

Cabinet Defeats Motion To Extend Petition Privilege

A motion for expanding constitutional provisions for petition was defeated by All-College Cabinet Thursday night. The proposal, providing that a petition signed by 10 percent of the student body could throw any Cabinet action except those on finance and constitutional amendment to general election, was defeated as a considered amendment to the All-College Constitution.

Late AP News Courtesy WMAJ Congress OK's Compromise Farm Measure

WASHINGTON—A compromise farm price support bill has finally been approved by Congress. The Senate completed final Congressional action yesterday afternoon.

The bill provides for increased planting, under price supports, of cotton and peanut crops. It discourages overplanting of potatoes.

Chrysler Strike

DETROIT — The CIO strike against the Chrysler Corporation is nearing the end of its 59th day, and still no definite hint of an early settlement in prospect. The company offered yesterday to back up its pension promise with a 30-million-dollar trust fund, but to guarantee pensions only for the next five years. The union spurned the offer as insufficient.

Parties To Plan, Pick Candidates

Both the State and Lion parties will meet tomorrow night to make final nominations for Spring elections and to consider campaign platforms. The State clique will meet in 10 Sparks and the Lion in 121 Sparks. Further nominations, in addition to those already made, will be considered by both parties before the final selections are made.

Perkins Statement

In yesterday's Daily Collegian, a statement by Harold W. Perkins, assistant dean of men, appeared incorrectly. Concerning a survey of restrictive clauses in constitutions of some of the 49 campus fraternities, Mr. Perkins' correct statement follows: "It's important to keep in mind that this discrimination is not in one direction. On this campus we have discrimination against Protestants, Catholics, and Orientals, as well as against Jews and Negroes."

Presented by Harry Konourajian, president of the junior class, the proposed change was attacked by several Cabinet members.

James MacCallum, all-college secretary-treasurer, pointed out that any campus group of over 1000 students could demand a general election. In this fashion, he said, Cabinet motions could be delayed or defeated by factions not necessarily representing general student interests.

The constitutional right of any student to present to Cabinet any matters concerning student welfare provides an adequate method, Parliamentarian Richard Schweiker said.

Proposal Accepted

Cabinet accepted another proposal for amendment. This change would incorporate into the constitution provisions for the student council coordinating committee.

Schweiker said the committee would work for general cooperation of school student councils in sponsorship of various campus- (Continued on page four)

Hillel To Hear Talk on Israel

Dr. Maurice Taylor, of the United Jewish Fund of Pittsburgh, will be this week's speaker at Sabbath Eve services in the Hillel Foundation, West Beaver Avenue. He will speak on "Israel as I Saw It."

This Sunday's Town Meeting at Hillel will feature three faculty members of the College, who will discuss "What Must Be Done To Reduce Industrial Strife?" They are Anthony S. Luchek, associate professor of economics in extension; David R. Mitchell, professor and head of the department of mineral engineering; and E. Loring Roach, professor of engineering research. Rabbi Benjamin E. Kahn will be moderator. Town Meetings are held each Sunday at eight o'clock at the Hillel Foundation.

Israel Film

A premier showing of "My Father's House," a full-length film produced in Israel, will be open to the public at Hillel at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. There is no admission charge.

Based on the novel of the same name by Myer Levin, the film tells the story of the faith of a young boy seeking his parents in Palestine. At the same time, he brings romance and happiness to the two persons who love him most.

Directed by Herbert Kline, the production has an English-speaking Israeli cast. The film is shown under the auspices of the Cultural Committee of the Foundation.

Denfeld Tickets On Sale Monday

Ticket sale for the talk by Adm. Louis E. Denfeld next Thursday night will begin 1:30 p.m. Monday at Student Union desk in Old Main. The price is $1.

Admiral Denfeld is one of the country's leading critics of the government's conduct of naval affairs. Speaking on "What Is Your Navy Worth Now?" he contends the Navy is being whittled down below what he believes to be the danger point for a stand-by force.

His talk on the Community Forum series is among the first of many speeches he will make throughout the country during the next year. Holders of season tickets will use stub "D" listed as Dr. Ira DeA. Reid.

Senate Approves 'Inkling'

Group Queries Appropriation Of NSA Money

James MacCallum, all-College vice-president and Peter Giesey, IFC head, led an attack on College membership in the National Student Association, at the Cabinet meeting Thursday night.

Lyn Lapp, chairman of the Cabinet NSA committee, defended the organization's value to the College, saying that benefits received from contact with other schools, and College prestige gained through NSA leadership justified the $1000 expenditure on NSA this year.

