Arts Series Offers Dramatic Programs

A series of dramatic programs have been arranged for visitors to the Combined Arts Festival exhibits at the College. The festival will continue until May 14.

A puppet show is to be presented for children by students in art education each evening at 7 and 8 o'clock in the second floor lounge of Old Main. Plays included are "Hansel and Gretel," "Bugs Bunny," "Jack and the Bean Stalk," "Three Bears," and "Snow White."

PSCA Group To Discuss Summer Camp

The Penn State Christian Association will meet in 304 Old Main tonight at 7:30 to discuss the College's role in the annual Camp Michaux Summer conference.

Biddle Atlee, Sue Neuhauser, and Edward Wetherald, who were representatives at the conference last year, will speak, while Laverne Seth and Norman Wheeler will show slides of Camp Michaux life.

Sponsored by the middle Atlantic region of the student Christian associations, Camp Michaux offers opportunities for prayer, Bible study, and religious discussions, and at the same time enables the student to work with Christian Association delegates from other colleges.

Swimming, hiking, and other camp activities are also included. A four-day leadership training school will be held June 5 to June 9 to supplement the conference.

All those interested in attending the conference, to be held at Camp Michaux near Carlisle, Pa. June 9 to June 16, are invited to be present at the meeting.

Delta Sigma Pi Dinner

Delta Sigma Pi, international commerce professional fraternity has scheduled its annual banquet for Tuesday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Allencrest Tea Room.

The organization recently held a social mixer in honor of its newly elected officers and initiates at the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity house. Members of Alpha Kappa Psi, the campus' other commerce professional, were guests at the mixer.

Hurry, Hurry, Hurry! 8 Days To Carnival!

Just as it did last year, Spring Carnival will come again to State College May 18. The streets of town will ring with the cries of frolic-ing students visiting the various booths which will be set up for their entertainment.

A few of the booth ideas are new, but for the most part, organizations are using tried ideas. For example, Sigma Alpha Epsilon is joining forces with Gamma Phi Beta and will sponsor a dance booth in the alley.

If you want to hurry, hurry, hurry, and see a beautiful bevy of girls dancing like you've never seen before, then go to the Kappa Delta Rho follies. A barker, a ticket taker, and several musicians will add to the atmosphere, but don't get fooled about the girls. They're really KDR boys in disguise.

'Crittter Crawl'

Delta Delta Delta and Delta Tau Delta is another combination. They have decided to attract the carnival goers with the "Crittter Crawl," a racing pastime. For your money, you get to race mice, cockroaches and what not. Prizes will be awarded for the winning racer, naturally.

Feel destructive? Then go to the Phi Gamma Delta booth and throw baseballs through windows. Safety glass is used, but it will break if hit right. Prizes here too.

Candy eaters will throng to the Beta Sigma Rho booth and "Clothe the Peanut Chew." You

The entire program is open to the public.

The division of dramatics has scheduled a series of short dramatic programs which also are being presented in the second floor lounge. The programs are presented daily at 12:40, 4:30, and 8:30 p.m. in the second floor lounge of Old Main.

"Myths and Masks," a program by art education students, will be presented at 1:10 and 2 p.m. today in the Little Theater.

Myths included in the production are "The Sun, the Wind, and the Traveler," "The Creation of the World," "Cupid and Psyche," and "Pandora's Box."

The students, who are directed by Sybil Emerson, will use masks they have made in art education classes.

Tickets for "Romeo and Juliet" are still available at Student Union. The Shakespearean tragedy will be presented tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday nights at 8 p.m. in Schwab Auditorium.

The Modern Dance Group of the College, consisting of 18 girls, will present the annual spring concert tomorrow, Thursday, and Saturday in White Hall. "Terpsichore's Hat Box" in the theme of the first group of dances.

Collegian Names 11 To Soph Board

Eleven candidates have been promoted to the sophomore editorial board of The Daily Collegian, Dean Gladfelder, editor, announced yesterday.

They are: Bernard Ames, Patricia Duncan, Greta Dunsmore, Florenz Fenton, Raymond Galant, Jack Garretson-Butt, Robert Lambert, John Mounts, Margot Selig, Shirley Vandever, and Greta Weaver.

pays your money and throws an old hat at candy lying on a counter. The candy you cover becomes yours.

B-B Guns
Bang, bang, bang, at the Alpha Chi Sigma booth. Little thingummies go round and round, and you sit and bang away at them with B-B guns. A stroke of sheer genius was shown when this deal was named the "Shooting Gallery."

"Clothe the Esquire Girl." It sounds silly, and nobody in their right mind would want to do it, but that is the name of The Daily Collegian booth. Actually, it's not too different from Pin the Tail on the Donkey.

Roll-a-Bowl-a-Ball at the Delta Upsilon booth. You bowl coconuts down a miniature bowling alley, but that ain't all. It seems that a whole bunch of DU brothers and pledges will be hanging around, and if you bowl-a-ball down the alley just right, a quart can of water will be tipped over and get them all wet.

Largest Street Carnival To Feature Spring Week

Candidate . . .

Prof. Arthur H. Reede

Prevent Strife, Reede Urges In Platform

A preventative approach to labor-management strife is the program of Arthur H. Reede, professor of economics, who is a candidate for the Democratic party's Congressional nomination in next week's primaries.

Reede's plan contains three points. The first is to encourage more collective bargaining while reducing government interference.

Secondly, Reede asks for a stronger mediation-conciliation service to keep conferences going or to assure their resumption should they be closed.

Thirdly, he suggests finding a practicable means for dealing with the few disputes which are likely to reach the stage of public emergency.

