

Determined Lions Meet Cadets at West Point

Today at 3 p.m., a determined band of Penn State wrestlers invade West Point, N.Y., to battle Army's matmen. The Lions seek their fifth win of the season against one setback, having tripped Virginia, Cornell, Lehigh and Pitt, while losing only to Syracuse.

Army has also lost its only match to Syracuse. The Cadets have bounced Cornell, Springfield and Harvard, and tied Brown.

Only one change was planned by Coach Charlie Speidel from his lineup that was in action against Syracuse last week. At 128 pounds, Jack Dreibelbis, a State College product, will replace Jack Waters. Dreibelbis won four dual meet tilts last season and advanced to the quarter-finals of the EIWA's.

Otherwise, the Nittanies will field the same team. John Reese, winner of three and loser of two, will be at 121 pounds, with Don Maurey slated to go at 136. Captain Jim Maurey will be at 145 pounds.

Cec Irvin will be at his usual

155-pound post and will wrestle the Cadets top grappler, Dean Mulder, fourth placer in the East-erns in 1949. Bill Santel, 165 pounds, and Mike Rubino, 175 pounds, seek to regain their winning strides in today's meet. At heavyweight, Homer Barr is after his 13th straight dual meet win.

The probable lineups:

Penn State	Weight	Army
Reese	121	Elliott
Dreibelbis	128	Brian
D. Maurey	136	Forn
J. Maurey	146	Myers
Irvin	155	Mulder
Santel	165	Scalzo
Rubino	175	Wendel
Barr	Hvy	Davis

Boxers Clash With Army; Albarano Back in Action

This afternoon, at West Point, Penn State's boxers will be opposed inside the ring by Army's slugging "Kaydets."

The once-beaten Lions will be out to seek their second victory of the current campaign while the Black Knights are seeking their third win.

But when Army meets Penn State inside the ring, all previous performances can be thrown to the winds. Last year a heavily favored Cadet unit dropped a 5 1/2-2 1/2 decision to State. This year Penn State is favored.

Army's main strength lies in the 175-pound and heavyweight classes. Back at 175 is the defending Eastern champ, Pete Monfore. Three times last year Jack Bolger, Nittany light-heavy, met Monfore and three times the Lion mittman dropped close decisions. The two will square off this afternoon.

Lanky Bill Kellum dons gloves at heavyweight. Although Charlie Drzenovich has decided on the Army heavy once and tied with him once, today's battle should go a long way in deciding this year's EIBA champion.

Tom Hastings competes at 165-pounds for Army. Last year P. Q. Smith pounded out a 30-25 win over Hastings. Bob Keller will represent the Lions in that weight class this year.

Stan Scott, an Eastern runner-up last season, meets Harry Papacharalambous at 130-pounds, while Frank Gross will be opposed by Larry Lucas at 145.

All-around strength of the State mitt team will be considerably bolstered when John Albarano, undefeated sophomore battler, returns to action at his usual 135-pound weight.

Hard-punching Lou Koszarek will step into the ring at 155 pounds while John Hanby will represent State in the 125-pound division.

Hoopsters Seek 11th Triumph; Meet Rutgers at Home Tonight

Seeking to capture that which has eluded Penn State basketball teams since 1944—the opportunity to cop over ten wins in one season—Coach Elmer Gross' warriors of the wooden way will take on a dangerously deceptive Rutgers five in Rec Hall at 8:30 tonight.

The game will mark the resumption of Lion-Rutgers court relations after a nine-year lapse. In the seven-game series Penn State holds a 4 to 3 advantage, having lost only one of these tilts on its home boards.

Although possessing an unimposing won and lost record, the Scarlet boasts a full roster of individual stars topped by the brilliant Bucky Hatchett.

250 POINTS

Hatchett's point producing operations this season have already exceeded the 250-point mark and his backboard work has been little short of larceny.

"Make no mistake," Gross has warned his "boys" in mid-week practice sessions, "In Hatchett you're going to see one of the best ball players in the East."

That is taking in a lot of territory, but the fact that in a period of over four years the 6-foot 3-inch, 220-pound All-Eastern collegiate football end has personally dunked over 1000 points stands as mute evidence of the player's capabilities.

SAME LION CARD

No changes are planned for the starting Nittany lineup, the same team that opened against the Mountaineers. Wednesday night again getting the call.

