Milton Eisenhower To Visit The College Next Monday

An Open Letter

Tonight at 9 o'clock over shortwave radio, a 350-word message from the students at the College will be sent to Milton S. Eisenhower, president-elect of Penn State. The message will be sent by W3YA, College amateur radio station, to WOQQQ, its student counterpart at Kansas State College.

The message represents a consolidation of many submitted by student groups this week. On a Cabinet committee to assemble the messages were Shirley Gauger, WSGA president; Harry McMahon, All-College vice-president; Peter Giesey, IFC president, and Thomas Morgan, Daily Collegian editor. The message follows:
State College, Pa.
February 21, 1950

Dear Dr. Eisenhower,

Ten thousand students sending a communication, by amateur shortwave radio, 900 miles to a college president is no doubt unusual. But these are not ordinary times, we are students at an unusual college, and we feel confident you will make an extraordinary president for Penn State.

Evidently we are not alone in this feeling. Witness the glowing statements made about you to the press by Kansans and non-Kansans, educators and non-educators, Penn Staters and non-Penn Staters. All of them have been packed with enthusiasm and well-wishes that overflow and become ineffectuous and multiply. Nary a one borders on the side of the uncomplimentary.

It is evident to us, too, that our College Board of Trustees think you will be an extraordinary Nittany president. Otherwise they would have chosen someone else. We doubt if the Trustees, when they thought about their decision to appoint you, could scarcely predict or anticipate the magnitude of the favorable reaction that has overwhelmed the students, the faculty, the College-whole and the town. It has swamped and shaken the Nittany Valley.

Tied up inextricably with this happy reaction is the fact that the majority of the student body have been attending Penn State in a period when it's been without a permanent president. Most of our number who went to school during the tenure of the late Dr. Ralph Dorn Hetzel—or better still, who knew him—have graduated.

Consider our senior class, for example; most of the mid-century class came to State as sophomores in 1947. Then, unfortunately for the College and the student, President Hetzel died at the outset of the '47-'48 year.

Since you'll not be assuming the job of Penn State boss until July, the class of '50, who'll be counted among our 40,000 alumni by that time, will just miss you. But the rest of us will be here, and among our number are thousands who are connoisseurs of good milkshakes.

We understand you like them too. We hope you'll take time off to have one—figuratively of course—with all 10,000 of us.

Sincerely,
The Students and Their Organizations, at The Pennsylvania State College

The annual drive of the World Student Service Fund will be launched Monday, Feb. 27, announced Jane Kelley, co-publicity chairman. This year's goal for the six-day campaign has been set at $5,000.

Aid given falls into five major categories: food, clothing, medical aid, books and housing. The Fund also encourages and supports student self-help projects in countries where it operates.

"The goal of $5,000 could be realized," stated Miss Kelley, "if" (Continued on page four)

Students Plan Welcome For New President

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president-elect of the College, will make his first official visit here Monday.

He will meet the student body for the first time in a welcome mass meeting scheduled for 4:30 p.m. on the steps of Old Main.

Dr. Eisenhower, currently president of Kansas State College, will become president of Penn State July 1.

He agreed to spend the day here while in the East to speak before the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Tuesday in Philadelphia, the president's office announced yesterday. Plans for the student mass meeting are being formulated by Ted Allen, president of All-College Cabinet.

Classes and laboratory work Monday will be suspended from 4:10 to 5 p.m. to allow students and faculty members to attend the meeting, the president's office reported. In addition, permission will be granted for closing of offices and other College operations "which can be closed without suspension of vital services."

James Milholland, president of the board of trustees and acting president of the College, also will be on campus Monday and probably will introduce Dr. Eisenhower at the meeting. Both are scheduled to stay at the president's house on campus.

Dr. Eisenhower is expected to arrive here late Sunday night. He and Milholland will leave here Monday evening for the PMA dinner the following evening, which also will be attended by persons prominent in Pennsylvania public and education circles. Dr. Eisenhower will deliver the main address at the dinner, described by the PMA as its welcome to the new College president.

Today . . .

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR Milton Eisenhower, president-elect of the College.

The new head man will make his first official appearance on campus Monday. Students will have an opportunity to see Eisenhower at a mass meeting scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Monday afternoon in front of Old Main.

The noted educator has a long and distinguished career behind him, and much is expected when he takes over the reins of the administration July 1.

The Lion takes this opportunity to be the first to welcome "Milt" by roaring out a long-stified cry of "welcome" to our long overdue president.
