot reflects the universal today, tomorrows and yesterdays.

Lang, Stark In Leads

Leading roles this week will be played by Rita Lang, who is director of the 5 O'clock Theater, and appeared in "John Loves Mary" last year, and Newell Stark, a sophomore playing his first major role at Penn State. The rest of the cast will include Betty Lou Morgan, Martha Ann Koons, and Joe Hunter.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets for "Time Is a Dream" which are still on sale for this week at Student Union, are $90 for Friday night and $1.25 for Saturday. The curtain rises at 8 p.m., and refreshments will be served after the Saturday night performance.

Sorority Rushees

A question and answer period for those girls who are rushing will be held this afternoon at 5:05 o'clock in the Panhellenic Post Office lounge of Atherton Hall. Questions may be asked verbally or on unsigned paper on all problems concerning sorority rushing. All rushees, with specific problems or not, are urged to attend.

Watson To Speak In L.A. Series

Dr. Goodwin Watson, professor of education, Teachers College, Columbia University will be the second speaker in the Liberal Arts lecture series at 8 o'clock tonight in room 121 Sparks.

Topic of the lecture will be "The Psychological Approach to International Relations." The speaker is well known for his work in international education and his position as director of World Study Tours.

A number of students and faculty at the college met Dr. Watson when he was orienter and resident professor in charge of the New School for Social Research summer session in Annecy, France last year.

News Briefs

Bible Fellowship

The Penn State Bible Fellowship will hold its opening meeting of this semester in 405 Old Main at 7:30 p.m. today. Rev. Oliver Buswell, president of the National Bible Institute of New York, will be the guest speaker. A social will be held after the meeting.

University Baptist

The Rodger Williams Fellowship will hold a supper meeting Sunday from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The subject for discussion will be "Christian Outlook." The college student Sunday school class will meet at 9:40 a.m. Regular worship services will be held at 10:40 a.m. R.W.F. cabinet meeting will be held Saturday at 12:15 p.m.

Customs Lifted

Freshman women were granted permission to date during the week last night as another of frosh customs was removed by a joint committee of the freshman Customs Board, Judicial committee and the WSGA Senate. Dating is allowed until 9:15 p.m.

Rumor Predicts TASH Will Appear In Person At Talent Show Tonight

TASH, the typical College Joe; Henry "Hank" Glass, Penn State's favorite M.C.; and ten amateur acts are all set to display their talents in the eleventh annual All-College Talent Show being sponsored by the Penn State Club at Schwab Auditorium, 8 o'clock tonight.

College Drops Five Freshman 'Farm' Centers

First definite reduction in the cooperating college program for handling Penn State freshmen was announced yesterday by Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the president of the College.

Starting this Fall, freshmen no longer will be sent to the five private institutions now under the plan. Some 2,000 frosh will be sent to 13 state teachers' colleges and seven Penn State centers.

This is the first real modification in the program since it was inaugurated shortly after the war to take care of increased enrollment at the College. The change was made because the institutions will not be needed to handle freshmen next Fall, with over 1,000 scheduled to study on campus.

Those Dropped

The colleges dropped from the program are: York Junior College, Lycoming College, Keystone Junior College, Gannon College, and St. Francis College.

The College administration has told the five institutions that, as far as conditions permit, the College would consider transfers of students who wish to start at the former cooperating colleges.

Whether any further cutbacks in the program would be made the following year was not even open to speculation at this time, Kenworthy said.

Debaters To Meet Gettysburg In Semester's Second Contest

The College debating team will continue its heavy schedule for the second semester when it meets the Gettysburg College debaters at 8 o'clock tonight in 10 Sparks.

Also tonight, two debaters from the College team will travel to Gettysburg College to meet two other of their debaters as part of a home-and-home series.

The theme for both debates will be the one for the current debating year, "Resolved: That the United States should nationalize the basic non-agricultural industries." Both debates will be non-decision, following the usual practice.

Tonight in Sparks, Clair George and Peter Giesey of the College will take the affirmative side. Prof. H. J. O'Brien, of the College department of speech, will preside. The orthodox or regular debating style will be used. Both speakers from each side will give a constructive speech and a rebuttal.

Tonight at Gettysburg, John Fedako and Charles Petrie of the College will defend the negative side of the proposal.

Next Wednesday at 7 p.m. in 316 Sparks, final tryouts for positions on the debating squad will be held. Candidates will deliver five-minute speeches on either side of the current debating proposal.

Fee Collection

Fees for the present semester will be collected at the office of the bursar, Willard Hall, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., March 2 and 3.

College Drops Five Freshman 'Farm' Centers

First definite reduction in the cooperating college program for handling Penn State freshmen was announced yesterday by Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the president of the College.

Starting this Fall, freshmen no longer will be sent to the five private institutions now under the plan. Some 2,000 frosh will be sent to 13 state teachers' colleges and seven Penn State centers.

This is the first real modification in the program since it was inaugurated shortly after the war to take care of increased enrollment at the College. The change was made because the institutions will not be needed to handle freshmen next Fall, with over 1,000 scheduled to study on campus.

Following presentation of acts, judges will eliminate all but the top five performances. The three winners will then be chosen on the basis of audience applause. The judges will be Ellamae Jackson, assistant dean of women; Edith Zinn, assistant dean of women; Daniel DeMarino, assistant dean of men; Russell Clark, housing director; and George Donovan, manager of associated student activities.

Joseph Hudak, president of the sponsoring Penn State Club, is in charge of the over-all production for the show.

Tickets priced at $1 for the more-than-two hour show are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Student Union will be open from 7 to 8 tonight so that tickets may be purchased till curtain time.

Today . . .

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR the Penn State Club members, sponsors of the All-College Talent Show.

The PSC boys hold the affair annually, and if tonight's performance resembles its predecessors, it will be another success both financially and artistically.

The Lion today offers his hallowed roar to the enterprising group of independent men who have the energy and imagination to liven up one of the College's duller weekends with a spritely demonstration of the campus's lesser-known talent.