Phone Strikers Ordered To Jam Long Wires

CHICAGO—Striking telephone equipment workers were ordered yesterday, to begin jamming long distances lines by Paul Williams, an official of the CIO Communications Workers of America. Picketing is scheduled to begin tonight in Ohio.

Exchanges in 43 states were struck yesterday, and negotiations in New York were adjourned in the afternoon without apparent progress. Conferences with the long distance operators closed later, without comment from either side.

A union official in Cleveland announced that pickets will surround telephone exchanges in that city at 12:01 Wednesday morning, closing it to operators.

New talks will open at 10:30 this morning in New York to try to solve the Western Electric part of the dispute.

Summon Spy Figures

WASHINGTON—Senator Joseph McCarthy, Owen Lattimore, and Louis Budenz have been summoned to appear before the Senate Committee on Un-American Activities today.

Budenz, who has claimed he knew Lattimore to be a communist party member, will be asked to support his statement, while Lattimore and his original accuser, McCarthy sit in.

McCarthy has charged that Lattimore is the number one red spy in America. He called Budenz, former editor of the Daily Worker, in an attempt to prove the charge.

Discrimination Ruled

The Supreme Court yesterday set aside the murder conviction of a Texas negro who had been indicted by an all-white grand jury. The decision was by a seven-to-one vote.

Lee Casswell had been convicted of the murder of a night watchman in a Dallas robbery. The Court ruled that there had been discrimination in the selection of grand jurors, and that the indictment could not stand.

Five Industries Offer Grants

Five new research projects and fellowships have been established at the College through new agreements by the Trustees with private industries.

Builders-Providence, Inc., has made a grant of $5,000 for work in the field of venturi tubes. The development will be done under the direction of Dr. A. L. Jorissen, associate professor of civil engineering.

Research on the solubility of gas in Bradford crude petroleum will be conducted by Dr. A. W. Gauger, director of Mineral Industries Experiment Station, under a grant of $4,800 by M. D. Booth and Co.

Wolf's Head Oil Refining Co. has granted $1,636 for a research fellowship in the study of properties of Pennsylvania grade crude oils. It will be administered by Dr. Ralph F. Nielson.

The U. S. Golf Association Greens Section has established a research fellowship in the School of Agriculture for a three-year period in the amount of $1,500 per year. H. Burton Musser, professor of agronomy heads the program.

A grant of $2,500 per year for two years has been made by General Motors Corporation for research fellowship in agricultural engineering.

Vent Built For Cupola Ducts

It's a ventilator! This is in answer to the question many students have been asking for the past few weeks after noticing the turret-like cylinder atop the new dining hall in the West Dorms.

That simple answer doesn't explain the complicated maze of the ventilating system of the new hall. The tall metal structure is merely the external end of a "mass of metal ventilating ducts," according to George W. Ebert, Director of the Physical Plant at the College.

The finished product, although still a ventilator, will belie its glamorous function in appearance. Instead of just a gray metal cylinder, extending 34 feet above the dining hall roof, the ventilator outlet, when completed will be a handsome cupola, consisting of 12 wooden columns up the sides, and wooden cornices around the top. Altogether the cupola will be more than 12 feet in diameter.

A maze of ducts leading from every room in the building from the sub-basement to the kitchen, lead into the attic where the ventilating fans are located. From there, the ducts lead up the cupola and out. The fresh air mechanism is also located in the attic.

Guest Rooms Listed by Club

The State College Commerce Club is aiding students to find rooms for their weekend guests.

Students who are expecting guests for the Mother's Day weekend or for the Spring Festival weekend, and wish to locate rooms for them, may see Mrs. E. M. Grove at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, 108 W. College Avenue, between 1 and 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Grove, secretary of the convention and publicity bureau of the chamber of commerce, said she will take reservations for rooms at that time and advance reservations for housing for commencement. The latter will also be taken at a later date.

The Commerce Club established this program of aiding the students to meet their demands for rooms last year. A housing survey of rooms available for weekend guests was conducted by the club. Rooms are assigned on the basis of this survey.

Model Assembly

William Klisanin, sophomore in arts and letters, recently served as president of the 23rd annual Model World Government Assembly at City College of New York.

Composed of students from 59 colleges and universities, "representing" the various member nations of the United Nations General Assembly, the assembly met three days. The College "represented" Poland.

