

Chinese Policy

(This is the second in a series of articles about world problems gathered by members of the International Relations Club).

By DAVE COLTON

UNDOUBTEDLY the formation of a permanent policy towards China is one of the major problems facing the United States government in 1950. It is an established fact that the opinion of the American people toward the Chinese Nationalist government has changed greatly during the last year. After spending billions of dollars to support Chiang Kai-Shek, the United States realizes it cannot continue to play the role of Santa Claus to an incompetent government.

Dr. S. C. Sun, of the School of Mineral Industries, believes the weak point of American policy in China is that we have over-emphasized the cold war with Russia. Our government supported Chiang Kai-Shek because he opposed Communism, despite the fact that since the Sino-Japanese War the Nationalist government has been unpopular with a majority of the Chinese people, he said.

THE NATIONALIST government was controlled by a small, corrupt group of men who proved themselves inefficient, and were not concerned with the welfare of the people. "The people did not favor Chiang Kai-Shek's rule, and his group has been defeated," Prof. Sun said. Today the Nationalist government is bombing the mainland from Formosa with American equipment, and Russia is making excellent use of this as propaganda, he continued. The Chinese now think Americans are just like the Generalissimo, Mr. Sun said.

The solution offered by Dr. Sun is that the United States aid the Chinese people, and not the former government. "Assist the education program, give the people medical supplies, show them we are concerned with their benefit, and we can regain the faith of the populace, and defeat Communism," he concluded.

P. J. BONER of the economics departments, also objects to further aid to the Nationalist government. "By supporting a government that has been displaced by another we are obviously playing into the hands of Communist propaganda, which claims the United States is not interested in the wishes of the Chinese people," he said.

A new government does exist and this is what the Chinese wanted, so it would be foolish to try to force them to accept the Nationalists, he said. Other friendly nations have already recognized the new Communist government, so if we are to maintain unstrained relations with these countries we should enforce the same policy, Mr. Boner stated.

THE UNITED STATES government has committed many errors in China and 1950 is the year for a final decision. Whether we want to admit it or not, China has fallen to the Communists. The best policy seems to be to recognize this regime and try to regain the faith of the Chinese, since the Nationalists have already proved a wasteful cause, and the American budget cannot withstand continued spurring.

(Material gathered by Jane Cowen, member of the IRC).

Bible Study Class

PSCA is now conducting four Bible study groups each week. They are Monday at 4:10 p.m. under the direction of the Rev. Edwerthe Korte; Tuesday at 2:10 p.m. under the guidance of the Rev. Robert Eads; and Thursday at 2:10 and 4:10 p.m. under the direction of Luther Harshbarger, executive secretary of PSCA.

32 MI Students Make Dean's List

Thirty-two students were placed on the dean's list of the School of Mineral Industries, Dean Edward Steidle announced recently.

Nineteen seniors, five juniors, and eight sophomores made averages of 2.5 or better. The Seniors are:

George Barber Jr., William Bates, Peter Buzad, Robert Brumberg, Richard Campbell, Stewart Claypoole, John Cox Jr., William Frickle Jr., Donald Gasper.

Robert Gerhard, Patrick Huber, Norman Kapko, Warren Latimer, Vance Moyer, David Reher, Rupert Ross, Henry Steadman, Martha Stevens, William Yerrick.

Juniors: Homer Harris, Richard Higgs, William Rice, Robert Thompson, Isaac Vanderhoven.

Sophomores: Paul Barton Jr., Edward Bush, David Fetterman Jr., John Harrison, William Horn, Frank Johnson, Edward Mace, Walter Showak.

Collegian Promotes Nine Candidates

Promotion of nine editorial candidates to sophomore editorial board was announced yesterday by Thomas Morgan, Daily Collegian editor.

Newly promoted staff members are Nancy Holden, Jo Hutchon, Geraldine Kassab, Peggy King, Leonard Kolasinski, Richard Kolbenshlag, Virginia Opoczanski, Charlene Schwab, and Lie Edward Stern.

Well, At Least It's Better Than Froth . . .

—Photo by LEN-BOY
EVERYBODY DOES IT—Doc, mascot of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, shown reading his favorite campus publication. Doc contends that the Daily Collegian, is more interesting, attractive, and even more humorous than its arch-rival, Froth. Fourteen-years-old, Doc has spent two of them at Beta Theta Pi while his master, Joseph Cook, attends school. Next to reading Collegian, he enjoys balancing things on his nose for the fellows.