This five will place hard-driving Joe Tocci (that's Toe-cry) and Lou Lamie in the forward spots, Lee Schisler at center and Marty Costa and the unpredictable Jay McMahan at the guards.

No. 6 and 7 men respectively will be Hardy Williams, whose 23 points against West Virginia was high for the evening, and rugged Jack Storer, Lion defensive bulwark.

Probable starting lineups:

Penn State	Position	Rutgers
Tocci	F	Hatchett
Lamie	F	Corizzi
Schisler	C	Parsons
Costa	G	Kruger
McMahan	G	Lynner

Last Minute Instructions

Three National Track Champs Make Home of Penn State Oval

Three national champions!

That's what Penn State track fans can see running around the Rec Hall track anytime during the current indoor season.

The three champions are Horace Ashenfelter, Curt Stone and John Twomey who along with FBI agent Fred Wilt are the top distance men in the United States. The three have set up their winter training quarters here at the College.

Ashenfelter and Stone are former Nittany track stars. Twomey is a graduate of the University of Illinois. All three, topflight runners in College, have added to their laurels since graduation.

As for their championships, Twomey is the national 1500-meter champ and Stone is National AAU two-mile champion. Ashenfelter, as captain of the Penn State team last year, not only won both the indoor and outdoor IC4-A two-mile titles but also set records in both events.

Their work this season has been something worth writing home about. Ash captured the two-mile run at the Philadelphia Inquirer meet. Stone upset the great Fred Wilt a week and a half ago in Boston, and in so doing turned in the fastest two miles of the present campaign.

Twomey has been one of the leading contenders in the mile division all season. On several occasions he was leading at a late stage in the race only to fall victim to accidents. He has been among the top finishers in all his starts.

Both the former Penn State stars are doing graduate work at the College and while Ash is running for the Penn A.C., Stone is hotfooting it for the Shanahan Catholic Club. Twomey has remained true to his native state and is running under the auspices of the Illinois A.C.

This is the second year that Twomey has worked out during the winter at Penn State and the coaches and the track team have sort of adopted Johnny as one of their own. Both the team and the coaches are glad to have him and his fellow champs around to rub elbows with. Coach Werner believes that they may play a part in the development of his own distance runners.

Coach Chick Werner believes that since State has had a number of outstanding distance men this is a good place to train. He attributes the closeness of the golf course to Rec Hall as a large factor in their development.

It gives them a chance to train properly.

As leaders in this country the three naturally fall among the best distance runners in the world. And so, although the lack of a fieldhouse will keep local fans from seeing any indoor competition this year, anyone who makes the trip to Rec Hall, any weekday late in the afternoon, will be rewarded by seeing three national champions and three of the world's best distance runners in action.

IM Cage League A Goes Into Deadlock

League A of the independent basketball league became a wide open race Thursday night when Dorm 28 downed Dorm 43, 30-24, forcing a four-way tie for the lead. Another contest in the same league saw Dorm 13 forfeiting to Dorm 3.

Dorm 39 continued to draw closer to the League C title by capturing its fifth straight win, a close 9-6 victory over Dorm 35. In a battle of the winless, Dorm 1 whipped Dorm 33, 15-10, lifting itself out of the cellar.

Dorm 12 moved into a tie with Dorm 6 for League B leadership by virtue of a close 22-19 win over

Navy Gymnasts Visit Rec Hall

Sparked by Bob Schneider, flying-rings star, Navy's Blue-jackets invade Rec Hall tonight to battle the gymnasts of Coach Gene Wettstone at 7 o'clock.

Strong on the high-bar, the rings and in climbing the rope, the Middies will be slight favorites to cop their fourth win of the season. They've lost two, to Syracuse and to Temple.

Wettstone, however, tabs the meet a toss-up, hoping his improving aerialists can outpoint the Navy on the side-horse, the parallel-bars and in tumbling.

The Lions have split decisions with their first two rivals—they surprised Michigan State, 59 1/2 to 52 1/2, but lost to Army last week, 59 to 37.

The probable lineups for tonight's meet:

Navy	Side Horse	Penn State

Dorm 42. Dorm 4, in the same league, defeated Dorm 38, 21-15.

The Jesters of League D eked out a 11-10 win over the Warriors and moved to within a half game of the league leading Bombers. The Q-Quintet kept its hopes alive by smacking the Tripods, 22-14.

In the only League K contest, the Portage Terrors forfeited to the Reds.
