Recover Nine From Arizona Plane Crash

Two Airmen Survive Burning B-50 Bomber

HYDER, Ariz.—Nine bodies have been found from the crash of a B-50 Bomber with 14 persons aboard on the flat desert west of Gila Bend, Arizona. The Southern Pacific office in Hyder, near the scene, says two airmen are alive.

The Air Force says the plane—a modernized superfortress—apparently caught fire while flying at a 17,000 feet altitude. An airplane pilot who saw the crash told of seeing two parachutes in the air.

Lindstrom May Settle

LOS ANGELES—Dr. Peter Lindstrom and Swedish actress Ingrid Bergman may reach a settlement out of court. However, if Lindstrom files a California divorce, his attorney says Italian film director Roberto Rossellini will be named as co-respondent.

Crashes in Storm

ROME, N. Y.—An Air Force captain was killed today when his C-47 transport plane crashed and burned in a heavy snowstorm just after a take-off from Griffis air base near Rome, N. Y. Four other crewmen were slightly injured.

The air force has identified the dead man as Captain Posie Clinton of Graham, Tex.

3 Killed in Flash Fire

AUSTIN, Tex.—Three men are believed to have been killed in Austin, Tex., in a spectacular flash fire that raced through the basement of the T. H. Williams Department Store. After a two-hour battle against the flames, the basement was flooded. Firemen said the men reported trapped could not possibly be alive.

The fire was touched off by a blow torch used by an air conditioning crew.

Perkins Finds Restrictions In 20 Fraternities

Twenty of the 49 social fraternities on campus are known to have membership restrictions with reference to religion or race, or to both, according to a survey recently conducted by Harold W. Perkins, assistant dean of men.

Thirty-seven fraternities replied to the survey questionnaire. Of this number, 20 reported that they have no restrictions on membership. Seventeen reported restrictions of some type, while three groups which did not submit answers are known to have religious or race regulations.

When presenting the figures to All-College Cabinet last week, Dean Perkins explained, "It's important to keep in mind that this discrimination is not in one direction. On this campus we have discrimination against Protestants, Catholics, whites and Orientals as well as against Jews and Negroes."

Breakdown

Following is the breakdown of figures for the 20 reporting or known to have restrictions:

Seven restrict membership on both race and religious grounds.

Three have restrictions on religious grounds only.

Ten restrict membership according to race only. Restrictions here deal with Caucasians, Negroes, and Orientals.

"Progress is being made within the fraternities themselves without outside pressure," Dean Perkins said. "I believe it is notable that fifteen of the fraternities reporting restrictions stated that they are in the process of considering the matter one way or another."

Modern Dancers . . .

Mark Ryder and Emily Frankel, modern dance artists who will appear in Schwab Auditorium Monday night, are caught by the camera in a pose from one of their dances. Modern dance seeks to express ideas and feelings through the medium of movement in a time-space structure.

Phys Ed School Sponsors Dance Concert Monday

Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder, now on a transcontinental tour, will present a Modern Dance Concert in Schwab Auditorium Monday at 8:15 p.m.

The program, sponsored by the School of Physical Education and Athletics will be presented in a series of seven works. The first of the three major works is "Haunted Moments," a comment on lonely people. The second, "People and Things," is a satirical work on the foibles of human nature.

The third major work, "The Biblical Suite," is about Hogar and the Angel, Isaiah the Prophet, and Leah. The rest of the program consists of a lyrical romantic dance to a two piano sonata; an old English ballad; a Shakespearean soliloquy; and a story dance, the tale of how a puppet transforms an empty woman into a creature like himself.

The two artists have performed in New York and across the country as soloists. Mr. Ryder appeared with the Martha Graham Dance Company and Miss Frankel with the Charles Weidman Theatre.

They have also danced their own choreography on television, and Mr. Ryder was the male lead in the St. Louis Opera production of "Bloomer Girl." They made their debut as a dance team in New York City, where they have been highly praised by dance critics.

Tickets are on sale at the Student Union Desk in Old Main for 75 cents apiece.

IFC To Sponsor Bridge Tourney

An annual Interfraternity Council duplicate bridge tourney will be staged soon after Easter vacation, David Ludwig, tourney manager, said yesterday. He pointed out that each fraternity may enter two pairs of players. Names of entries must be in the Student Union office, Old Main, by 5 p.m. next Friday.

Tourney rules will be sent to each house entering, Ludwig added.

March 'Farmer' Now Available

The March issue of the Penn State Farmer, Forester and Scientist is available now. This month it features numerous articles that concern the student, teacher, and farmer.

The two main feature articles to be found in "The Tanbark Parade" section are "The Dairy Show," by Sarah Chinn, Ag. Bio. Chem. junior, and "The Little International," by Larry Drabick, junior in Ag. Ed.

The dairy exposition is sponsored by the Penn State Dairy Science Club, and the articles contain many interesting facts to be found concerning the show. The Little International Livestock Exposition is well described, with both its history and present plans being dealt with.

The women's corner, "Accent on Patent and Pique," by Darlene Hoover, home economics senior, contains the latest trends in women's apparel.

Gridders To Occupy East Side of Field

Next football season, the "home side" of the Beaver Field stands will be the east instead of the traditional west side.

According to a ruling by the Athletic Advisory Board released yesterday by Harold R. Gilbert, secretary, the Nittany Lion football team will be benched on the east side of Beaver field at all 1950 home games. Seniors are already seated on the east-side 50-yard line, with other students extending around the north-side curve in the stands.

Mr. Gilbert explained that the home-team switch to the east side of the field will be a "one-year experiment."

Student Sentiment Crystallized

The board's decision to move the home team to the east side resulted from student-voiced desire early this year to be seated on the same side with the team. Student sentiment was crystallized in a proposed new seating arrangement passed by All-College Cabinet and offered to the Athletic Advisory Board last week by Ted Allen, all-College president, and Charles Beatty, Athletic Association secretary-treasurer, who are student members.

Ruled out by the board, the plan would have switched seniors from the east-side 50-yard line to the west-side 50. The remainder of the student body would have been seated in adjoining sections around the curve at the north end of the field.

'Better Student Plan'

When the plan was devised, Richard Wertz, seating arrangement committee chairman, had said:

"In the face of the College's desire to pay for the new stands and to raise money to guarantee good schedules, we feel this proposed arrangement is what we should seek before the Athletic Advisory Board. We feel it would not tax athletic finances, yet it is a better student plan than that existing now."

According to Allen, the plan was not adopted because the Board felt that "alumni support has been built up and should be maintained by offering as many priority seats as possible on the west or non-sunny side of Beaver field."

Ridge Riley

In a letter to the board, Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, said:

"Our present lack of indoor seating facilities and the ruling to eliminate any public sale of tickets has been a very necessary policy, but nevertheless, one that has been embarrassing throughout the winter season and anything but conducive to good public alumni relations. If the measure to transfer alumni from their traditional place in the west stands is carried out, I predict an unfavorable alumni reaction."

As an alternative, the motion to place the Lion team on the east side with the students, for one year, was passed unanimously by the board.