Modern Dance Team Presents Schwab Concert

Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder, a new team of modern dancers, will present a concert at Schwab Auditorium Mar. 27, at 8:15 p.m.

The program, sponsored by the School of Physical Education and Athletics, will be presented in a series of seven works. The first of three major works is "Haunted Moments," a comment on lonely people. The second, "People and Things," is a satirical expose of human follies. The third, "The Biblical Suite," is about Hogar and the Angel, Isaiah the Prophet, and Leah.

The rest of the program consists of a lyrical romantic dance to a two piano sonata, an old English ballad, a Shakespearean soliloquy, and a story dance. The two artists, Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder, have performed transcontinentally and in New York as soloists.

Ticket sales start Mar. 21 at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Seats are 75 cents, tax included.

Cabinet---

(Continued from page one)

mail truck is employed as an ambulance. Ted Allen, All-College president, requested further investigation of this point.

Ring Purchase Limited
By a 15-to-3 vote, the government agency adopted a plan whereby purchase of the class ring will be limited to regular students who have entered their sixth semester and to two-year agriculture students who are in their last semester.

No restrictions had ever been placed on the purchase of the old class ring which last month was replaced by a new, officially-adopted ring.

Constitution Approved
Cabinet approved a constitution for the proposed campus literary-photo magazine as submitted by the board of publications chairman, Thomas Morgan. The Senate Committee on Student Welfare will be requested to grant a charter for the publication.

A fee assessment of 25 cents, to be distributed proportionately among four major campus organizations was voted Cabinet approval. The funds, to be collected by the bursar beginning this fall, will be allotted to Association of Independent Men, Interfraternity Council, Leonides, and Pan-Hellenic Council.

Only Defender

Heavyweight Homer Barr will be Penn State's only defending titlist when the annual Eastern Intercollegiate wrestling championships are held at Princeton, N. J., March 10-11. The Clearfield giant is a junior.

Madison Oratorical Contest To Be Held Here March 23

The James Madison Oratorical Contest, part of a national Tournament of Orators, will be held at the College Mar. 23. Any undergraduate student of the College is eligible to compete.

The contest will be open to the public and will be held at 8 p.m. in 121 Sparks. It is jointly sponsored by the College department of speech and the New York Journal-American and is a part of an annual Tournament of Orators.

The Tournament of Orators, which is sponsored by the Journal-American, awards a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond to the national winner, a $100 bond to regional winners, and a $25 bond to the winning contestant in each competing college.

This is the first year that the College has entered the annual contest. Each year a different famous figure in American history is honored, with James Madison selected for the orations this year.

Each contestant must make a six-minute speech about Madison, which will be presented to the public and a board of judges. The winner from the College will compete with other college winners in the regional contest at West Point, N.Y., April 29. The national finals will be held in New York in May. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower will be national chairman this year.

Additional information about the James Madison Oratorical Contest may be had by contacting any of the committee members in charge of the contest: Professors Holle G. DeBoer, Joseph F. O'Brien, Clayton H. Schug, and Harold P. Zelko, all of the College department of speech.

Bailey Named Engineer Editor

Robert Bailey will be editor-in-chief of the Penn State Engineer next year, it was announced by co-editors Dean Harrison and Gordon Davis at a meeting of the staff last night.

Other editorial promotions include: managing editor, Ben Ungerleider; business manager, Gerald Smith; feature editor, Dean Cherrington; illustrations editor, Raymond Miller; photography editor, James Gray.

National advertising manager, Samuel Stinner; local advertising manager, John Radomsky; promotion manager, Ernest Hartsky; circulation manager, Harold Bowditch; and business accountant, Richard Gorman.

Laundry Service

Automatic washer-type service is now available to students through the Student Dry Cleaning Agency, according to Oscar T. Fleisher, manager of the agency.

The new service will be offered by Marshall's Self-Service Laundrette. Pick up stations are in the Jordan Hall pressing room, McElwain Hall recreation room, Sally's room in Atherton Hall, 302 Woman's Building, 218 McAllister Hall, 211 Grange, and Simmons Hall recreation room.

NOW!
At Your
Warner Theatre

Cathlam
JOHN WAYNE
JOHN AGAR
"Sands of Iwo Jima"

State
David Brian
Claude Jarman Jr.
"Intruder In The Dust"

Nittany
Presented by the International Film Club
Andre Gide's
"Symphonie Pastorale" with Michele Morgan

G I R L C R A Z Y

A Musical Comedy
by
GEORGE GERSHWIN

MARCH
23-24-25

7:30 p. m. Schwab
Saturday Matinee
2 p. m.