

Registration of Debaters To Open 15th Annual Convention at College

The 15th annual debater's convention will officially open at the College at 10 o'clock this morning with the registration of representatives from 25 colleges.

Sponsored by the College's men debaters, the convention takes the form of a mock congress. Throughout the day three committees will be meeting to decide on bills to sponsor before an assembly of all the debaters.

Representing the College on a domestic economic policy committee are: Rosemary Delahanty, Patricia Hathaway, Harry Kondourajian and David Lewis.

On two committees for foreign policy in relation to the Orient are: Christine Altenburger, Jack Boddington, David Christopher, Roger Dietz, Joanne Esterly, Joel Fleming, Shirley Gallagher and Caro Siswein. Each group from the College will try to have at least one of its bills chosen by the committee.

Committees will also nominate their outstanding girl speaker for the title of "Gavel Girl." She is to be chosen for speaking ability and personal charm.

Convention members will elect the "Gavel Girl" at a banquet tonight. Each nominee is asked to speak for five minutes on the subject "The Year 2000—Promise or Threat" before the final balloting. Winner will be given a silver gavel necklace.

Policy Meeting

An open session of all the members to consider the domestic policy bills will be held at 8:15 tonight in 10 Sparks. Another session for the foreign policy measures will be held tomorrow at 9 a.m. in 121 Sparks. Both of these meetings are open to the public.

Officers of the convention are: president, Jeff Hopper, Allegheny; first vice-president, Harry Green, Pitt; second vice-president, Margaret McGill, Mt. Mercy and secretary, Clair George, the College. The College's women debaters following their annual banquet last night, sponsored a round of debates for early arrivals at the convention. They debated on nationalizing industries.

Summer ROTC Course Given

Students interested in attending the first summer session sponsored by Army ROTC at the College should report for the required physical examination by March 20, Col. Arthur R. Walk, head of the department of military science announced recently.

An intensified course lasting less than four weeks will include the first full year of advanced ROTC training. Students who will be seniors next fall, and have already completed the basic ROTC courses will be eligible. However, veterans who have had at least one year of service may also attend.

Courses will be offered in Infantry, Engineering, and Signal Corps if a sufficient number of students are interested.

In classes which will be held for eight hours a day, students will be put through all of the classes and problems regularly considered in the first year of advanced ROTC.

Participants are entitled to remuneration from the government of 90 cents a day for the duration of the course.

As planned now the session will begin about June 10, and conclude prior to the beginning of the main summer session at the College on July 6. Facilities of the College are to be used for all of the classes. Registration will probably be held during the spring semester final examination week.

Attendance at this session does not constitute an exemption from the regular summer camp in which every cadet must take part to qualify for a reserve commission.

Those interested in further details should contact Capt. W. D. Sowa in 102 Carnegie Hall.

Peurifoy Says McCarthy Perils Foreign Affairs

Acheson Names Ways Russia Can Aid Peace

WASHINGTON—Senator Joseph McCarthy was accused yesterday of damaging foreign relations by John Peurifoy, deputy undersecretary of state. Peurifoy blamed McCarthy's "techniques" in attempting to back up charges of communism in the State Department for the damage.

The official accused McCarthy of reviving discredited, disproven charges in his attack on John S. Service, veteran diplomat. Service has been recalled from India by the State Department to answer the senator's allegations before a senate sub-committee.

McCarthy claimed last week that he knew of 57 card-holding communists in the State Department. He named Dorothy Kenyon, prominent woman attorney, and Mrs. Dean Acheson among others. The State Department has repeatedly denied the charges.

Asks Red Action

Secretary of State Dean Acheson yesterday named seven ways in which he says Russia can prove a desire to ease the cold war and promote peace, but added that he doesn't expect any results.

Among the points he placed cooperation on German, Austrian and Japanese peace treaties and in working out an atomic control plan.

Acheson also asked that Russia stop treating our diplomats as "criminals" and tell the Russians the truth about this country.

Czechs Oust Deliva

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakia has ordered Vatican representative Msgr. Ottavio DeLiva to leave the country within three days. The Czech government accused DeLiva, secretary of the papal nunciature in Prague of interfering with the country's internal affairs.

'Father'---

Marvin Riesenbach as the 15-year-old "John" and Donald Barton as the younger "Whitney" were not quite polished enough to handle perplexing roles as adolescents. Barton seemed a bit grotesque in short pants and black knee stockings and had a little trouble with his voice. Riesenbach leaned toward over-playing.

Both Ruth Johnson as "Cousin Cora" and Barbara Clopp as "Mary Skinner" did well enough, the former showing laudable verve and the latter effusing a pleasant adolescent sunniness.

Nicholas Morkides was properly sugary and oratorical as the minister, and Richard Evans and Ferd Leuschner were conventional doctors. JoAn Lee was buxom and happy as the cook, and Lois Pulver, Seena Herzog, Helen Jaskol, and Barbara Tex were adequate as a long succession of maids.

