Sororities Asked To Cancel Meetings

All sororities have been asked by WSGA to cancel or postpone their meetings on Monday night so that members may attend Dr. Lillian Gilbreth's lecture at the WSGA convocation.

Groups that have regularly scheduled culture meetings may be able to use the address which will be inspirational in nature, as their program for the month, WSGA officials stressed. Announcement of the request was made at a meeting of the Pan-Hellenic Council.

The lecture, Dr. Gilbreth's second at the College this year, will begin at 7 p.m. in Schwab auditorium. Following the speech new officers of WSGA will be installed.

The graduating seniors of Gamma Phi Beta were entertained by the alumnae at a buffet supper at the home of Mrs. George Leffler, adviser to the sorority, on Monday evening.

Dorothy Yarnall was given a memorial award as the senior with the highest All-College average.

Fritts' Show in Trials Boosts Team's Hopes

By Joe Breu

Penn State's stock in the fast approaching track meet with Ohio State and Michigan State in Columbus Saturday got a nice big boost over the past weekend.

And the guy that did the most to boost it was Vic Fritts, the Lions' ace high jumper. Vic stole the spotlight in the time trials held last Saturday on Beaver Field with a jump of 6 feet 8 inches.

This feat gave him the unofficial Penn State high jump record. Of course before a record is recognized as official, a man must better the existing mark in competition.

But there can be little doubt that Vic will topple the present mark before long, possibly this Saturday. The current record is 6 feet 5 and 1/2 inches which was set in 1948 by Jimmy Sykes.

HOT/AND COLD

Up to now Vic, a junior, has been hot and cold. One week he would jump 6' 4" or better and the next sink to 6' 1". However, he was consistent enough to win the IC-4A indoor title with a leap of 6 feet 4 inches and the Philadelphia Inquirer meet. Recently in practice he had been hitting 6' 5" and 6' 6".

Coach Chick Werner thinks Vic's performance Saturday was the spark needed to put him over the top and to make him into a consistently good jumper if not more. And Vic gives all the credit for his improvement to Werner.

"He has always been around to help me when I've needed it," Vic points out. "His helpful hints from time to time have been invaluable."

HOPES FOR CROWN

The tall, blond junior hopes to be able to reach 6 feet 10 inches this year and like all trackmen would like to capture the National Intercollegiate crown. He lists as his two biggest thrills his victories in the IC-4A meet and the Inquirer meet.

"That winning before home town fans was really nice," he says.

Vic hopes to be able to repeat

All-College Golf Meet Begins Qualifying Play

With the opening of the Nittany golf course yesterday afternoon came the announcement that the All-College golf tournament will begin today. The qualifying round will end April 30.

To enter, a golfer must sign up at the Caddy house, across from the 9th hole, and then play his qualifying round. Coach Bob Rutherford Jr. emphasized the fact that a golfer need not be a "pro" to enter the tournament. After the qualifying round, men of equal ability will play against each other in brackets of sixteen men.

"This system will give everyone a chance to enter into the tournament rather than just the '70' and '80' shooters," said Coach Rutherford. "If a man shoots '100' on his qualifying round, then he will meet 15 other men of about equal ability. There will be a cup given by the Physical Education School for the winner and runner-up in each bracket."

HELD UP

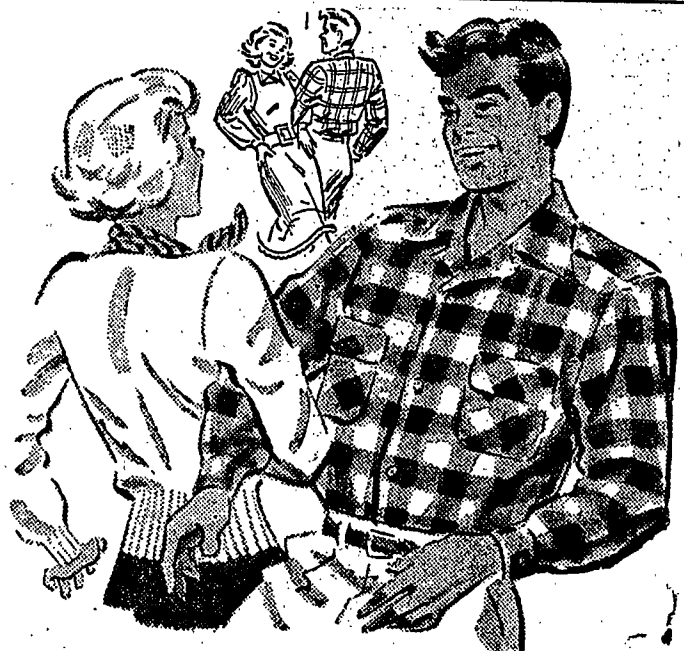

"This event should have been held in the fall semester, but school starting so late this year made it impossible," said Coach Rutherford. "The competition affords me a chance to look over the incoming sophomores and to let them feel college competitive spirit in playing."

Play-offs for the varsity squad will continue for the remainder of this week. Involved in the play-offs will be G. Stewart, T. Richards, P. Kalandiak, J. Mallard, and B. Albert. The two winners of this group will try to break into the starting line-up against Navy, next Wednesday.
