

75 Seek Positions In West Dorms

About 75 applications have already been received for appointments to the posts of resident advisors in the men's dormitories, according to Prof. G. M. Guthrie, in charge of the program.

Forty applicants will be accepted about May 15. As the plans now stand, there are about 20 advisors in the Nittany-Pollock area and about 20 in the West Dorm area.

Advisors Work

The advisors work will involve an average of 12 to 15 hours each week. In return for this, he receives remission of fees for room and board.

Plans call for resident advisors to be from every school. In this way, Prof. Guthrie said, the advisors will be able to answer questions of the men, or refer them to other advisors who will be able to answer them. The advisor is not expected to take over the role of the academic advisor, but to supplement activities in which the academic advisor is unable to work. The advisors will work in close harmony with various student groups like the AIM and Nittany, Pollock, and West Dorm Councils. The advisors will look to these groups for suggestions.

Graduates Only

In order to be eligible as an advisor, the applicant must be in the graduate school. However, no graduate assistant or half time appointees will be considered. Prof. Guthrie said that is the "the graduate school's policy to aid in employing as many graduate students as possible. It is felt," he continued, "that a graduate student engaged in teaching or research would have too much responsibility and this would interfere with his doing a good job."

In social and sports activities advisors will help in student activities but he will not be the director of these activities.

There will be one advisor for approximately every 90 men. Previously, the resident advisors had about 175 men under their supervision.

LaVie Honors Ex-Coach Higgins

This year's LaVie, the 1950 College yearbook, is dedicated to Bob Higgins, football coach here from 1939 until 1949.

Ramon S. Saul, yearbook editor, announced yesterday that the dedication was made "in recognition of his contributions to the College and to football, first as an All-American player, and later as coach."

The dedication says in part: "The resignation of 'the Hig' as head grid coach on March 12, 1949, drew the curtain of a collegiate career which spanned 35 years. During that time he starred in the end position of the 1914, 1915 and 1919 varsity elevens, gaining All-American honors his last year."

It goes on to recount his years of coaching at West Virginia Wesleyan and Washington Universities, and his appointment as assistant coach under Hugo Bezdek at the College in 1928. He became head coach in 1930.

Higgins is widely-known for the Penn State team that in 1947 won the Lambert trophy and played in the Cotton Bowl on January 1, 1948.

Skull and Bones

Sixth and seventh semester men who wish to be considered for membership in Skull and Bones, senior activities honorary, should leave a complete list of their activities at the Student Union desk in Old Main, Morton Snitzer, president, said yesterday.

Activities lists will be accepted up to 5 p.m. on Monday. Submitting a list for evaluation does not insure membership in the organization, Snitzer added. The action is being taken merely to insure consideration of men meeting requirements who might otherwise be missed.

Inaugural---

James Milholland, acting president of the College, will represent the College and present the key to Davis. Davis will make a short acceptance speech and invite the assemblage up to the room to participate in the open house that is planned. The reception in the room itself will last until late afternoon. Refreshments will be served.

Committee chairmen John Wallace and Harry McMahon

have announced that in case of inclement weather, the ceremonies will be held in the enclosed area in front of Old Main. Regardless of weather conditions, the ceremonies will take place.

The administration and student government officials have joined in asking that as many students as possible turn out to witness the ceremony.

The inauguration of officers will be brief and will enable students to witness the proceedings and still arrive at a 1:10 class on time.

A part of the Blue Band will play several selections beginning at 12:50.

Student Handbook

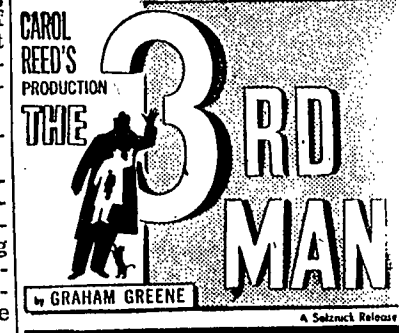

The new Student Government Handbook will be distributed to the incoming freshmen at registration in the Fall, and to the sophomores shortly after, it was decided at the meeting of All-College Cabinet Wednesday night.

The book will be 5 1/2 by 8 1/2 inches in size, and will contain 24 pages on student government and its activities, and ten illustrations which will be informative.

Star Observers To Open Annual Convention Here

The 39th annual Spring Convention of the American Association of Variable Star Observers opens this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Henry L. Yeagly, Associate Professor of Physics and Director of Observations at the College, will lecture on "Terrestrial and Extra-Terrestrial Influences on Bird Navigation" in 119 Osmond tonight.

The telescope making workshop, college planetarium and other astronomical exhibits will be demonstrated; and weather permitting, the two student observatories will also be open.

Technical Session

The technical session will begin tomorrow at 10 a.m., followed by the official luncheon at the Nittany Lion Inn.

The public is invited to attend these events. Tickets for the luncheon are available at the registration desk in Osmond, tomorrow morning.

The Association is international in scope with some 49 active observers in 18 foreign countries and nearly 300 observers in this country. The observations made by these members are most valuable to the major observatories since information is obtained on stellar phenomena not included or scheduled in the busy program of the observatories.

Lorch---

The committee statement reviewed events which have followed the announcement of the dismissal and, in summary, said, "It seems perfectly obvious that the College administration's position is an evasion—a poor excuse for the attempt to throttle the free expression of an individual who has displayed great courage and humanity in fighting against the un-American principle of segregation and discrimination. Such action can only lead encouragement to the enemies of freedom and equality."

"We believe with Dr. Lorch that such action will only result in increased protest against the use of economic sanctions on behalf of the anti-Negro practices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co."

Tom Marier, Washington State College's great third baseman and all Pacific Coast Conference baseball player will be playing pro ball for Terre Haute this season.

Alpha Phi Omega Initiates 37; New Officers Are Installed

Thirty-seven pledges were initiated and new officers were installed at the meeting of the Alpha Beta chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, April 24.

The new officers are James Richards, president; Herbert Axford, vice-president; Richard Peyton, corresponding secretary; Paul Shogren, treasurer; Robert Keys, historian; Robert Zarr, alumni secretary; Frank Pakulski, recording secretary; H. Norton Cope, chairman of the advisory board; and Charles Hosler, faculty advisor.

Business during the meeting included a $25 donation to the Leo Houck Cancer Research Fund; plans to publish a news letter to be sent to members, alumni, and other chapters of Alpha Phi Omega; and plans to enlarge services rendered in infirmary patients.

Buy Refreshments

At present, a member of the fraternity is on hand every evening to buy refreshments for infirmary patients. The men are contacted personally, and nurses take orders from the women.

After the initiation, the new brothers were awarded membership certificates and pins. The new brothers are designated the Pledge Class of Leslie G. McCracken Jr., in honor of the man who reactivated the Alpha Beta chapter in 1948.

The new brothers are D. Craig Aicher, John Beiter, Robert Chilcote, Jerome Clauser, Ralph Craine, George Davis, Blair Green, John Greth, Otto Grupp, Edward Hallman, William Hershey, Cameron Heverly, Robert
