

Five Students Attend Banquet

Dillard E. Bird, national president of S.A.M., was the guest speaker and reported on his recent inspection trip of German industry.

The local chapter elected the following officers at a recent meeting: president, Donald Fogelsanger; 1st. vice-president, Samuel Stinner; 2nd vice-president, George Ruby; secretary-treasurer, Donald Aurand.

The group now conducting a new member drive, and plans are being laid for extensive activities next year. According to Fogelsanger, anyone interested in management may join the group by contacting one of the officers.

the focal point of the sessions has been to seek out a quarterback and to show the boys just how things are done the T-way.

Engle had been counting on lettermen Vince O'Bara and Len Shephard, but the play of Bill Patterson, Dick Koerber, Joe Bonchowski, and Jack Strucher has thrown the battle for the job wide open. Koerber, like O'Bara, Patterson, and Bochowski played the T quarterback spot before, but was not out for practice when the squad was using the single-wing.

Big yardage was reeled off and within the hour eight touchdowns were recorded. Three were tallied by tiny Earl Mundell, who seems to have found himself in the T, and four on passes by Koerber, Shephard, Patterson, and Strucher. Chan Johnson was on the tail end of two of these passes. The sturdy wingback also ran 50 yards for another.

Manpower changes have seen blocking backs John Podrasky, Phil Klocek, and Fred Huston switched to the line.

Track Team ---

kayoes the Penn State record in the process.

In the pole vault the Lions will have vet Ron Coder and soph Owen Wilkinson to do the honors. Coder turned in the best performance of his career against the MSC team last year.

It will be Dick Cripps and Max Schlienger for the Nittany team with Doug Shearer in the shot put and Ted Roderer and Wil Bertrum will throw the javelin.

There is also a possibility that Coach Werner will take one or more of the following athletes as an entry in the meet. They are Ralph Body in the shot put, Lou Gornick in the distance, Bill Polito in the sprints and Gene Griffin in the high jump.

The Lions will have to be at their best to knock off the powerful Spartans but team spirit is high. A win over the Spartans would make any season successful.

Dorm Rates---

given within the letter for the refusal and proceeded to investigate further. Most important of the reasons for refusing the reductions were:

1. Recent declines in the cost of food have been offset by the rising costs of labor and non-food supplies.

2. Rates for room and board compare favorably with those in other land grant colleges.

3. Differentiations in room rates make due allowance for variations in available housing accommodations.

"There is reason to believe," the report reads, "that the cost of food to the College has declined more in the recent months than is indicated by the administration's statement. The price of wholesale food has declined by 17.3 per cent. The College obtains substantial amounts of food from its own farms and it is reasonable to assume that considerable savings are affected by them."

One Raise In Salary
The custodians of the Nittany Dorms have received but one raise in salary, consisting of $8 a month, in January 1949. There have been no salary increases for the other groups employed. It is difficult to conceive how such modest increases in labor costs have offset the substantial declines in the cost of food."

With regard to the second point, the report states that "Penn State's room and board rates compare favorably with the several American land grant colleges and with typical Pennsylvania colleges and universities." The committee agreed that the comparison, rather than being based on the average cost of room and board, should be based on the cost for comparable accommodations."

The committee's report says, in connection with the administration's statement that differentiations in room rates make due allowance for variations in available housing, that the difference in rates, which amounts to $.125 a week, is not a due allowance for the variation in these accommodations.