No Cabinet decision will be taken on NSA until the budget comes up for consideration later in the semester.

Giesey, MacCallum, and Tribunal Chairman Robert Keller all pointed to the fact that only 50 people are active in the local committee, questioning whether this small number justified the $300 yearly dues which the College, as one of the largest members, must pay. Ted Allen, all-college president, however, said that the College as a whole belongs to NSA, that Cabinet itself, under current arrangements, represents the Penn State NSA, and that the 50 students referred to belong only to the Cabinet committee on NSA.

The debate arose over a letter, introduced by Allen, from Oregon State University, asking that the College outline the success or failure of NSA here to help the western school decide whether to join. MacCallum immediately questioned the value of membership to an "isolated" school such as Penn State. He said, "While I do not deny that the NSA committee has done a good job, I see no reason why a Cabinet committee not associated with the national group could not have done the same job without the expenditure of $1000."

Giesey and Keller pointed out that the school could gain some of the benefits of NSA without actual membership. Among these they listed receiving literature and attendance at regional and national meetings. Miss Lapp called such a practice "mooching."

Discrimination Tabled For Later Consideration

The Senate Committee on Student Welfare yesterday granted a charter to the Inkling, new campus literary-photographic magazine.

Approval of the magazine's request for a charter came on a motion by Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston.

Representatives of NAACP and PSCA attended to present views on fraternity discrimination clauses, but consideration of their statements was postponed until the next meeting because of the illness of Dr. R. Wallace Brewster, chairman of the committee.

The committee also approved a charter requested by Hillel Foundation, which has been on campus for 15 years but never recognized officially by the committee.

Members of the Inkling's board of directors, announced in the letter requesting the charter are Louis H. Bell, director of the department of public information; Rcss B. Lehman, assistant executive secretary of the Alumni Association; Richard O. Byers, journalism instructor; E. K. Mattil, assistant professor of art education; J. J. Rubin, associate professor of English composition, and George L. Donovan, manager of associated student activities.

The name of the new magazine was suggested by Paul Beighley, (Continued on page four)

Students Meet To Consider Mission Group

Students interested in missions will have an informal meeting in Wesley Foundation at 8:30 p.m. Sunday to discuss the possibility of forming a Student Volunteer Movement group on campus.

Dr. M. O. Williams, personnel secretary of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions, will be present to meet with the group.

The Student Volunteer Movement is encouraging formation of campus groups to work as integral parts of existing religious organizations, such as PSCA and Interchurch Student Fellowship. This type of organization would prevent competition for members among religious groups, and participate in group activities.

An SVM group at the College would include those seeking information about missions as a vocation and those merely interested in mission work. Membership in the group would be open to those interested in either home or foreign mission fields.

Modern Dancers Perform Monday

Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder, now on transcontinental tour, will present a Modern Dance Concert in Schwab Auditorium Monday at 8:15 p.m.

The program, sponsored by the School of Physical Education and Athletics will be presented in a series of seven works.

The two artists have performed in New York and across the country as soloists. They made their debut as a dance team in New York City, where they have been highly praised by dance critics.

Tickets are one sale at Student Union in Old Main for 75 cents apiece.

Fun For All

Fraternities, AIM Plan Houseparties

Forty-odd fraternities and the Association of Independent Men look forward to houseparties, ranging from Acacia's USO theme to Zeta Beta Tau's Flying Saucer Ball, tonight.

Independents will have their own houseparty at the University Club from 8:30 to midnight for the second consecutive year. Ray Evert, and his K-dets from Mt. Carmel, will provide the music.

Included among the themes for the other fraternity houseparties are Alpha Chi Rho's Bunny Hop, Alpha Chi Sigma's Hobo Dance, Alpha Epsilon Pi's Reefer Romp, where free cigarettes will be given away, and Alpha Gamma Rho's Circus Dance.

Alpha Phi Deltas will cavort at the Sweater Swell, while Alpha Phi Sigma will go proletarian with its Bad Taste party. Alpha Tau Omega will grieve the injustice of things in general with "Shaft Shuffle."

Waterfront Brawl
Alpha Zeta will engage in a Waterfront Brawl, and Beta Sigma Rho will type Beta Sig Goes To Press. A Latin theme is "eet" at Beta Theta Pi's Beta Hacienda. Delta Chi will caper at Our Ranch, or rather their ranch.

Delta Sigma Phi will feature Ethel Smith's Ball, while Delta Tau Delta will zoom through the "Roaring Twenties." Delta Theta Sigma is having a dinner and dance at Wink's Skytop.

Hard Times will figure as the theme at Delta Upsilon, and Kap-