Costumes were well chosen for the period, and those of the women were pleasingly bright. Although authentic and well-conceived, Oren L. Stein's set seemed a trifle flat.

Tickets for performances at 8 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night still are on sale at the Student Union deck in Old Main. Price is $1.

Four of a Kind..

Penn State's Varsity Quartet as they will appear with the Glee Club tonight and tomorrow night in Johnstown and Indiana, Pa., respectively. Singing with the quartet (left to right) are Edgar Raffensberger, George Jeffries, Richard Goodling, and Charles Sullivan. Gerald Dagher is the accompanist. Sullivan will be unable to appear with the quartet during the annual Spring tour of the Glee Club, March 27 to 31. Taking his place will be William Detweiler.

State Holds Nominations; Lions To Plan Platform

Hot on the trail of hoped-for political victory in the Spring elections, the State party will hold preliminary nominations for the April voting Sunday evening.

The meeting will be held in 121 Sparks at 7 o'clock. Meanwhile, the Lion party will meet at the same time in 100 Electrical Engineering to lay plans for the Spring platform with which they hope to prevent the Staters from coming back into power.

Nominations Held
The Lions held preliminary nominations the past Sunday evening, with the name of Robert Davis, president of AIM, being the only one thus far put forward for All-College president. Harry Kondourajian, president of the junior class, was nominated for All-College vice-president, while Neil See was proposed as secretary-treasurer.

All-College, senior class, and junior class officers will be elected next month. In the Spring election last year, the Lions swept all nine offices, but the State party reversed the trend in the recent Fall elections, winning all offices in the freshman and sophomore classes.

John Erickson has been nominated by the Lions for senior class vice-president, and Lois Kenyon, for secretary-treasurer. Both Wallace Miller and Joseph Breisch have been proposed for vice-president.

David Mutchler was proposed as junior class president.

Czech Refugee Ripka, To Speak

Dr. Hubert Ripka, well-known Czechoslovakian refugee, will give the memorial address at the Masaryk Centennial program to be held in 121 Sparks at 8 p.m. Monday.

The program, commemorating the 100th anniversary of Thomas Garrigue Masaryk's birth, is sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity. Thomas Masaryk was the first president of the Czechoslovak Republic.

Dr. Ripka was a professor at Charles University, Prague, in his early years, then became a journalist. During the time that Masaryk was president of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Ripka was press agent for Dr. Edward M. Benes, Masaryk's foreign minister.

During the last war, Dr. Ripka was a member of the Czech government in exile, which had its headquarters in London.

Schools Sponsor Dance Tonight

A box social and square dance sponsored by the Potters Mills schools will initiate the new program of the PSCA Work Camp to further community relations.

Members of the Saturday work party will attend this function which will be held in the Centre Hall High School tonight. The dance is being held to raise funds for the school lunch program.

Girls from the College will pack snack lunches which will be auctioned to the men at the end of the evening.

Saturday afternoon, the group, organized by Biddle Atlee, chairman of the PSCA social responsibility commission, will continue painting the Tusseyville one-school.

H.E. Profs To Speak

Dr. Hazel M. Hatcher, professor of home economics education and home - community relationships, and Dr. Rose M. Cologne, specialist in community adult education at the College, will speak today and tomorrow at meetings of the Virginia Home Economics Association in Richmond, Va.

Male Glee Club Leaves Today; Weekend Tour

The College Glee Club will leave this afternoon for a weekend tour to Johnstown and Indiana, Pa. They will appear tonight in Johnstown and tomorrow at Indiana State Teachers College.

The group of ninety voices will make the trip in two chartered busses, one of which will return to State College after the concert tonight with those who have Saturday classes. The returning bus will leave for Indiana tomorrow afternoon.

Entire Club Tours
This is the first time the entire club is appearing outside of town. Later the group will be cut to 48 singers for the annual Spring Tour, which will include concerts at Erie, Greensburg, Cleveland, Buffalo, and Ridgeway.

The Penn State Alumni Association is backing the tours. Glee Club Manager Charles Sullivan and the Alumni Association set up the calendar together. Local Alumni Associations are sponsoring the individual concerts.

Appearing with the Glee Club, which is directed by Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, will be two soloists, the Varsity Quartet, a piano soloist, and the Hy-Los.

Baritone, Tenor Soloists
The soloists are Clinton Grove, baritone, a junior in economics and commerce; and Morris Samuel Jr., tenor, a junior in education. Both will sing several selections which will include Tchaikovsky's "Pilgrim's Song" by Grove and Herbert's "Thine Alone" by Samuel.

Selections by the Varsity Quartet will include "Moonglow," "Lol Hear the Gentle Lark," and "Enjoy Yourself." Members of the quartet are Richard Goodling, George Jeffries, Edgar Raffensberger, and Charles Sullivan.

Selected numbers will be presented by Joseph Rosenthal Jr., piano soloist. Rosenthal is a graduate student in arts and letters.

The Hy-Los, a comedy group within the club, will present "Old King Cole" by Cecil Forsyth and "Johnny Schmoker," an old German tune.