Attacks T-H Law

In presenting his stand, Reede attacked the Taft-Hartley law which, he said, "has put the cart before the horse." He said the law deals too much with the third point without providing the practicable means needed. On the first two points, he added, it is either negative or disappointing.

With the primary less than a week away, Reede is continuing his comprehensive coverage of the district. He has given numerous talks, both political and non-political, all over the three counties comprising the district. On Sunday, he will speak in Italian before the Sons of Italy in Clearfield. Service Held For Fred L. Pattee

Memorial services for Dr. Fred Lewis Pattee, author of the lyrics for the Penn State "Alma Mater," will be held in St. Paul's Methodist Church, State College, this evening at 7:30. The Rev. Frank Montgomery will officiate.

Dr. Pattee died at his winter home in Winter Park, Fla., Saturday. A member of St. Paul's Church for more than 50 years, he joined the State College Church in 1895, and removed his letter to Winter Park in 1947.

Assisting in the service will be John Taylor, speaking on Dr. Pattee's church relationships; Miss Julia Brill, on his appreciation for the recent gift sent him by State College friends; Mrs. R. U. Blasingame on his literary career; and a prayer by R. D. Casselberry.

Town, College Jointly Sponsor Day's Events

The "Town and Gown Carnival," the largest street carnival ever to be held in State College, will feature the 1950 Spring Week, which opens next Wednesday.

The Carnival, jointly sponsored by All-College Cabinet and the State College Drum and Bugle Corp, will begin at 2 p.m. on Thursday, May 18, and run until 11 p.m.

Two Councils Elect Officers

Two student councils elected officers this week as leaders for the coming year. Council presidents hold seats on All-College Cabinet, highest student government legislative body.

Miller Heads Engineers

Raymond Miller was elected president of the Engineering Student Council Monday night. Other officers elected were, John Frantz, vice-president; Lawrence Schniepp, secretary; and Bernard Gutterman, treasurer. Professor Lawrence Perez was unanimously re-elected as faculty advisor.

Along with his newly acquired honor of president of the Engineering Student Council, Miller is also president of the Scarabs', illustration editor of the Penn State Engineer, and treasurer of Sigma Tau honorary.

L.A. Chooses Shanken

The Liberal Arts Student Council elected the following officers at a meeting held this week:

President, Edward Shanken; vice-president, Edwin Lefkowitz; secretary-treasurer, Regina Williams.

Shanken is a recent tappee of Androcles, new junior hat society, and a member of the business junior board of Collegian.

This week's meeting, the last held with the old officers of the council, also heard reports from the old council's committees.

Counselors' Jobs Open To Students

Upper classmen interested in serving as counselors for Fall Orientation Week can make application for the position in the office of the Dean of Men, it was announced yesterday by Wilmer E. Kenworthy, assistant to the president in charge of student affairs. Kenworthy is chairman of the Orientation Week committee.

Students employed in the program will be trained and supervised by the office of the Dean of Men, Kenworthy said. In the past, the program was under the direction of the PSCA.

The PSCA has done a fine job with the program, Kenworthy said, but a mutual agreement has been reached that the program was more properly a function of the College.

"The PSCA will continue in many ways with the program, as it has in the past," Kenworthy said.

Spanish Club

Circulo Espanol elected the following officers for next year at a meeting held last week: president, Norman Duffy; vice-president, Patricia Bender; secretary, Nancy Hentz; treasurer, Peter Raidy; publicity chairman, Toni Seitz; refreshments, Soledad Perez.

Carnival Site

The Carnival will occupy S. Allen street from College avenue to Beaver avenue and also E. Beaver from Allen to the alley next to Woodring's Floral Shop. This is a substantial space increase over last year's Carnival layout.

Already more than 50 organizations have submitted booth applications to the Spring Week committee and plans for the individual booth positions are being formulated right now. The booths will feature every type of carnival entertainment in addition to soft drink and food stands.

Everything from girlie shows to games of skill and strength will be featured in the Carnival. Many of the same booths that made last year's Carnival so successful will be included in next week's "Town and Gown Carnival." But also there are many new and novel innovations for this year's affair.

To List Booths

Starting today, The Daily Collegian will carry on the front page, news of the booths of the various organizations entered in the Carnival.

A huge success last year, the Carnival will be even larger this year as a result of the merging of the College Spring Carnival and the State College Drum and Bugle Carnival, which had previously been scheduled for the same street space. This combination has resulted in the "Town and Gown Carnival," one huge affair benefiting from the cooperation of both the College and town groups.

Money from booths of campus organizations will be donated to the Campus Chest, and profits from the Bugle Corp booths will be turned over to the corp training fund.

Advance Sale

Robert Gabriel, member of the College Spring Week committee, reported that advance tickets for the Carnival will go on sale Friday. (Continued on page two)

Truman Raps Republicans

CASPER, Wyoming—President Truman, in a speech here recalled the Republican Tea Pot Dome oil scandal of the twenties. He pointed out the contrast between the Democratic approach to the use of natural resources and the anti-Democratic approach.

In Washington, Senators James D. Kern, (R.-Mo.), and Homer Ferguson, (R.-Mich.), have charged that there is strong evidence of fraud in every election in Missouri that Mr. Truman has won, and that greed and privilege have prospered under the Truman administration.

Assails McCarthy

WASHINGTON—Senator William Benton has called Senator James McCarthy, "A talented propagandist of the Soviet type." Senator Benton said: "McCarthy doesn't argue. . . He doesn't answer. . . He doesn't reason. . . He hits and runs"
