

Tuffy To Address Annual Matrix Table

Esther Van Wagoner Tuffy, head of the Tuffy News Agency in Washington, D. C., will be guest of honor at Theta Sigma Phi's annual Matrix Dinner at the Nittany Lion Inn on March 27.

The outstanding junior and senior women on campus will be invited to the dinner, which will be highlighted by the selection of Cap Girl, Quill Girl, and Matrix Girl.

The senior woman with the most varied activities will be named Cap Girl; the senior woman who has contributed most to the College, Matrix Girl; and the Quill Girl will be elected by coeds from the presidents of WRA, WSGA, Chimes, and Mortar Board.

Members of Theta Sigma Phi, which is the women's national journalism honorary, will choose the Cap Girl and Matrix Girl.

Schisler --

Not conceded even an outside chance of surviving the elimination rounds, the Lions became the tourney "surprise" after they knocked over two pre-tourney favorites and advanced to the finals in which they were narrowly defeated by North Carolina State.

As a center, Schisler usually finds himself confronted with the opposing team's high scorer—and he has met some of the best in collegiate ball. His choice as outstanding goes to the former Colgate All-American now playing with the New York Knickerbockers, Ernie Vandeweghe. Dick Dickey, a guard on the victorious Dixie Classic, North Carolina State team, runs a close second.

THEY STILL NEED YOU. Five dollars will pay for one student's share in the cost of equipping a free canteen for 100 students in Padua. Give to WSSF.