PSCA To Offer Discussions on Fellowship

Three representatives from Philadelphia's Fellowship House will be on campus today and tomorrow, under the sponsorship of P.S.C.A., for the purpose of forming a fellowship group on this campus.

Miss Marjorie Penney, director of Fellowship House, will discuss racial, religious, and international brotherhood at eight o'clock tonight in 304 Old Main.

In addition, Miss Penney will speak at meetings tonight at 6:30 in McAllister and Atherton lounges. These meetings will be conducted by Miss Harriet Treiber and Mr. Herbert Haslam, Fellowship House staff members.

Personal Interviews

Miss Penney, Miss Treiber, and Mr. Haslam will be available for personal interviews in the P.S.C.A. office, 304 Old Main, today from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m., and tomorrow from 9 a.m. until noon.

Appointments may be made by contacting the speakers this evening, or by calling at the P.S.C.A. office.

Fellowship House was opened in Philadelphia in 1941, and now operates 27 projects in the field of racial and religious understanding.

Four other cities have houses patterned after the Philadelphia model, and nine cities use methods originated there.

Won Philadelphia Award

In 1947 Miss Penney received the Philadelphia Award, which is conferred annually on the resident of that area who contributes most towards advancing the aims of the community.

The Friends Committee on Race Relations called Miss Penney the "first executive of a young group whose purpose was to encourage opportunity and equal rights for all."

26 ATA Members Feted at Banquet

Twenty-six members of Alpha Tau Alpha, Ag. Ed. honorary, received keys at the 19th annual banquet held at the Nittany Lion Inn recently. The main speaker was Prof. Franklin C. Banner, head of the journalism department. His subject was "My Impressions of the Antipodes of South Africa."

Five area supervisors of Vocational Agriculture were initiated as active members in the local chapter of ATA.

Dean Lyman Jackson of the Ag School and Professor C. S. Anderson, the chapter's advisor and national ATA president, made the presentation of awards and keys. About 80 members and guests attended.

Vets' Refunds

The College Veterans Administration announced yesterday that the second refund for Vets books will be made from the Bursar's Office tomorrow.

Livestock Show Entries Reach Record Total

The largest number of entries ever recorded for the College annual "Little International" student livestock show have been received by Block and Bridle Club, which will sponsor the show in the Livestock Pavilion Saturday afternoon.

Over 90 students will show animals, 36 of which have been bought recently by the College with a special state legislature fund for the improvement of herds and flocks. Four Percheron and two Belgium mares which won ribbons at the International Show at Chicago will make their first appearance in the "Little International."

Co-chairman of the show, James Pound of Indiana, Pa., and Horace Mann of Clearfield, Pa., expect a large attendance because of the presence of the new champion livestock.

Students showing the animals will be judged for fitting, which includes washing and grooming the animal, and for showing. Professional livestock men will begin judging in the Livestock Pavilion at 1:30 p.m. Each division of beef, swine, sheep, and horses will be divided into classes of age or breed. From the divisional champions a grand champion will be chosen.

To Hold Greased Pig Contest

Special features will be a Greased Pig contest and a Coed Pig derby, according to committee chairman, Joseph Williams. A refreshment stand will be situated in the pavilion.

Co-chairmen for each division have been named by the College chapter of the Block and Bridle Club, national livestock organization. They are as follows: Beef division, George Chick and Sprague Wingard; sheep division, James Waters and Charles Koester; swine division, Harry Davis and Harry Youcum; horse division, Phillip Houston and Ned Swigart.

Catalogue chairman is John Ziegler; awards committee chairman is William King; refreshments and decoration is Mary Jane Myers; Darlene Hoover is in charge of publicity.

Jackson To Speak

Lyman E. Jackson, Dean of the School of Agriculture, will be the principal speaker at a banquet, which will be held Saturday evening, according to committee chairman, Roland Herring. Awards of cash, merchandise, and trophies will be the main feature of the evening.

Special Feature

Betty Zimmerman grooms White Gardenia for Saturday's Little International.

Dorm Gripes To Be Heard

The All-College Cabinet committee set up to investigate the dormitory search by the College during vacation will meet in the student government room tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. to hear complaints.

Dean of Women, Pearl O. Weston, has informed the committee that girls going home on weekends can obtain their articles to take home. However, men must wait until the end of the semester, according to the office of the director of housing.

Articles removed from rooms included hotplates, irons, percolators, and sunlamps. Such articles are forbidden by the contract signed by persons living in the dormitories.
