Puhan Explains 'Voice' Aims

Voice of America programs are trying to overcome the enforced, unnatural isolation and ignorance of the Russian people, Alfred Puhan, director of the State Department's Voice of America program, said Tuesday night in the final Liberal Arts lecture in 121 Sparks.

Referring to the current cold war, Puhan warned that it is less tangible and spectacular than a hot war, but it involves the battle for the hearts and minds of men.

Until the recent jamming of the Voice of America programs by the Russians, he said the Voice served an audience of 300 million people throughout the world. Proof that the U. S. program is succeeding in its purpose, he added, can be found by the amount of mail reaching its home office from foreign countries, some behind the Iron Curtain.

Voice broadcasts, by explaining our policies and motives, have raised doubt and skepticism on the part of the Soviet satellites, Puhan said.

The program is transmitted to Russians around the clock, he continued, with "news, news, and more news, factually and soberly told" being the bulk.

The broadcasts are sent in 24 languages through relay stations scattered in England, North Africa, Greece, Honolulu, Manila, among other places around the globe.

Coach Search Hits Standstill

After more than five weeks of searching and evaluation, Penn State's Athletic Advisory Board has no more to report on the selection of a head football coach than it did when Joe Bedenk's resignation was announced.

Dr. Carl P. Schott, Dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, said yesterday that he is still examining qualifications of applicants. He also said that applications are still being received by the board.

The Nittany Lions round out spring grid drills this week and Earl Bruce, brought here to lead the gridders in drills, will presumably be going back to California State Teachers College. He is the Penn State freshman football coach there and also instructs in some classes, to which he must return, Dean Schott said.

Dean Schott said he did not foresee any immediate calling of the Athletic Advisory Board together for the purpose of naming a coach. However, the meeting of the board, necessary before any final action could be taken, might be held anytime.

cent of the vote for that office with a margin of 1163 ballots.

New All-College officers and the class presidents probably will take their seats on Cabinet the first week in May.

In a statement to Collegian, Davis said, "I'm very happy the election went the way it did, and I pledge myself to support the interests of the students. I'm glad we had a clean campaign on both sides."

Richard Weisberg, chairman of the defeated State clique, said last night that it was "a good election. I hope that the new officers will follow in the footsteps of this year's Cabinet. They can be assured of our party's full support."

It was a "good fight," according to Hugh Stevens, chairman of the Lion clique. "Richie Weisberg is a clean-cut politician, and we hope that everyone will pitch in and help out."

Said Green: "It was a good, clean campaign. I'm sure that Bob (Davis) is well qualified to take the reins of student government."

Morning Voting Slow
Fewer votes were cast yesterday than on Wednesday, when 1900 ballots were cast. Voting was slow in the morning and only 500 more ballots were in by noon. More than 1000 votes were cast in the afternoon.

Chairman William Shade of the All-College elections committee announced the results shortly after 8 p.m.; ballots were counted after the committee conferred with the party heads to hear complaints on the conduct of the election.

Shade said there were no complaints, and no violations of the election code were reported.

Voting Conduct Good
Few voided ballots were reported by Shade, who said he had heard much favorable comment on the conduct of the election.

He said there was unusually high percentage of split ballots.

It was reported that independent men in the dormitory areas were voting in droves and that the trend there definitely was for the Lion party. Turnout of fraternity men also was reported high, but no trend was reported there. A high percentage of students in the tightly-knit School of Agriculture also went to the polls.
